G. O. P. CAUCUS PICKS CROSS AS HOUSE SPEAKER

Benson Will Direct Party in Senate.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Page 2.)

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Two young men, each 42 years old, were chosen tonight to lead the Republican bloc in the 61st Illinois assembly.

Hugh W. Cross, a Jerseyville attorney, was chosen by the Republican caucus for speaker of the house. Arnold P. Benson, a newspaper publisher of Batavia, was picked to direct the minority in the senate.

Republicans, having 79 members in the house, will have two votes more than a majority when the roll is called tomorrow on the speakership, so it is considered certain that Cross will be elected.

Cross defeated Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago in the house caucus fight, polling forty-nine votes on roll call—nine more than necessary to control the meeting.

Choice Is Made Unanimous.

Schnackenberg was floor leader during the 1937 session. As the roll call ended, he moved that the nomination of Cross be made unanimous. His motion was approved with a roar of applause.

Cross' selection was made possible by a coalition of seventeen Cook county representatives and thirty-two from downstate. Schnackenberg polled five Cook county votes and twenty-three from downstate.

Two members voted for Robert J. Branson of Centralia, although his name was not placed in nomination. These complimentary votes were cast by Leroy M. Green, former floor leader, and David Hunter, both of Rockford.

Abandoning a custom they observed when they controlled the house prior to 1931, the Republicans did not name a floor leader tonight. They decided before taking the vote on speaker that the successful candidate for that office could name his own floor general.

Saltiel May Be Floor Leader.

After his selection Cross said he will consider the floor leadership for at least a week. He indicated he will name the leader when he announces membership of the house committees.

High among the list of possibilities for this office is the name of Edward P. Saltiel of Chicago, a protégé of Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court.

Some responsible leaders feel that an effort will be made to induce Schnackenberg to accept the post. Schnackenberg is the acknowledged superior of most of his colleagues in parliamentary technique.

Gossip on probable house committee chairmanships placed Representative Branson as head of appropriations—the most important committee. Hugh Green of Jacksonville, who was chairman of the caucus, is said to be in line for chairmanship of the judiciary committee, and Fred W. Rennick of Buda for the committee on elections.

Forecasts 1940 Victory.

Cross, in accepting the caucus tender of the speakership, declared that the Republican majority, by its actions during the impending sessions, can place Illinois in the Republican column in 1940.

G. O. P. members should realize, he said, that 20 per cent of the population of the state is dependent. The worthy needy must be protected, but the unworthy must be purged, he declared.

"If we adopt a sound policy of old age pensions, we will do the state of Illinois a great favor," he concluded.

Benson's selection as senate Republican leader was without a contest. He was nominated by the dean of the senate, Richard J. Barr of Joliet.

Democrats Pick Leaders.

Senate Democrats picked George M. Maypole of Chicago as president pro tempore, and Harold G. Ward, Mayor Edward J. Kelly's legislative spokesman, for floor leader. Maypole will preside over the senior chamber, while Lieut. Gov. John Stelle serves as acting governor during Gov. Henry Horner's illness.

Benjamin S. Adamowski, another young man still in his thirties, was named Democratic floor leader in the house. He was floor leader during the 1935 and 1937 sessions.

WISE OLD TOWSER

Bandit Robs 55 to Pay for Night Life and Sports

By day Ben Ford was an avid athlete and sportsman. He spent his time horseback riding in the park, swimming in a gymnasium, bicycle riding, hunting, fishing, shooting on a target range, or learning to fly.

By night, fortified with liquor and armed with one of his guns, he turned to crime. He committed fifty-five robberies in five months. The money from his holdups went to impress cabaret hostesses to whom he posed as a rich man's son.

That was the Jekyll-Hyde career of Anthony Haidalovech, alias Haidal, but who has been known mostly as Ben Ford. He resumed his crime career after being paroled from the Pontiac reformatory. Ford, 24 years old, handsome and well muscled, described it in detail last night to Sergt. John Hanrahan.

Shot in Back by Policeman.

Ford is in the Bridewell hospital, critically wounded by a bullet in the back. He was shot early yesterday by Policeman Oliver Hodges while resisting arrest in front of the 5100 club at 5100 Broadway.

Hodges, off duty and in plain clothes, was inside with his wife. Among the other patrons were Ford and John Schoenberg, 1732 Juneway terrace. Schoenberg recognized Ford as one of the two men who robbed his liquor store of $300 on Sept. 19. He told Hodges, whom he knew.

Hodges waited outside. When Ford appeared the policemen seized him. Ford struck Hodges in the jaw and fled. Hodges fired three warning shots and then felled Ford with a bullet in the back.

Ford had been sought since October when two pals, Arthur and Walter Stafford, brothers, were captured. Each is serving two concurrent terms of one year to life. But before they went to prison the Staffords directed Sergt. Hanrahan to Ford's room.

Pistols Found in Room.

There the sergeant found two pistols, three rifles, and an old civil war ball pistol in good working order. He also found riding boots and breeches and hunting equipment. Ford said last night he often got up early in the morning to go horseback riding.

It kept him fit for late hours at night in cabarets and taverns.

Ford had been learning to fly at the Ashburn airport, 83d street and Cicero avenue, police said.

Ford said he served two years in Pontiac reformatory and was discharged from parole last February.

A SPIDER LAYS DOWN ITS LIFE, BUT TIES UP TRAFIC ON RAILROAD

Boone, Ia., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The spider crawled through a crack in the glass container on a train control device, spinning a web between the contact points and putting the instrument out of commission. As a result three North Western trains were halted today. When trainmen located the trouble they found the spider starved to death.

3 KITTENS UPSET THE BALANCE IN BURGLARY LOSS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaw of 3105 Mango avenue are trying to balance their profit and loss on a burglary. The question is whether the loss of $15 is equaled by the gain of three kittens.

Mrs. Gaw discovered, when she returned home yesterday, that thieves had entered her home through a kitchen transom. After ransacking the place and getting the money, they departed, leaving the kitchen door ajar.

Jill, the Gaws' cat, who hadn't been allowed to enter the house, found the door open and promptly took advantage of the situation. She carried in the three kittens, which she had kept under a neighbor's porch, and installed them in a pantry. Mrs. Gaw said she probably would let them stay.

THIS MIGHT HAVE BEEN O. K. IF HIS WIFE HAD QUINTS

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 3.—(AP)—William Druin told Federal Judge Phillip Forman today that he bought ten gallons of contraband liquor to celebrate his fatherhood.

"You say your wife had only one child?" asked the judge.

"Yes, sir," replied Druin.

"Well, such a liquor supply is enough to celebrate quintuplets, at least," said the judge. He ordered Druin to pay a $40 tax.

New Iowa Official Takes Over Office with Prayer

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Earl G. Miller, Iowa's first Republican secretary of state since 1932, opened his administration with prayer today. Fifteen employés of the motor vehicle department, under Miller's supervision, who were discharged this morning, did not participate.

Windsor Plans to Visit Home Without Wife

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The duke of Windsor today was reported to have bowed to the will of the British royal family and agreed to visit his homeland in March without his wife.

Reliable quarters reported this decision. However, no one knew whether it would remain final or whether friends of the duke would continue their campaign for public recognition of the duchess and attempt to persuade the royal family to receive her along with Edward.

These friends were undismayed by the absence of a promotion to rank of "her royal highness" for the duchess in the New Year's honor list of King George VI. They expressed the hope that official royal status might yet be granted to the former Wallis Warfield.

See Windsor's Fight Lost.

There were those who asserted that Edward's reported decision to go to England without his wife signified he had lost his long fight for her recognition by the royal family.

They were reminded, however, that the duke might decide personally to petition for his brother's royal favor when he and the king meet the first time since he announced his abdication and went to France on Dec. 10, 1936.

Arrangements for the visit, it was pointed out, fit in as a prelude to the Canadian-American tour of King George and Queen Elizabeth, the departure of the duke and duchess of Kent for Australia where Kent will become governor general, and Queen Mother Mary's 72d birthday on May 26.

[A dispatch telling of the British rulers' itinerary on their visit to Canada and the United States in May and June appears on page 11.]

Queen Mary in Good Health.

Authoritative sources denied reports that the duke was hastening his visit because of anxiety concerning the condition of the queen mother's heart. Officials said she was in the best of health.

The duke is expected to see his mother first when he comes home. When members of the family or government officials have returned from Paris after seeing the duke she always commanded immediate reports on his welfare.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, and the duke and duchess of Gloucester recently returned from such visits. The Windsors are now on the French Riviera at the Villa la Croe at Cap d' Antibes.

SENATE TOLD OF RELIEF CORRUPTION; OUSTER OF MME. PERKINS DEMANDED

Political Spending Bared by Sheppard Committee.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The report of the Sheppard committee on campaign expenditures sustaining many charges of the employment of reliefers and funds in behalf of Democratic candidates for office and revealing other irregularities fell like a bombshell upon congress today.

Senator Sheppard.

The unanimous findings of the committee, consisting of four Democrats and one Republican gave the Roosevelt administration one of the severest jolts it has experienced and presaged consequences of a varied and far reaching character. Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] is chairman of the committee.

Disclosure of the extent to which the New Dealers have used WPA appropriations as political campaign funds gave fresh impetus to the drive for returning control of relief administration to the states accompanied by legislation penalizing "the playing of politics with human misery."

Responsibility Up to Hopkins.

Although the committee did not directly blame Harry L. Hopkins for political manipulation of the Works Progress administration from which the President last month transferred him to the cabinet as secretary of commerce, it sustained many charges he had pronounced baseless and left his responsibility for the conditions to be inferred.

Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader of the senate, gave notice that he would move reference of the report to the commerce committee in connection with consideration of confirmation of the appointment of Mr. Hopkins to the cabinet.

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader who was absolved by the committee of knowledge of the use of WPA workers and funds to aid his renomination, will seek reference of the report to the privileges and elections committee.

Political Use Condemned.

Summing up its inquiry into WPA irregularities the committee said:

"There has been in several states, and in many forms, unjustifiable political activity in connection with the Works Progress administration in such states.

"The committee believes that funds appropriated by the congress for the relief of those in need and distress have been in many instances diverted from these high purposes to political ends. The committee condemns this conduct and recommends to the senate that legislation be prepared to make impossible, so far as legislation can do so, further offenses of this character."

The committee singled out for special rebuke Aubrey Williams, the radically minded deputy Works Progress administrator, whom the President has just transferred to the Youth administration. Williams in a speech to the relief workers' lobby said: "We got to stick together. We've got to keep our friends in power."

Hits Political Coercion.

Pronouncing this "an unfortunate statement," the committee said it believes "that where a supervisory official addresses an audience of the employés under him or composed mainly of such employés and urges a certain political line of action, he uses a form of coercion contrary to public policy and the spirit of our government."

The committee recommended legislation prohibiting political contributions by reliefers or administrators and prohibiting relief administrators to use their "official authority or influence to coerce the political action of any person or body." Discharge of or discrimination against reliefers for political reasons the committee would punish as a felony.

UNCLE SAM PAYS FOR GAY PARTIES ON U. S. VESSEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 3.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Gay parties given on a government vessel by department of commerce officials and their relatives and friends—with Uncle Sam paying all the expenses—were described today in the annual report to congress by Acting Controler General R. N. Elliott.

One of the party givers was Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the secretary of commerce, who resigned recently.

The vessel is the Eala, belonging to the bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection. Elliott asserted that for six months beginning Nov. 1, 1934, the boat was used almost exclusively for unauthorized purposes such as the parties. The annual cost of operating the Eala was $19,773.96, and Elliott estimated that at least $9,506.72 was not properly chargeable to the government.

False Vouchers Alleged.

Discussing alleged falsification of records, Elliott said: "Such items as Poland water, flowers, cigars, cigarets, etc., purchased for members of parties were vouchered as paint, provision, or supplies in some instances, and were paid from the appropriation [for steamboat inspection]."

Even before the start of the six months' period, the report said, the Eala was used on thirteen occasions as a floating pleasure palace. At times she was called out of authorized activities lest the party giving officials be forced to pay for their own transportation.

Quotations from the log of the vessel were included in the report. Some of them follow:

"July 21 [1934], Annapolis, received order to proceed to Washington. Party boarded vessel 11:35 a. m. en route to Colonial beach. Party consisted of Asst. Dickinson [John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce] and guests.

Party for Races Revealed.

"Sept. 22, Washington, Secretary Roper and party boarded Eala at 12:15 p. m. Sailed to Georgetown channel to attend races. Party left vessel 5:35 p. m.

"July 27, Washington, Miss Renn [Margie G. Renn, Roper's secretary] and her guests had party on the Eala.

"Aug. 17, Washington, making ready for party. Party consisting of Mrs. Roper and seven guests boarded vessel 3 p. m., arriving Colonial beach 5:50 p. m., Aug. 18. Returned to Washington where party left vessel 3 p. m., 19th."

The acting controler general figured that the weekly cost of operating the Eala was $380.26. Official circles were speculating tonight on whether the government would move to have the gay party throwers pay for their fun aboard the ship.

Dies Report Shows Deportation Laws Not Enforced.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A resolution for the impeachment of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will be laid before the house of representatives. It will be based on evidence submitted to congress today of "unbelievable laxity" in the labor department's enforcement of the deportation laws.

Rep. Parnell Thomas.

That was announced by Representative Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.] after the Dies house committee, of which he is a member, placed on the speaker's desk a 40,000 word report on its five month investigation of un-American activities.

Thomas said he would introduce the impeachment resolution within a week and that he would cite specific cases of Secretary Perkins' failure to carry out the laws in deporting aliens known to be plotting to overthrow the government.

Asks Continuance of Inquiry.

Despite the length and detail of its report, the committee headed by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.] declared that it had only scratched the surface in its inquiry into the subversive activities of groups inspired by the communist, Nazi, or Fascist ideologies.

The committee asked that the investigation be authorized to continue for two more years and for $150,000 to finance a thorough inquiry. The members complained that they had been hampered by a comparatively small appropriation of $25,000 and the refusal of the Roosevelt administration to lend the slightest assistance to the inquiry despite the specific request of congress that investigators and clerical help be supplied from government departments.

The report recited at length the facts concerning the failure of the labor department to deport Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. organizer, and other aliens engaged in activities aimed at the governmental structure of the United States.

Factor in Un-American Activities.

"We believe that the failure of the labor department to carry out the laws with respect to deportation is a contributing factor to the widespread activities and propaganda carried on by un-American elements in the United States," the committee members declared.

"A large part of un-American activities is inspired by these communists, Nazis, and Fascists who are aliens. Some of them are direct representatives and agents of foreign governments. Some of them occupy important positions in other organizations and are able to wield considerable political influence.

"There is no excuse for the failure of the labor department to deport these aliens. In the record of these hearings will be found considerable evidence, arguments, and citations of legal authorities which, in our judgments, definitly establish that the department of labor is without justification in postponing deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges.

Proof of Laxity.

"The laxity with which the department of labor deals with alien agitators would be unbelievable if we did not have before us the most convincing proof.

"We believe that a more thorough and careful investigation will reveal the presence of scores of Fascist, Nazi, and communist aliens who could and should be deported if the department of labor would proceed against them in accordance with the laws of the land. A large part of the espionage and propaganda carried on in this country can be directly traced to this failure of the labor department to enforce the law."

Secretary Perkins was severely censured in the report, along with President Roosevelt, Harry L. Hopkins, now secretary of commerce, former Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, for hampering the work of the committee and for "deliberate misrepresentation" of the committee's activities.

The National Labor Relations board also came in for scathing comment. The committee referred to views written in a communist magazine by David J. Saposs, chief economist of the board, in which Saposs declared that the capitalistic system could not survive and that action must be taken by communists to hasten its destruction.

"This committee believes that the NLRB should be subjected to a thorough investigation for the purpose of determining to what extent the members of the board and its employés approve of the communist views expressed by Saposs," the report read.

Invade WPA Theater Project.

The communists have invaded a third government agency, the Works Progress administration, the report declared.

"From the testimony we neard," the report stated, "we are convinced that a rather large number of the employés on the federal theater project of the WPA are either members of the communist party, or are sympathetic with the communist party.

"It is also clear that certain employés felt under compulsion to join the Workers' Alliance of America [communist organization of WPA employés] in order to retain positions. The evidence is very clear that certain employés carried on communistic activities openly in the federal writers project."

The communists have been more successful than the other alien groups in an invasion of the government structure, the report found.

"Communism has penetrated the government," the committee declared, "with the result that some communists hold key positions in federal agencies and projects."

Criticism for Murphy.

Without being named directly, the new attorney general of the United States, former Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, received the committee's criticism.

The committee received testimony that the then governor blocked enforcement of a court injunction in 1937 which could have terminated sitdown strikes. There was additional evidence that the governor refused to take action to prevent the riots which occurred during the famous "Lansing holiday" of that year. Crowds assembled at the state capital, closed stores and marched on the state college.

"A courageous stand on the part of all public officials involved with reference to the sitdown strikes and the Lansing holiday incident would have prevented these disgraceful occurrences," the report stated. "There would have been avoided the loss of millions of dollars to both labor and capital which resulted from the stoppage of work and the inability of thousands of employés to work.

Called Un-American Technique.

"This committee feels it would be derelict in its duty to the people if it did not denounce this lawlessness as distinctly and clearly un-American. The sitdown strike technique was largely imported from abroad and was put into effect in this country for the purpose of paralyzing industry and producing a revolution.

"It would be hard to estimate the total loss suffered by the nation as a result of the numerous acts of violence and lawlessness that occurred during this period. Most of it can be attributed to the activities of the communists in instigating and conducting unauthorized strikes and sitdown strikes."

Presenting a series of findings, based on the evidence it received concerning the communist party in the United States, the committee reported:

1. The communist party of the United States is an integral part of a world revolutionary movement for proletarian internationalism. It is under the direct control of the Third International which has its headquarters in Moscow. It looks upon Russia as the "fatherland of the revolutionary workers" and cannot therefore claim any degree of loyalty to the American form of government.

Aims to Set Up Dictatorship.

2. It seeks ultimately the overthrow of the American form of government as established by the constitution. It aims to set up a dictatorship of the proletariat in this country, notwithstanding its present tactical silence on this fundamental tenet of communism.

3. It hides behind civil liberties in pursuing ends which will destroy civil liberties for all but the ruling few of the proletarian dictatorship. It is unusually active in our schools. It is boring from within the two major political parties but during the next two years will concentrate much of its effort in the formation of a national Farmer-Labor party which it will seek to dominate.

[In this latter connection, the committee reported that the evidence indicated "very clearly that the communists had succeeded in penetrating the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota and seizing many strategic positions"].

4. It is boring from within labor unions on a large scale. It deliberately provokes violence in labor disputes. It seeks to sabotage and cripple our economy on every possible front, with a view to its profiting by the resulting economic crises.

"Communists have seized strategic positions in certain unions affiliated with the C. I. O.," the committee reported. "With the American Federation of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods combating communism the emergence of the C. I. O. presented an opportunity for Russia."

The largest of the communist "front" movements in the United States, the committee reported, is the American League for Peace and Democracy, formerly known as the League Against War and Fascism. Second in size and importance is the Workers' Alliance of America. Others are the Friends of the Soviet Union, the International Workers' order, the American Student union, and the National Negro congress.

While unable to state definitly on the evidence gathered that the Civil Liberties union could properly be classed as a communist organization, the committee urged the investigation of this organization.

Reports on Nazi Organizations.

Reporting on the strength of Nazi organizations in the United States, the committee found that about 25,000 persons are active members of the German-American bunds and about 100,000 persons are "willing to be seen" at public bund demonstrations.

The evidence definitly indicated that the German consulates in the United States have been the clearing house for much Nazi activity here, the report stated.

Fritz Kuhn, bund leader, told a committee investigator, according to testimony, that he had a special secret arrangement with Adolf Hitler and had the power of an ambassador to this country.

Italian consulates also assist in the spreading of Fascist propaganda in the United States and the encouragement of such organizations as the Italian Black Shirts.

Taft Welcomed to Senate

Mother Sees Ceremony

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Capitol historians said attendance of Mrs. William Howard Taft at the seating of her son Robert in the senate today marked the first time in 136 years the wife of a former President had seen her son so honored. In 1803 Mrs. John Adams saw her son, John Quincy Adams, take the senate oath. Mrs. Taft is the widow of the former President and United States chief justice.

G. O. P. PONDERS INDIANA BALLOT FRAUD EVIDENCE

Angola, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Evidence of fraud in the Nov. 8 election gathered by the Republican state committee will be reviewed this week to determine whether it is sufficient to justify a contest before the United States senate over the seat of Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.].

This was announced here tonight by Raymond E. Willis, Republican nominee in the Indiana senatorial contest. Willis said the action of the Democratic controled state Supreme court today in denying a rehearing on its injunction which prohibited recount actions started in counties where frauds were suspected has the effect of preventing disclosure of the frauds that the Republican organization believes took place.

"We had depended on those recounts for our principal evidence," said Willis. "We will survey the evidence already gathered in the next few days. If we think it sufficient we will ask the senate committee on privileges and elections to conduct a recount."

HOLD TEACHERS' VACATIONS NOT INHERENT RIGHT

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—City school teachers do not have an inherent right to their long summer vacations, the Appellate division of the Supreme court informed the board of education in a ruling today. This vacation privilege is granted by the board and is subject solely to the board's regulations, the court held.

The case was that of Mrs. Marion L. Juddson, a high school teacher, who brought suit against the board, claiming that she should be paid for a summer's vacation which was included in a payless maternity leave that teacher-mothers are required to take when a child is born.

Hundreds of women teachers are affected by the decision. In the case of the higher paid instructors the vacation pay amounts to $800 or more. Thus the decision saves the board of education a sizeable sum, school officials said.

GUN TOTER LOCKED UP.

Central police locked up Bruno Murka, 32 years old, 1035 North Hermitage avenue, for investigation last night when they found a revolver in his possession in a tavern near Dearborn and Madison streets, where he had made a disturbance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today disclosed himself as reluctant to submit the recess reappointment of Donald W. Smith to the national labor relations board to the senate on Thursday and thus bring on a fight with the new congress.

In the last few days it has become evident that the senate would not approve the recess appointment of Smith, who is known as an echo of John L. Lewis, dictator of the C. I. O.

At his press conference today Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether Smith's name would be among the recess appointments to be submitted for confirmation on Thursday. The President said he didn't know.

Roosevelt Isn't Telling.

Asked if this meant that Smith's name was not to be submitted, he said he didn't know. Asked if this meant that Smith's name would not be submitted, he repeated that he didn't know.

Puzzled reporters attempted to pin the President down to a definite statement as to whether or not Smith's name will be submitted or will be withdrawn in a further broadside of questions. They failed.

It was evident from the President's manner that he has not made up his mind when he will make his first test with congress in which Republicans and conservative Democrats hold the balance of power. It was believed at the White House that Mr. Roosevelt would await reaction to his message on the state of the union, which he will deliver tomorrow.

50 Votes Against Smith.

Meanwhile, at the capital the belief was that the President would back down and avoid a test on this issue. Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] said he could count on 50 votes against Smith.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who attempted to block Smith's reappointment last August, has predicted that Smith never will be confirmed. Green said he has written promises of 60 votes against the labor board member.

Smith, a former Pennsylvania lawyer, was appointed to the $10,000 a year post two and a half years ago, to fill out the unexpired term of John Carmody. He was reappointed last Aug. 26. Smith is a protégé of Senator Joseph P. Guffey, Democratic boss of Pennsylvania, who was made by Lewis.

ROB HOTEL CLERK OF $204.

A hatless bandit locked John Hogan, night clerk, out of the Diversey Arms hotel 644 Diversey parkway, after robbing him of $204 last night. After taking the money the robber pushed Hogan through a door into an alley, which latched automatically. Then the bandit fled through the front door.

SENATE REPORT REFERS TO WPA CHARGES HERE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Sheppard committee report on WPA political corruption today called attention to employment of 450 additional men in Cook county, Illinois, on a highway crew prior to the state primary. "Some seventy of these men did no highway work at all during the period they were on the rolls," it added, "but upon reporting for work were instructed to go back to their respective precincts and canvass them in behalf of the Horner-Courtney-Lucas ticket."

G. O. P. ASKS CUT IN U. S. COSTS AS CONGRESS OPENS

Pledges Aid in Reducing New Deal Waste.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Seventy-sixth congress convened today, set up its working structure and then recessed until tomorrow, when President Roosevelt's annual message will start the lawmakers on their legislative tasks.

The routine was cut and dried in both houses. Representative William B. Bankhead of Alabama was reelected speaker of the house by a vote of 250 to 167 over his Republican opponent, Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts. Martin thereupon became minority leader.

The senate took only thirty minutes to swear in new members. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and Charles L. McNary of Oregon were reëlected as majority and minority leaders, respectively.

Expenditure Cut Proposed.

McNary immediately offered to cooperate with the Democrats in the matter of reducing federal expenditures.

"The unbroken voice of the Republican conference," he said, "was that we will coöperate with any group in an effort to decrease government expenditures without doing injustice to those in distress or in need of relief."

Speaker Bankhead received applause from both sides in the house when he called upon both Democrats and Republicans, without regard for partisanship, to "protect our constitutional form of government."

There were about 100 new faces in the house, 80 of them Republicans and 13 new senators, 8 Republicans and 5 Democrats.

Party Lineup Is Shown.

Following is the lineup of the 76th congress, compared with its predecessor:

SENATE.

	New	Old
Democrats	69	77
Republicans	23	15
Farmer-Laborites	2	2
Progressives	1	1
Independents	1	1

HOUSE.

	New	Old
Democrats	261	328
Republicans	169	88
Progressives	3	7
Farmer-Laborites	1	5
American Labor	1	0
Vacancies	1	7

The vexatious problem of dividing the house committeeships between Republicans and Democrats was finally worked out today. The two parties are to be awarded places on the various committees on a 60-40 basis in favor of the Democrats. At the previous session the ratio was 2 to 1.

There were two exceptions to this agreement. On the large appropriations committee, which prepares all spending bills, the membership was increased to 40. Democrats will have 25 seats and Republicans 15. The rules committee, which handles the legislative program, will have 10 Democrats to only 4 Republicans, the same as last session.

LEGISLATURE AT WORK MINUS MEMBER LIST

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Thirty-eight members of the Nebraska unicameral legislature, only one of its kind in the United States, today twiddled their thumbs for two hours while the credentials committee frantically hunted for a certified list of members.

The committee started after the list at noon, reported back an hour later that there was "no one in the secretary of state's office to certify the list," then dashed away again.

An hour later the committee wandered back into the house chamber to report it had learned no such list was needed. Then the legislature went to work.

GOV. VANDERBILT PLEDGES RETURN TO CONSTITUTION

Misrule in Rhode Island to End Quickly.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Pledging restoration of constitutional government in the state, William H. Vanderbilt this afternoon was inaugurated forty-third governor of Rhode Island. He is a Republican.

A few hours earlier Gov. Robert E. Quinn packed up his papers and quit the state house. Quinn, ruthless Democratic dictator of the nation's smallest state, will be long remembered as the governor who sent troops into Narragansett race track to oust the managing director and his political foe, Walter E. O'Hara. Quinn was defeated by 40,000 votes in November.

Promises Quick Cleanup.

In his inaugural address Vanderbilt steered clear of any reference to the Narragansett horse park. But the new governor, who is 37 years old, touched on other phases of the Quinn dictatorship which he proposes to liquidate as rapidly as possible. The throng that packed the tiny assembly chamber roared approval.

First on the reconstruction program urged by Gov. Vanderiblt was a constitutional amendment designed to take the courts out of politics and to make judges independent of the executive and legislative branches of the government. The courts have been the prey of Democratic politicians in this state for the last four years.

To remove the Supreme and Superior courts of the state from partisan politics, Vanderbilt suggested the judges be appointed for life terms by the governor with the consent of the senate. Since it would take several years to enact a constitutional amendment, the appointments would not take place in Vanderbilt's present term.

Court Packed by Green.

Such procedure would take the courts out of the hands of the legislature and prevent the recurrence of another bloodless revolution. This was the coup staged when the Democrats came into power four years ago. Quinn as lieutenant governor at that time engineered removal of the entire state Supreme court by unconstitutional acts. The court then was packed by Theodore F. Green, then governor and now United States senator.

While Gov. Vanderbilt outlined his court program, the twenty black-robed Supreme and Superior court judges sitting on the rostrum listened intently. They appeared relieved that there would be no wholesale ouster with the advent of the Republican administration.

Another department of Quinn's dictatorship which interested the new governor was the huge patronage machine with which the old régime hoped to perpetuate itself in power. Vanderbilt proposed a comprehensive civil service system to correct the evil. Rhode Island has no merit system of any kind.

Assails Spoils System.

"We have seen at close hand the waste, extravagance, inefficiency, and ineffectiveness from both a political and an economic point of view of the operations of the spoils system," remarked Vanderbilt.

"We have seen men and women who have given honest service and in some cases the best years of their lives to the state, removed from their positions for no fault other than that they belong to the opposition party. We have seen them replaced in many cases by those qualified by nothing more than party allegiance."

In administering relief, Vanderbilt said, need will be the only consideration. Political regimentation of persons on relief was one of the main enterprises of the Quinn machine. Vanderbilt promised a business-like administration. He said he was inheriting a $2,500,000 deficit in the state budget from Quinn and that expenses would be cut sharply.

Former State Senator.

Vanderbilt, Rhode Island's first Republican governor in six years, is a former state senator. He is a member of a famous old American family, the son of Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt who drowned in the Titanic disaster. His mother, Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons of Newport, is Republican national committeewoman.

The new governor received a fortune when he came of age. He went to work for $8 a week as a messenger for a Boston banking house. His first marriage, to Emily O'Neill Davies, ended in divorce in 1928. Next year he married Anne Colby. They have twin daughters, and the governor has another daughter, Emily, by his first marriage.

NEW LEGISLATOR TAKES HILLBILLY BAND TO CAPITOL

Serenades State Officials on Eve of Session.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—William H. Owen, a new member of the legislature from Du Quoin, who describes himself as a poor but honest plumber, led an eight piece hillbilly band through the downtown district to the statehouse today.

At the capitol the rustic musicians serenaded employés and officials. A performance was also given in the governor's office, occupied by Acting Governor John Stelle in the absence of Gov. Henry Horner.

Clad in Blue Overalls.

Plumber Owen, wearing blue overalls and carrying a big pipe wrench, sang "I Am Going to Sign the Pay Roll," to the tune of "I've Been Working on the Railroad." This frank expression of his sentiments was not surprising, for last week he tried to collect his $5,000 state salary for the coming two years, in advance of the legislature's opening. He was told he couldn't get the money until after he is formally seated when the legislature convenes tomorrow.

Finally the band straggled into the vacant house chamber, where Owen plopped himself into one of the chairs and announced it was his.

"This ought to be better than working," Owen said cheerily. "I never tried legislating, but I imagine it's going to be nice. I'm going to stay here as long as the people will send me."

Puffs on Corn Cob Pipe.

Puffing on a corn cob pipe, Owen said he would back the legislative program of organized labor. He spoke of the six hour day and attempted to draw an analogy between the working man's problems and a pie. A worker with a family has to cut the pie into too many pieces, he said. His conclusion was that there ought to be more pies.

Owen is the first Democrat elected to the house from Perry county in twenty-six years. That's why he brought the band, he said.

NO MEMBER LIST, BUT LEGISLATURE JUST FORGETS IT

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Republicans, organizing Pennsylvania's legislature prior to taking over the governorship and the other important offices they won in November, elected their candidate for president pro tempore of the senate tonight by one vote after a noisy parliamentary battle that brought police to the chamber. Frederick T. Gelder, a Republican of Susquehanna county, was elected by a vote of 23 to 22.

The Republicans won despite the tactics of Thomas Kennedy, retiring Democratic lieutenant governor, in permitting the seating of Herbert S. Levin, Philadelphia Democrat, whose election has been challenged, and withholding seats from three Republicans. During the tumult two policemen stood by Levin.

House Republicans elected Ellwood J. Turner of Philadelphia speaker.

SUPREME COURT JOLTS INDIANA'S LIQUOR RACKETS

Upholds Michigan Ban on Hoosier Made Beer.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court today upheld a Michigan law prohibiting the importation and sales of beer from discriminating states, such as Indiana, with its legalized beer racket. The decision constitutes a blow to the Indiana liquor interests and to the McNutt-McHale-Townsend-Minton political machine.

Justice Brandeis.

The opinion in the liquor case was one of twenty delivered today at a busy session after the court's two week holiday recess.

Opinion Is Unanimous.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis delivered the unanimous opinion of the court in the case of the Indianapolis Brewing company, Inc., against the liquor control commission of the state of Michigan. It grew out of a Michigan act adopted in 1937, which prohibited Michigan dealers from selling any beer made in a state whose laws discriminated against Michigan beer.

Under this law, regulations have been issued forbidding the importation of beer from Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont, and Washington.

Under the Indiana liquor control act of 1935, as amended in 1937, the Hoosier Democratic machine prohibited Indiana wholesalers from importing any beer which was not their absolute property.

$500,000 a Year Rakeoff.

The act required each wholesaler, in order to import beer from other states, to obtain a "port of entry permit," of which no more than 100 could be granted, to pay a license fee of $1,500, and to post bond of $10,000.

Under this legalized beer racket, the Indiana political machine is credited with gathering a toll of $500,000 a year on beer imported from other states. Frank McHale, manager of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt's campaign for the 1940 presidential nomination, is the reputed boss of the liquor setup. His law firm is counsel for the Indiana Brewers' association.

The Indianapolis Brewing company, prior to the adoption of Michigan's retaliatory law, sold and shipped its product to dealers in Michigan. Suing in federal court on behalf of itself and other Indiana beer interests, the brewing company contended that the Michigan law was unconstitutional in that it violated the commerce clause, as well as the due process and the equal protection clauses of the fourteenth amendment.

Twenty-first Amendment Cited.

The twenty-first amendment to the constitution, repealing the eighteenth amendment, prohibits "the transportation or importation into any state, territory, or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors in violation of the laws thereof."

"Since the adoption of the twenty-first amendment," said the Supreme court opinion, "the right of a state to prohibit or regulate the importation of intoxicating liquor is not limited by the commerce clause; and . . . discrimination between domestic and imported intoxicating liquors, or between imported intoxicating liquors, is not prohibited by the equal protection clause. The further claim that the law violates the due process clause is also unfounded. The substantive power of the state to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquor is undoubted."

In another case the court upheld a Missouri statute prohibiting the importation of liquor from states with discriminating laws.

Said the Senator from Virginia—

Glass 81 Today

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—"Being 81 years old," Carter Glass said today, "is something to forget—not to celebrate." The senior senator from Virginia will spend his 81st birthday tomorrow as quietly as possible. His office staf and the employés of the senate appropriations committee, which he heads, will not let the day go unrecognized, however. They planned to present him with a gold and lether mounted traveling set, inscribed: "To the boss—from the gang."

City Will Buy Eight Lots for Water Tunnel Shaft

Purchase of eight vacant lots at 47th and Aberdeen streets for the city water department was authorized yesterday by the council finance committee. The cost will be $21,700. The property is needed as a site for a shaft for workmen constructing a new water tunnel under 47th street. In two years the water department would have to pay more in rent than the property is worth, the committee was told.

JAN. 12 IS SET FOR HEARING ON CITY'S BUDGET

The city council finance committee yesterday set Jan. 12 as the date for a public hearing on Chicago's 1939 budget. This will enable the council to pass the budget, with any changes made after the hearing, on Jan. 14.

Under the law, Mayor Kelly then has until Jan. 19 to veto it. And the city's tax levying ordinance for next year can be adopted by Jan. 30, permitting Controler R. B. Upham to issue tax anticipation warants immediately.

Speed is necessary so money can be raised for February relief needs.

MURPHY IS ATTORNEY GENERAL, BUT HE CAN'T PLEAD IN HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Attorney General Frank Murphy is not eligible to practice before the Supreme court. He will be tomorrow, however. Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson will introduce the former Michigan governor to the justices when court meets at noon. Membership in the Supreme court bar requires payment of a $15 fee and membership in good standing of the bar of the highest court of a state.

PORTO RICO NOT SO BAD, FUGITIVE FINDS; RETURNS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto, Rico, Jan. 3.—Rafael Ortiz Pacheco, a fugitive since March, 1936, surrendered today for trial on a sedition charge. He said that after nearly three years' residence in Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Venezuela, and Haiti he had found Porto Rico under the United States was better off than her independent neighbors.

Ortiz, a Nationalist party member and follower of Pedro Albizu Campos, was indicted with Albizu and seven others on charges of attempting to overthrow the government. He is the only one of the group not in the penitentiary.

Ortiz said he still wanted independence for Porto Rico as a state in the Union or as a republic, but that he opposed the use of force to win freedom. His bond was fixed at $5,000.

HORNER MACHINE ORDERED TO STAY OUT OF CAMPAIGN

'Take Absolutely No Part,' Says Message.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Organization battle lines for the Democratic mayoralty primary suddenly swung yesterday toward final formation. Orders were issued directing Gov. Horner's forces to remain neutral in the fight between Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney.

Unexpectedly the orders appeared in written form. They read:

"Due to the fact that Gov. Horner's illness has prevented a conference with him on the mayoralty race, all state employés are instructed to take absolutely no part in the coming mayoralty campaign."

Signed by Horner Lieutenants.

The orders were signed by James M. Slattery, chairman of the state commerce commission, and Charles K. Schwartz, a member of the state tax commission. They are the two Chicagoans on the committee of four designated by Gov. Horner to advise with Acting Gov. John Stelle in all state matters.

That orders were in writing was a surprise because it had been thought that if the Horner followers were to remain neutral the instructions would be passed around by word of mouth. That typewritten messages were sent to all department and bureau heads in Chicago was explained by a necessity for haste because ward leaders supporting Courtney were reported to have summoned state employés who acted as precinct captains in the 1938 primary and told them to circulate Courtney petitions.

Support Expected by Courtney.

The state's attorney and his lieutenants are said to have followed this program because of their confidence that the state administration forces would back Courtney all the way because of the Horner-Courtney alliance last spring. The Kelly leaders were just as confident the governor in this primary would manifest his appreciation for what Kelly did for the state ticket in November.

Some of the principal Horner lieutenants already have identified themselves with the regular organization supporting Kelly. They have pointed out that the mayor consulted with the governor, who is still in serious condition in Miami Beach, and they now are inclined to feel that eventually most of the Horner strength will be back of the mayor.

First Day for Filing.

Today is the first day for filing petitions of candidates for mayor, city clerk, and city treasurer. It is not believed that the sudden disclosure of the attitude of the Horner forces will deter State's Attorney Courtney from filing.

Petitions for two men who may complete the Courtney ticket have been discovered in the possession of hustlers also obtaining signatures on the Courtney petition. One was for Horace G. Lindheimer, former county treasurer, now an aspirant for city clerk. The other was for State Representative Stanley A. Halick for city treasurer.

Lindheimer, who was barred by law from running for a second successive term as county treasurer in 1938, sought to obtain some other place on the county ticket from the regular organization. He was turned down. Recently he was reported to be negotiating with both sides in the impending contest.

Comment on Halick's Record.

Halick, who is starting his third term in the legislature, is of Polish descent. He lives in the 32d ward, of which Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski is the Democratic committeeman. The comment of the Legislative Voters' league on Halick's record, included in a report issued last February, consisted chiefly of this statement:

"He fathered a bill to pension a legislator after twenty years of service and another to regulate the sale of nuts. He has not shown any legislative qualifications."

Efforts to communicate with State's Attorney Courtney about these two candidacies and about the orders to state employés were unsuccessful.

Mayor Kelly was in Washington yesterday attending the opening of congress. He is expected in Chicago today.

HOME ROBBED OF JEWELS.

James Levenson, 2531 Cortez street, reported to West North avenue police yesterday that burglars had forced open a door in his home and taken jewelry valued at $290.

Petitions Out

(Story in adjoining column.)

Petitions were being circulated yesterday in behalf of State Representative Stanley A. Halick (left) for city treasurer, and for Horace G. Lindheimer (right) for city clerk. Lindheimer was former county treasurer.

START REPAIRS TODAY ON BRIDGE AT DEARBORN ST.

Extensive repairs and rehabilitation of the Dearborn street bridge will be started today. The work will cost $70,000, of which 55 per cent, or $38,500, was provided in a federal grant.

The bridge will be closed for four months. During that time new sidewalks will be laid, approaches will be renewed, floor beams will be reenforced, a new roadway will be built, and the bridge will be painted. Trafic will be detoured over the Clark and State street bridges.

This work was made necessary by the construction of a subway under State street. The State street span will be torn down during the subway construction. While a new bridge is being built the burden of trafic will be on the Dearborn street bridge.

GREEN DEMANDS RULE BY PEOPLE, NOT POLITICIANS

Fires Opening Broadside in Mayoral Campaign.

Dwight H. Green, regular organization candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, appealed to young voters last night to join in the movement to throw off the domination of politicians over their lives. The speech was the opening broadside of his campaign.

Green spoke before 300 workers of the 44th ward, gathered at the Belden-Stratford hotel by Robert W. Dunn, Republican committeeman in the ward. On the platform with Green and Dunn were C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican national committee; Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman; Ferre C. Watkins, Green's campaign manager, and Charles S. Dewey, who was mentioned as a candidate for mayor but withdrew in favor of Green.

Will Speak Monday Night.

Green spoke extemporaneously. He told his listeners that on Monday night, his 42d birthday, he will discuss the fundamental issues of the campaign on the radio. He sketched some of the planks in his platform, beginning with an attack on machine government in Chicago.

"I think Chicago wants new leadership above anything else," Green said. "I am ready with your help to assume that new leadership. Machine government is directly connected with machine gunners. That must stop! We'll drive the machine gunners to places where we won't hear of them again.

"We must rid Chicago of racketeers and destroy the alliance between politics and crime, increase efficiency of government and reduce taxation by elimination of padded pay rolls and other forms of waste. We must improve the school system by eliminating politics from its administration. The city must have a business administration.

"Politicians Are Servants."

"I also have a word to say to young men and women about something that has grown up in the last few years. Teaching them that politicians are masters of their lives and of the government is contrary to the American system of government.

"Politicians are supposed to be the servants of the people. They are not supposed to control you, tell you what to do in your home and your life. I ask the coöperation of all citizens so that we may build a bigger and better Chicago, not a bigger and better political machine."

"The Republican party needs young men," Goodspeed told the audience. "It needs them because the party is coming back and we will have to elect men who will be useful in the reconstruction years when the Republican party will rebuild this country."

Green's ballot petition, with those of his running mates, Clement A. Nance for city treasurer and John W. Chapman for city clerk, will be filed today by representatives of the Republican city central committee.

LUCAS TO SPEAK AT JACKSON DAY DINNER SATURDAY

Scott W. Lucas, Illinois' new United States senator, will speak at the Chicago Jackson day dinner in the Congress hotel next Saturday night.

George F. Ross and Charles K. Schwartz, co-chairmen of the committee on arrangements, yesterday said reservations indicate there will be an overflow crowd at the Gold room, scene of many historic banquets of the past.

Other speakers will be Mayor Kelly, Acting Governor Stelle, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Judge Michael L. Igoe, James M. Slattery, and Harry B. Hershey.

START TAXICAB STRIKE IN N. Y. WITH VANDALISM

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Hurtling brickbats caused the first damage reported to police tonight in a general strike of taxicab drivers called this afternoon by the C. I. O. Transport Workers union.

Fearing a recurrence of the violence that marked a 1934 cab strike, police were placed on an emergency basis shortly after the strike call was issued by Warren G. Horle, C. I. O. organizer.

Union spokesmen said 11,000 drivers and 7,400 cabs were affected by the strike, but officials of major fleets said 50 to 90 per cent of their cars were rolling.

The strikers are demanding an increase in commissions, now 42½ per cent, a closed shop, one week's vacation with pay, and a 9 hour day.

NAVY PROPOSES NEW BASES FOR DEFENSE OF U. S.

Also Plans to Guard Whole Hemisphere.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.] Adequate naval air and sea bases in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to enable American fleets to defend the United States and its possessions were urged tonight in a special report to congress. These bases also would allow the fleets to an eye on the western hemisphere against possible foreign aggression.

The report, prepared by a board of five naval officers headed by Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, was sent to congress by Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson.

President Has Message.

As the report went to Capitol hill President Roosevelt revealed that his national defense program, which puts the United States in the rôle of guardian of the new world, will be put before congress in a special message next week. He said his message to congress will say a special message on national defense is on its way. The budget message will carry only the regular appropriations for the war and navy departments. Increases will be outlined in the special message.

The most significant item in the report was a recommendation for a major fleet base at the Island of Guam in the Pacific. The board urged that the base be capable of maintaining at least the major part of the fleet to provide Philippine immunity against hostile attack.

The proposal to establish a base at Guam indicated the navy is determined to defend the Philippines in the event of a Pacific war.

Philippine Base Small.

The navy has a base in the Philippines, but this is not large enough to accommodate heavier vessels. For this reason the navy department recently arranged with the British government to use the British naval base at Singapore.

The board awarded priority to Chesapeake bay defenses. Enlargement of the Hampton Roads naval base in Virginia was recommended. The capital area and the east coast are poorly defended because the navy, until recently, has been without an Atlantic fleet.

Urge Florida Stations.

The board advised congress that a base should be established at Quonsett Point, R. I., to protect the New York-Narragansett bay region and others on St. John's river, five miles south of Jacksonville, Fla., and at Pensacola, Fla., to protect the eastern sea coast with its manufacturing centers.

The eastern sea coast also is to be protected by enlarging existing bases in the Atlantic. The board recommended strengthening bases at Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone for submarine and other craft. Among western bases selected for enlargement are those at Seattle, San Diego, and Alameda.

DR. HACKER QUITS TEACHERS' UNION IN RED SQUABBLE

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Louis M. Hacker, Columbia university historian and economist, who was vice chairman from 1936 to 1938 of the Columbia section of the New York College Teachers' union, resigned from the union today in the controversy among prominent educators over Stalinist factionalism.

Three other Columbia educators resigned last week from the union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, for similar reasons. They were Prof. John L. Childs, F. Ernest Johnson, and Bruce Raup.

"When it becomes a trade union in the real sense instead of simply a debating society for the purpose of following the communist party line wherever it zigzags, then I shall rejoin," Dr. Hacker said.

NEW SHORTAGE OF $6,399 FOUND IN BERWYN FUND

The Berwyn city council was informed last night that an additional shortage of $6,399 has been found in the special assessment fund prior to the year 1929. The city attorney was instructed to proceed against the former officials involved and their surety companies.

This shortage, City Clerk Emil Vacin reported, does not concern Ernest W. Mau, city treasurer and former controler, and Matthew Berg, former treasurer. They are under indictment on charges of embezzlement in connection with a $3,726 shortage in the fund which was discovered last summer.

Vacin said the new shortage was revealed in a newly completed audit of the city's finances covering several years.

WARSHIPS START PARADE TO SITE OF MANEUVERS

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The parade of warships from the navy yard in Brooklyn for maneuvers in the Caribbean started today with the departure of the new destroyer Warrington. The light cruisers Concord and Cincinnati were to leave this afternoon, followed by four other fighting ships tomorrow.

About 4,000 men, including crews and officers, will man the ships. Rear Admiral Harold R. Stark will be in command, aboard the flagship Honolulu.

The seven ships from Brooklyn will be among 118 to be stationed in New York waters from about April 20 until after the opening of the New York world's fair.

Wife of Nazi Ambassador to U. S. Sails for Germany

New York, Jan. 4 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Mrs. Hans Dieckhoff, wife of the German ambassador to the United States, sailed for Germany shortly after midnight to join her husband, who was summoned home by his government recently. Mrs. Dieckhoff's name was not on the passenger list of the German liner Europa, but officials of the North German Lloyd line confirmed her departure. Ambassador Dieckhoff sailed on Nov. 23. Their daughter, Charlotte, is in school in Washington, D. C.

Marine Clerks' Strike Ties Up Los Angeles Shipping

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3. —(AP)—The post of Los Angeles was dormant today as a shipping tie up resulted from the picketing of seventeen vessels by the Marine Clerks' union, a C. I. O. affiliate, to enforce demands for a new method of computing salaries. The clerks demand they be paid on an hourly basis instead of by the month, which would mean from $1 to $1.50 an hour. The union claims the present scale is about 87 cents an hour, based on monthly pay.

Father of Two Kills Self; Finds Life Too 'Upsetting'

Curt P. Thueringer, 40 years old, was found dead of automobile exhaust fumes last night in the garage behind his home at 7320 South Michigan avenue. He left a letter to a business associate. "Life has been upsetting," it said, "since my girls came to live with us." The police learned that his two young daughters, Marguerite and Betty Jane, recently arrived to live with Thueringer and their stepmother, his second wife. Previously they had lived with a relative.

OUTSTANDING CADETS TO RECEIVE MEDALS AT 2 HIGH SCHOOLS TODAY

The first of thirty-four special award assemblies honoring outstanding junior R. O. T. C. cadets in Chicago and suburbs will be held at Lake View High school this morning and at Steinmetz High school this afternoon. Other schools will hold their assemblies in the next three weeks.

Col. W. F. Morrison.

Representatives of the American Legion, the Reserve Officers association, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the R. O. T. C., and patriotic organizations will join in ceremonies for the presentation of medals.

Col. W. F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics for the twenty-seven city public school units, will attend most of the assemblies.

The bulk of the medals—a total of 232—will be presented by THE TRIBUNE as evidence of its coöperation with R. O. T. C. work in Chicagoland. THE TRIBUNE medals are given for superiority in all phases of high school military training and are distributed on a ratio basis, one for every fifty cadets in the corps. Other organizations give awards for efficiency, recruiting, neatness, rifle marksmanship, and general excellence.

ARMY TESTS NEW SLATE BLUE TOGS AT FT. SHERIDAN

Members of Company A, 2d infantry, stationed at Fort Sheridan, stepped out yesterday in the new slate blue uniforms for enlisted men that the army is trying out all over the country. One company at each post will wear the uniform during the one year trial period.

Trousers replace breeches, but for field duty the infantrymen gather their trousers inside canvas leggings. The blouse, or uniform coat, has a half belt in back and pleated shoulders that give the wearer greater freedom. A blue shirt folds back in a sport style collar, permitting it to be worn without a tie in the field, and the cap has a soft visor in place of the old stiff lether one, so that it can be folded and carried in a pocket.

Capt. C. B. Hutchinson, post adjutant, said the new slate blue color was chosen because it is possible to get more uniformly colored cloth than was possible with the old olive drabs and khakis.

CITY PLANS EARLY COURT ACTION TO ENLARGE AIRPORT

State O. K. on Removal of Tracks Awaited.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Proceedings to obtain a new right of way for the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad and thus clear Chicago airport, will be started in Cook county courts in less than two weeks. This was stated yesterday by attorneys for the city. The tracks now bisect the airport.

The purchase or condemnation of the needed land awaits merely the signing of an order by the Illinois commerce commission approving the airport enlargement program. A draft of a proposed order was filed yesterday with commission examiners by city representatives. The commission is to pass upon this order at a meeting next Tuesday.

Approval to Launch Action.

If the commission approves the program at that time—and the indications now are that the approval will be granted—the city and attorneys for the C. & W. I. can immediately begin the acquisition of the 1½ mile strip of land for the new right of way.

Negotiations with some of the seventy-four different property owners whose holdings will be affected by the shifting of the tracks already have been undertaken by agents for the city. Most of these owners, it is now reported, are willing to sell at a fair price. A few may force the city to condemn the necessary tracts.

Removal Costs Up to City.

Enlargement of the airport entails the purchase by the city of the new right of way and the laying of new tracks to supplant those which will be lost to the railroad. The city has agreed to bear all costs of this removal and promised to turn over to the railroad the title to the new right of way in exchange for the old.

The railroad's present right of way extends across the airport along the line of 59th street, bisecting the available area, which is bounded by 55th and 63d streets, Cicero and Central avenues. At present only the southern half of this area is used for landing field purposes. With the removal of the tracks the field will be doubled in size.

OLD UNION SOLDIER BURIES HIS PAL, 92, ONCE GRAY CLAD FOE

Houston, Tex., Jan. 3.—(AP)—An old soldier of the north, John Shearer, 91 years old, who marched to the sea with Gen. Sherman, marched tonight to the bier of H. B. Harless, 92 years old, an old soldier of the south. In opposing armies in their teens, they came to the sunset of life as warm friends. Harless, a private in the confederate army but eventually a general commanding the trans-Mississippi department of the gray clad veterans, died today of a heart ailment.

NEW JAIL GADGET TAKES A LOT OUT OF THE CLOTHES

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 3.—(AP)—A machine for disinfecting prisoners' clothes was tried out in Erie county's new $750,000 jail. Deputies had been told merely to put the clothes in one end and they would come out the other scientifically cleaned.

In went the clothes of ten prisoners, and out came socks shrunk to a few inches long, shirts that wouldn't fit a doll, and hats that would barely cover a billiard ball. Some clothes didn't come out at all.

Red-faced deputies sent out a hurry call for clothes to cover their nude charges.

OPEN DECLARATION OF POLICY

FROM THE DESK OF CAPT. E. V. RICKENBACKER

SUBJECT: Winter Activities

Confidential to the flying Public Personnel

EASTERN Air Lines

EXECUTIVE BULLETIN NO. 45-A

IMPORTANT AND CONFIDENTIAL

DATE: October 7, 1938.

TO: All Flying Personnel, Dispatchers, Meteorologists, Radio Operators, Mechanics and Flight-Stewards.

FROM: E. V. Rickenbacker.

SUBJECT: Winter Activities.

Another year of safe operation is being credited to the personnel of Eastern Air Lines.

Another year of expansion, continued progress and opportunities is behind us.

Another year of the same prospects for greater achievement is ahead of us.

With this fact in mind, your Management is anxious to reiterate and bring to your attention many of the reasons for this past success and future opportunity.

With the approach of another winter, its attendant flying conditions and its seasonal increase in Eastern Air Lines' traffic, with its many additional schedules to Miami, it is the hope and wish of your Management that you again will carefully analyse your own individual habits and interests in order that you may, individually and collectively, participate in what your Management confidently believes is the greatest future for any airline anywhere in the world.

As Eastern Air Lines is not influenced by competitive airlines in its daily activities, it is imperative that captains and pilots refuse to let the question of flying pay influence their better judgment—in other words under no circumstances should dollar grabbing be tolerated.

The question of outside interests is also an important factor. The flying personnel of Eastern Air Lines are being liberally compensated for full time services. Consequently, if they have any outside interests that take their time and mind away from their primary interest, which your Management believes is flying, then the outside interest should be discontinued immediately, as no man can be charged with the safety of himself, passengers and equipment while thinking of other problems outside his line of duty without increased hazards to all concerned.

Captains must, under all circumstances, exercise their discretion in deciding when to fly and when not to fly, as the Management would much prefer that this discretion be wrong on the safe side, than right on the wrong side.

The expansion of route mileage to take place within the next few months will offer many of the senior pilots the opportunities and responsibilities of captains.

To those pilots who are fortunate enough to move from the right seat to the left seat in the cockpit must go the responsibility and obligation of carrying on the traditions of those captains who have preceded you, and who are continuing with their responsibilities and obligations—to themselves; to the balance of the personnel of Eastern Air Lines; to the traveling public, shippers of air express, and users of airmail.

However, the above advantages carry with them the obligation at all times of keeping yourself mentally and physically fit.

It will mean your full appreciation and understanding of the needs of the public and the fact that without passengers, mail and express, sufficient in volume to earn ample revenue to pay all salaries and expenses, plus the hope of a reasonable profit, that Eastern Air Lines can not continue to progress in the future as it has in the past.

It will mean your understanding and cooperation with the field managers and transportation agents in order that Eastern Air Lines may continue to improve until it has developed an operation which will be recognized as the greatest in existence for its safety and precision.

It will mean the responsibility of exercising the good judgment which has come to you through years of association with the senior captains of Eastern Air Lines.

It will mean living up to all company rules religiously, and a strict adherence to all government regulations.

It will mean your hearty cooperation with all dispatchers.

It will mean a full appreciation of the responsibilities and duties of all the ground personnel.

It will mean a full understanding and appreciation of the interest of the mechanical forces in your welfare through their sincerity and desire for safety.

It will mean your thorough understanding and appreciation of the responsibilities and duties of the flight-stewards in order that they, too, may have the same opportunities and continue to develop that rapidly growing appreciation and respect that the public holds for their outstanding service.

All of which means that if you, like the balance of the flying personnel of Eastern Air Lines, continue to respect these facts the expansion of Eastern Air Lines will continue and give to the new and younger members of Eastern Air Lines the same opportunities and advantages that you will enjoy.

This obligation and responsibility applies to the balance of the personnel as well, and can only be done by realizing that it can not be done by continuing to spend as much or more than is earned, as old fashioned thrift is still the foundation of happiness and contentment.

In conclusion may your Management state that your ever-increasing cooperation with each other and the Management is deeply appreciated.

BETTY LEAVES JACKIE COOGAN OVER FINANCES

Unsettled Suit Blamed by Mrs. Grable.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Jackie Coogan, "The Kid" of the old silent films, and his young wife, Betty Grable, blonde starlet of the screen, have separated, it was disclosed today by Mrs. Lillian Grable, Betty's mother.

Mrs. A. L. Bernstein.

Only thirteen months have passed since the couple took their vows and expressed certainty that their marriage would endure. They still professed their love today, but they disagreed about the possibilities of a divorce.

The trouble is entirely over Jackie's financial affairs and their separation will last only until he gets these matters straightened out, Mrs. Grable said.

Sues Parents Over Earnings.

She referred to Jackie's suit against his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein, for an accounting of $4,000,000 of his childhood earnings, which he says they refused to turn over to him.

Jackie, now 24 years old, went to the home of his uncle, George Coogan, in North Hollywood, a few days ago and Betty returned to her own home. The young folk's furniture was disposed of and their home closed, Mrs. Grable said.

"But they are still in love," she explained. "They have had no trouble. Betty is loyal to Jackie and I am sure they will go back together again as soon as Jackie is able to get on his feet. His suit is still being delayed, you know."

Betty, 21 years old, confirmed her mother's statement and added a few details.

Denies Talk of Divorce.

"There isn't any talk of divorce," she declared. "This is just a sensible arrangement. Jackie wanted me to have a nice place to live until he could provide a home for me himself."

But the young man who earned millions after starring in Charlie Chaplin's old silent picture "The Kid," apparently is less optimistic.

"It's true we are separated," he admitted, reluctantly. "As to a divorce, that is all indefinite. But I still love Betty very much."

Asks Accounting of Earnings.

Jackie filed the accounting suit against his mother and stepfather last April. His mother was married to Bernstein after Jackie's father was killed in an automobile crash in 1935.

The young movie star set forth that he virtually was broke, dependent upon his small earnings in occasional pictures. He charged his mother was under the influence of her new husband.

During his minority, Jackie asserted, he was allowed only $6.25 a week spending money, and after he became of age even this was stopped. He said that when he once asked his mother and stepfather when they would turn over to him the money he had earned, his mother replied:

"You haven't a cent. There never has been a cent belonging to you. It's all mine and Arthur's, and so far as we are concerned you never will get a cent."

Jackie said he believed Bernstein had lost much of his fortune through betting on the horses. The case is still pending in the Superior court at Los Angeles.

3 SUE WINNER OF SUIT AGAINST CAPT. GOLDBERG

John Heneghan, who recently forced Police Captain Joseph Goldberg to pay a $3,500 personal injury judgment after five years of litigation, was himself a defendant in a personal injury suit yesterday.

Heneghan, who is 18 years old, is being sued for $25,000 by each of three persons who assert that he was driving a car which struck the taxicab in which they were riding almost a year ago. Co-defendants with the young man are Harry and Joseph Goldstone and William Lee, owners of a garage in which one Leonard Harris kept the car which Heneghan is alleged to have driven. The garage is at 4634 Maypole avenue. Heneghan lives at 4630 Maypole.

The trial is before Judge William J. Wimbiscus of Spring Valley, sitting in Superior court.

FIRST MARRIAGE LICENSE, DIVORCE OF 1939 GRANTED

AMENDS AND AMENITIES

By CALEB

A PHONE call came, some weeks ago, to one of our advertising department copywriters. Much to that person's amazement, the voice on the wire was a stranger's—a new-made customer from Albany, New York—who said he wanted to compliment his listener on an inconspicuous advertisement of bridge cards which had appeared on December 5th. He had seen the ad, liked it, visited the store, made a number of purchases—and been, in his phrase, so exceptionally well treated that he had called the advertising department to convey his appreciation in person.

Returning from Detroit, a short time ago, a Chicago executive was standing in a Pullman dressing-room next morning, when the porter entered. Turning to the latter, he said: "For one of the few times in my life I have slept royally—in a bed that was made just right! If you made up that berth, I want to tell you it was perfect—and you ought to be complimented on it."

The porter's ear-to-ear delight was as instant as his surprise. "I sure wish the Company could hear your words, mister!" he exclaimed. "It shall," replied the executive. "I'll write the company today."

Every time that porter had a berth to make up thereafter, one can be certain that he did it well, because a passenger thoughtful enough to praise had said it "was perfect." And so it is with us all. Whether it be sharpening a pencil, planning a menu, writing an essay, piloting a plane, cleaning a dish, or framing a skyscraper, the task, needless to say, deserves our best. After that, it also deserves recognition for being a best. Yet how many of us apply to daily living either of these simple fundamentals: the duty of producing our finest performance; and the obligation of recognizing the fine performance of another?

Many a carelessly-done-job habit—a program of performance neglected because "no one cares"—can be amended and corrected by the timely amenity of praise. To be a miser in appreciation is to miss some of life's loveliest opportunities for breeding better workers and thereby insuring better work.

FRANCE TO FIGHT FOR HER EMPIRE, TUNISIA IS TOLD

Daladier Calls Nation "Invincible."

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 3.—Indicating that delicate diplomatic negotiations are going on somewhere, probably in London, to try to patch up the quarrel between France and Italy, Premier Edouard Daladier of France tonight avoided any direct allusion to Italy's territorial claims in a speech at an official banquet in Tunis.

The program of his official visit since he landed in Bizerte this morning suggested a desire on the part of France to avoid anything which might be interpreted as provocation in Rome. However, the premier's silence on the burning issue of Italian agitation for Tunisia, France's North African protectorate, was somewhat of a surprise.

Refers to Invincibility.

Naturally Daladier made it clear that France considers Tunisia an integral part of her African empire. He worked in a clever reference to the "invincible though pacific strength" of France.

The premier said his speech was intended for the 18,000,000 population of the French North African empire of Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco.

"France will never permit your efforts to be turned from the goal, which is to create here on African soil a human community comparable to the French," he said. "France has the force to assure your security. Her power is invincible.

"The day has come to seal the union of France and her empire in an indestructible manner.

"It is to this great end that France wishes to work with all her efforts. She brings you order and discipline which are the most efficacious protection against brutal force and tyranny.

"This pacific and tranquil country, because it is sure of its force, is able to face all attacks and all perils."

Military Review Today.

Following the speech, Daladier, accompanied by a press caravan, entrained for Gabes, from where he will motor tomorrow to watch a military review on the "desert Maginot line" near the frontier of Italy's Libya.

Watching Daladier arrive this morning at the naval base in Bizerte aboard the cruiser Foch, followed by the cruiser Colbert and trailed by two destroyers, this correspondent was struck by the contrast with the arrival of Premier Mussolini at Tobruk on the Libyan coast just a little less than two years ago.

That was the now historic visit during which Il Duce inaugurated a coastal highway across Libya from Egypt to Tunisia and raised aloft for the first time the sword of Islam.

A Strange Comparison.

A comparison of the two visits illustrates perfectly the contrast in psychology and tactics between democratic France and Fascist Italy.

At Tobruk Mussolini arrived clad in a military uniform. He stood upright, saluting in the bow of a fast motorboat, his chin proudly tilted, while all the guns of the Italian fleet and the harbor blazed away and more than 100 warplanes thundered in the skies.

Daladier alighted from a dinghy at the wharf of the naval arsenal dressed in somber civilian clothes. He walked bareheaded, his sturdy chin drawn in like a boxer's, his face composed and serious, to shake hands simply with the dignitaries lined up to greet him.

Huge Batteries Silent.

Six or seven seaplanes circled around the immense land locked harbor. The guns of the Foch boomed the regulation salute, but the huge long range coast batteries defending the bottle neck entrance to the harbor were silent.

Save for the circumstances in which it was carried out, Daladier's African tour began as a visit of any French premier to these shores might begin—except of course for the extraordinary patriotic fervor aroused among the population.

The core of the drama lay in the deliberately puny martial demonstration staged in one of the strongest naval bases facing the European continent. Here again the contrast with Mussolini's trip was striking, for Tobruk, the only good natural harbor in Libya, is not the sort of place in which one would care to trust a real fleet in time of war.

Visits Port's Fortifications.

The ceremony in Bizerte included a tour by Daladier of the fortifications of the port. He was accompanied by Vice Admiral Jean Darlan, chief of the French navy general staf, and Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, chief of the air force general staf.

The premier then left by automobile for Tunis to greet Sidi Ahmed Bey, the nominal ruler of Tunisia, at the 15th century Bardo palace, located in the outskirts of the capital.

Daladier's visit to the bey likewise was in striking contrast with the gorgeous Roman triumph character of Mussolini's entrance into Tripoli.

Officers Drawn Up in a Row.

The great long high ceilinged throne room where the bey received the premier rivaled in sumptuousness any European court. There were breathtaking oriental chandeliers, gilt clocks presented by Queen Victoria of Great Britain and a portrait in Gobelin tapestry of Louis Philippe, whom one of the bey's predecessors visited in Paris.

Officers of the bey's 900 man army were drawn up in a row the length of the throne room. Their hands rested on their sabers and their faces were frozen masks of dignity. They bore testimony to the strength of the French influence here for their tight fitting red trousers with black stripes and long black tunics were modeled after the French uniform in the times of the citizen king [a term often applied to Louis Philippe who took the French throne in 1830 as an elective king of a constitutional monarchy].

The protocol of the bey's court was strictly honored. The bey himself, a regal looking gentleman with gray whiskers, pince-nez, and the traditional red Tunisian skull cap with black tassel, stood in front of the throne in his thirty-seven pound uniform surrounded by his family and ministers. Daladier entered the room and, after the traditional number of stops, halted and bowed gravely.

Compliments Exchanged.

The bey, who is 79 years old, and the premier then shook hands and exchanged short official compliments—the bey's being read in Arabic by a minister, according to protocol, and then translated into French, which the bey does not speak.

After that the bey fastened across Daladier's chest the grand cordon of the Order El Ahed El Aman.

Daladier's entrance into flag draped Tunis was as typically French as the ceremony in Bardo palace, where, incidentally, the French consul in 1881 called on the reigning bey to present him with an ultimatum demanding a protectorate over his realm, presumably in the same ceremonial manner.

The combination of easy going police arrangements and extraordinary popular enthusiasm among the French and Arabs alike caused the lines to break and Daladier's car literally was mobbed on the way to the French residency. Potential assassins waiting to perpetrate an African Sarajevo could have gotten him with anything from a large bottle up.

Shooting of Year Ago Recalled.

The fact that nobody did was significant when one remembers that less than a year ago the French had to turn machine guns on a similarly unruly mob of natives clamoring for home rule and that the leaders of the home rule movement now are in jail.

Incidentally these leaders, as soon as they heard of the Italian campaign for Tunisia, sat down in their cells and wrote out declarations of unqualified loyalty to France. It is expected they will be freed in honor of Daladier's visit.

After luncheon the premier watched a military review, which was not imposing as far as the quality of lethal weapons and troops was concerned, but imposing were the continuous cries of "Long live Daladier!" "Long live the French empire!" and a spontaneous singing of the "Marseillaise" by the huge crowds.

Demonstrators Arrested.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 3.—Several arrests were made by the police during an anti-French demonstration outside Bardo palace today. The demonstrators, who carried a banner of the Tunis Nationalist party, were roughly handled by the bey's guards. Tonight Tunisian and French demonstraters broke the windows of an Italian tailor's shop and tore down an Italian flag.

Aid to Voyagers

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Dr. Richard Goulden of liner Lady Nelson wearing "anti-seasick" mask developed by Dr. W. M. Boothby of Mayo clinic.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Dr. Walter M. Boothby of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., said that additional experiments will be necessary before he can be certain whether the administration of pure oxygen will bring relief to a majority of persons who suffer from seasickness.

Hopes are held, however, for the success of a new type of inhalation apparatus, devised by Dr. Boothby and his associates, which was tested in a thirty day sea cruise from which the physician recently returned.

The device, known as the nasal oxygen mask, gave relief to three passengers who suffered from seasickness on the cruise. The treatment brought them from their bunks, ended their dizziness, and permitted them to retain food.

FRANCO CLAIMS ARTESA, SEGRE RIVER OBJECTIVE

Pontoons Replace Bridges Blasted by Loyalists.

HENDAYE, France—[At the Spanish Frontier.]—Jan. 3—(AP)—Spanish rebel dispatches tonight reported that Artesa, vital highway center of Catalonia about 65 miles northwest of Barcelona, was being occupied by Gen. Francisco Franco's advancing forces.

The rebels were said to have thrown several pontoon bridges across the icy, flood-swollen Segre river 30 miles northeast of Lerida to replace permanent structures blown up by retreating militiamen, and to have opened a way through the outskirts of Artesa.

After encircling the town, rebel advices said, the troops began direct assaults which gradually reduced government resistance. By nightfall the conquest of the "key to Catalonia" was declared "practically completed."

Once a Textile Center.

Artesa, once a prosperous textile center, lies on the south bank of the Segre river where it wanders from east to west in its generally southward course through Catalonia.

Artesa is the junction point of highways to the French frontier, Barcelona, and Tarragona. Thus it has been the immediate major objective of the rebel drive into Catalonia which started on Dec. 23.

Rebel dispatches said Gen. Garcia Valino's forces, driving down from the Tremp sector, approached Artesa from the northwest.

A second column under Gen. José Moscardo was on the south side of the Segre, pushing northeast from the Balaguer sector. Artesa was under bombardment all day by artillery and planes.

Loyalists Leave Trenches.

Rebels admitted the defenders of Barcelona were offering stubborn resistance in the Artesa and other sectors of the sixty-five mile front about seventy miles west of the government capital. Before Artesa they abandoned successive lines of trenches and pillbox fortifications only after fierce struggles, these advices said.

The rebels continued to hammer the defenses on the extremes of the Catalonian line. The southern wing of the offensive had been advanced twenty miles from the Segre along the east bank of the Ebro river to Vinebre.

The southern forces inched forward slowly, apparently holding back to await similar progress in the center and in the north. The northern wing, east of Tremp, up against a formidable barrier of mountain defenses, reported no immediate gains.

BRITAIN ORDERS AID FOR CONSUL SEIZED IN SPAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The British foreign office today ordered an urgent probe into the arrest of Ernest Golding, British pro-consul at San Sebastian, Spain, and his wife by Spanish rebel military police.

The arrests were a sequel to the discovery two weeks ago of a spy plot against the rebels and the seizure by frontier guards at Irun of documents revealing rebel military secrets from the official bag carried by Harold Goodman, British vice consul at San Sebastian. Goodman was absolved of complicity, and British authorities understood no arrests would take place until their own and rebel investigations were completed.

Golding was arrested for complicity in the spy case. Today C. B. Jerram, the acting British agent in Burgos, was ordered to demand the right to see Golding and obtain legal aid for him. Golding is a Welshman and his wife a Spaniard who holds British citizenship. The position of pro-consul which Golding held for ten years is an honorary one and does not carry diplomatic immunity.

HIGH SEAS POUND PACIFIC BEACHES; DAMAGE IS HEAVY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Towering breakers pounded the Pacific coast from Long Beach to Santa Monica today, destroying a bathing beach and boardwalk, breaking a dredge pipeline, and causing other damage.

Los Angeles harbor officials said the waves apparently were caused by storms far at sea. Residents erected sandbag barricades in fear of additional damage tomorrow, Thursday, and Friday, when tides ranging as high as seven feet are due.

Beaches reported considerable erosion today from a high tide of 6.5 feet.

ITALIAN PAPERS ATTACK TOUR OF FRENCH Ppremier

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Jan. 3.—Premier Edouard Daladier's visit to Corsica and Tunisia has provoked a fresh wave of anti-French propaganda in the Italian press. Every bit of newspaper material that can be used to throw discredit on the French—difficulties in Syria, labor troubles at home and criticism from the German press—have been brought into service. Daladier's reception in Corsica yesterday is reported with satirical comment and innuendo intended to make it seem ridiculous.

CASHIER BREAKS BANDIT'S NERVE AND SAVES CASH

George Hildemann, cashier in the Pixley & Ehlers restaurant at 180 North Wells street, was probably the "dumbest" victim that particular bandit had seen in several evenings. He was so dumb he saved his money.

When the robber presented his revolver and demanded the money in the cash register last night Hildemann, victim of two previous holdups, put his "dumb" plan into operation.

He knocked over a paperweight. Half a dozen patrons looked up. The robber cursed. Hildemann scooped a handful of quarters out of the cash register. He dropped them jangling to the floor. That was too much for the robber, who backed out the door.

Hildemann told police that he believed robbers planned every move in advance and that anything failing to coincide with their plans disconcerted them.

Hold Annual Contest for Posters on Washington

Two art school scholarships are offered as prizes in the annual George Washington poster design contest sponsored by the Union League club. The deadline for submission of posters is noon on Saturday, Jan. 14. The contest is open to students of public senior high schools in Chicago and Cook county. The designs must be commemorative of George Washington. A $100 scholarship also is offered to the winner of a George Washington public speaking contest, also open to high school students.

Woman Clerk Tortured by 3 Postoffice Robbers

Cleveland, O., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Anna Mae Krecek, 22 years old, a postoffice clerk, was tortured for half an hour today by two men and a gray haired woman who forced her to open a substation safe which contained $1,183. In an attempt to make her produce more money the robbers slashed her hands with a penknife. Safecrackers cut through a fifteen inch wall at another substation and obtained $25,000 in cash and stamps.

BUILDING FIREMAN DIES AT WORK.

Ben Gallinis, 55 years old, fireman in a building at 14 East Jackson boulevard, died at work yesterday, apparently from a heart attack. He lived at 3418 Lowe avenue.

Baby Girl Dies in Her Crib Under Coat Used as Cover

A rescue squad from the Englewood police station worked for two hours yesterday in a futile attempt to revive Barbara Ann Leist, 7 months old, of 321 West 59th place. The baby was found unconscious when her mother, Mrs. Rita Leist, 20 years old, removed her husband's overcoat from her crib. It had been used as a cover.

IL DUCE'S LEGIONS IN SPAIN ORDERED TO WIN; THEY FAIL

He Loses Bargaining Point with Chamberlain.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The slow progress of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's ambitious drive toward Barcelona has deprived Premier Mussolini of one of his biggest bargaining counters in the forthcoming talks with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, diplomatic observers here said tonight.

Il Duce, it is believed, intended to trade withdrawal of Italian troops after a spectacular Catalonian victory for concessions elsewhere.

Reports reaching London from official sources indicate that the Barcelona government is confident of its ability to hold off indefinitly the rebel bid to overrun Catalonia despite the fact that the Italian divisions fighting for Franco have been given drastic orders to win a substantial success before the British prime minister and his foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, go to Rome next week.

Most Since Guadalajara.

Not since the defeat of Guadalajara [March, 1937] has Italian infantry been used on the present scale in Spain and Il Duce is said to have personally urged that they be placed in the forefront of battle so a victory could be used as a lever to pry advantages for Italy from the Anglo-Italian discussions.

[The Italians are in a sector some distance away from the Spanish and Moroccan troops, which were credited with yesterday's capture of Artesa.]

Informed observers here argue that Franco himself would not have picked this season of the year for the biggest attack of the Spanish war unless forced by external political considerations.

The bearing which the Spanish situation now has on future developments in Europe lends significance to the admission from Saragossa that the Italian divisions have been halted.

Still Hold an Ace.

Despite the check of the Catalonian drive official circles in London saw no evidence that Mussolini is yet anxious to cut his losses in Spain and withdraw his forces without first insuring a complete Franco victory.

On the other hand it was suggested in diplomatic quarters that Il Duce would feel in a stronger position to demand concessions in Djibouti, French Somaliland, and Suez if he could dangle the prospect of definitly carrying out the promised Italian evacuation of Spain before Chamberlain at next week's talks.

The idea that Mussolini might decide to recall his legions in return for favors elsewhere is being actively fostered in London. Chamberlain in a New Year message predicted that "1939 will be a more tranquil year than 1938." The prime minister, still vacationing, denied he had seen Viscount Halifax or Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, while staying in Yorkshire.

Car Ferry Aground

The carferry Chief Wawatam ran aground yesterday near St. Ignace, Mich., as it almost completed trip from Mackinaw City in storm. The vessel was reported missing for many hours with 33 aboard.

(Picture on back page.)

St. Ignace, Mich., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Rescue tugs stood by tonight awaiting clear weather to go to the aid of the railroad car ferry Chief Wawatam, aground on the North Graham shoals a mile north of here. A crew of thirty-three men and a full cargo of freight cars is aboard.

The ferry boat went aground during a blizzard eight hours after she was due.

The Wawatam was sighted shortly after noon by shore watchers at St. Ignace and by officers of her sister ship, the Ste. Marie, which beat her way across the straits of Mackinac from Mackinac City to St. Ignace during a lull in the storm.

The Wawatam was reported resting with three feet of its bow waterline high and dry on the gravel shoals and its stern floating in deep water. Rough seas and poor visibility kept rescuers from going to her aid immediately.

CHICAGO ENJOYS SECOND DAY OF SPRING WEATHER

For the second successive day Chicago lay yesterday in a belt of abnormally high temperatures which girdled the country from Colorado to Washington, D. C. Tonight and tomorrow, Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted, east winds will bring either rain or snow.

Spring-like temperatures were the rule throughout Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, Ohio, and Illinois, which a week ago were freezing in the first winter cold wave. Yesterday was the warmest Jan. 3 in Ohio in forty-two years, Cincinnati recording 66 degrees.

But a blizzard raged in the straits of Mackinac. From Lake Superior eastward it is bitterly cold. In Canton, N. Y., the mercury was below zero last night. In the Pacific northwest a three day rain and wind storm ended after endangering ships.

BRITISH JOBLESS OFFER A COFFIN TO CHAMBERLAIN

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Leaders of the unemployed today attempted to deposit a black coffin on the doorstep of 10 Downing street, residence of the prime minister. The coffin was inscribed "Unemployed" and "He asked in vain for appeasement."

The demonstrators tried three times to unload the coffin from a truck which was driven up in front of the building. Each time, however, police promptly put it back in the truck after a short scuffle and cleared the street.

Inside the coffin was a rolled umbrella such as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain always carries.

The unemployed left a petition for Chamberlain, who was away on a short vacation.

Ask for Hearing.

"We deliver to you this coffin, symbolic of the condition of British industry and the fate which awaits men, women, and children who will be hounded to the grave by hunger," said the statement. It asked that Chamberlain receive a deputation of the unemployed and consider their claims. There is plenty of opportunity for appeasement at home, as well as for appeasement of dictators abroad, Chamberlain was told.

A revolt by politicians of all parties against Chamberlain's policies was believed to be indicated by an announcement that youth leagues of the country will attempt to form a united front at a big massmeeting tomorrow night.

Attempts will be made to enroll 100,000 "ironsides," and each will be asked to contribute $5 toward the new movement. Protests are to be made against "further concessions to dictators."

To Issue Weekly Paper.

The new group plans to issue a weekly journal.

Back of the movement are those of the Liberal, Labor, and Conservative parties who are worried about foreign affairs and armaments and the avowed objects are:

FIRST—To strengthen the present defense program, and SECOND—To apply a firmer foreign policy.

Conscription in England and arms for government Spain are other matters to be considered.

Included among the adherents are Vernon Bartlett, author, former newspaper correspondent and now editor of the World Review; Lady Bonham-Carter, daughter of the late Herbert H. Asquith; Capt. Liddell Hart, author; Winston Churchill, veteran Conservative member of parliament, and E. D. Sandys, a member of parliament, Churchill's son-in-law.

JAP WAR CABINET FALLS; POLICY IN CHINA OPENS RIFT

Hiranuma Slated to Take Premier Konoe's Post.

TOKIO, Jan. 4 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Prince Fumimaro Konoe resigned as premier today at the behest of extremist Nationalist elements, declaring he did so to clear the way for new policies in China and a new order in East Asia.

Prince Konoe headed the government for nineteen months, including the entire period since the China war began July 7, 1937. He probably will be succeeded by Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, president of the privy council and leader of a Nationalist group which has advocated a "Nipponism," including all the "advantages of nationalism, Fascism, and communism."

It was considered almost certain in informed circles that Baron Hiranuma would be summoned to Emperor Hirohito's palace tonight or Thursday and ordered to form a new cabinet.

Seek Tighter Control.

The Nationalist group wants to invoke the entire national mobilization act, which provides for sweeping government control of private industry and social and economic life. Prince Konoe thus far has agreed only to invoke specific sections of the act, chiefly those applying to mobilization of men and making them available for draft.

The premier in a statement after presenting his resignation to the emperor declared he often had felt incapable of coping with the situation arising from the China incident, but that "the seriousness of the times did not allow a change of the cabinet until now."

"However," he continued, "the China incident has now entered a new state and the time has come when the government must concentrate its efforts on construction of a new order in order to maintain lasting peace in East Asia. I am convinced that this is urgently necessary to enhance the confidence of the nation by formulating new policies under a new cabinet."

Holds Through Holidays.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said that although the cabinet had resigned, the resignation would not become effective until after the prolonged Japanese New Year holiday which extends through Thursday.

The cabinet's fall was attended by reports of a split between Fascist and liberal elements over policies in China. The cabinet had taken office on June 4, 1937, a month before the China conflict began and was revised twice.

On May 26, 1938, two generals and a leader in finance replaced men accused of weakness in the face of the "national emergency." On Sept. 29 Gen. Kazushige Ugaki resigned as foreign minister. A month later Hachiro Arita succeeded him.

Firing Squads Extend Purge.

HONGKONG, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Usually well informed Chinese said today that a "considerable number" of persons had been executed in Chungking, with "hundreds more" under arrest following the expulsion of Former Premier Wang Ching-wei from the Chinese government party for "deserting his post and suing for peace in contradiction to national policy."

The "purge," first reported on Sunday, was said to be continuing secretly, but none the less effectively in a campaign to try to block any further defection among what loyal Chinese termed "faint hearts."

[A Chungking dispatch said it was believed steps were being taken to quash Wang's influence completely, but denied there was evidence there of large scale arrests.]

Hit Grafting Elements.

Although the clean-up originated with the Wang episode, the action, Chinese sources reported, was being extended to include the elimination of various "petty graft or corrupt" elements.

Wang was read out of the party by a special session of a Kuomintang [Chinese government party] committee at Chungking, the temporary Chinese capital where unofficial sources reported Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had arrested 200 government party and military leaders in a quick elimination of Wang's "peace party" followers. The former premier went to Hanoi, French Indo-China, last week and was said to be planning peace negotiations with the Japanese.

Yeh Chu-Tsang, long a supporter of Gen. Chiang, was appointed propaganda minister in the reported reorganization of the government and Kuomintang. Yeh succeeds Chou Fuhai, who was said to have accompanied Wang to Hanoi.

ALVIN GRANGER.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The state of Texas will decorate Alvin Granger, 32 years old, of Orange, Tex., Thursday as the rescuer of five persons whose car plunged into ten feet of water in a canal near Orange last week. Granger rescued E. A. Clocum of Baton Rouge, La., and four members of his family when their car rolled down a fifteen foot embankment into the canal. Granger plunged into the water, kicked the windows out of the submerged car, and extricated the passengers, all of whom would have drowned, police said.

Good Ash Tray Better than a Fire Truck, Blaze Proves

The firemen brought their truck. And they put out the cigar that had got mixed up in the insulating material beneath a show window and caused the smoke which drove everyone out of the cigar store at 1 North Clark street yesterday. But confidentially, they said, a good ash tray's better than a fire truck for such cases.

Their son, Willie, past 3 years old, suffered a broken leg. He was taken to a hospital in Alexandria, about 45 miles east of here.

3,000,000 CHINESE ARE HOMELESS AFTER NEW YELLOW RIVER FLOOD

SHANGHAI, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The international famine relief committee reported today that 3,000,000 Chinese farmers were homeless and 9,000,000 more were threatened as a result of Yellow river floods. The committee reported breaks in the dikes twenty miles east and forty miles west of Kaifeng and said the flood was sweeping through lakes and canals toward the coast, following the course of the disastrous flood of 1887.

STAF FETES HEAD OF ANTI-CRUELTY SOCIETY; HE IS 65

John J. Roberts, president of the Anti-Cruelty society, was congratulated yesterday on his 65th birthday by the society's board and employés in the headquarters at 157 West Grand avenue. Two black Scotch terriers were decked out in red ribbons for the occasion, and the latest mongrel arrivals were brought in to pay their respects.

The society during 1938 received 24,103 dogs and 20,208 cats, Dr. W. A. Young, managing director, reported. The society's clinic, a free service for persons of little means, cared for 11,401 patients during the year. Police station kennels established a year ago were the means of collecting 2,371 animals.

Through a new service, humane education for school children, 112,000 children have heard humane lectures since last March.

BRITAIN'S RULERS WILL VISIT FIFTY TOWNS IN CANADA

Itinerary for Summer Tour Revealed.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 3.—(AP)—King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England will make about fifty stops in Canada during their month's tour of this country and the United States. It will begin in Quebec on May 15. The itinerary, approved by the king and queen, was made public tonight.

Queen Elizabeth.

Traveling almost entirely by train, except for a section of the New Brunswick tour which will be by automobile and trips to Vancouver Island and Prince Edward Island by steamer, the king and queen will cover as much of the itinerary as possible by day. The schedule was arranged to make possible numerous personal appearances and to permit overnight rests.

Will Sleep on Train.

They will sleep on their train except in Quebec, Ottawa, Ont., and Victoria, B. C., and possibly in one of the Rocky mountain parks. In Quebec they will spend the night at the Citadel, once a formidable defensive establishment; in Ottawa at Rideau Hall, the residence of the governor general, and in Victoria at government house.

On May 16, the day after their arrival, the king and queen will stay in Montreal, Que., and on May 17 to 20 in Ottawa. On May 21 they will visit Cornwall, Brockville, and Kingston, Ont., and the next day, after a stop in Toronto, will leave for western Canada.

Personal appearances will be made also in Three Rivers, Que.; Port Arthur, and Fort William, Ont.; Winnipeg, Man.; Regina, Sask.; Calgary and Edmonton, Alta., and Sudbury Junction, Ont.

Return on June 12.

No details of the United States tour were given, but the royal party will cross the international boundary at Niagara Falls at 9:30 p. m. on June 7. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has announced that the king and queen would stay at the White House in Washington, D. C., during a part of their visit to the United States.

Returning to Canada by way of Montreal on June 12, the first Canadian stop will be in Sherbrooke, Que., at 11 a. m. that day.

King George and Queen Elizabeth will depart from Halifax, N. S., June 15, and, it was announced today by Gov. Sir Humphrey Walwyn of Newfoundland, visit that colony on June 17.

DIVORCE BY DANISH KING'S DECREE HELD VALID IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The royal seal of King Christian X. of Denmark, dissolving the marriage of two Danish subjects who live in this country, is a valid instrument in the United States, the Appellate division of the Brooklyn Supreme court held today.

The court's ruling reversed a decision by Supreme Court Justice Thomas J. Cuff in Nassau county, dismissing the action for separation brought by Mrs. Eva Hansen of Freeport, N. Y., against Ernest Hansen of Baldwin, N. Y.

Hansen, a hair dresser, deserted her, Mrs. Hansen charged. He countered with the charge that Mrs. Hansen never had been his legal wife, because her marriage to Arthur B. Baden in Denmark had been set aside by royal decree which, Ernest claimed, is invalid in this country.

The Appellate divsiion agreed with the view of Mrs. Hansen, that she was legally divorced by the king's hand, and ordered the separation suit retried.

NEW SOVIET CODE OF JUSTICE GIVES JUSTICE A BREAK

Moscow Says It Will Ease Reign of Terror.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 3.—Soviet Russia is drafting a new criminal code intended to give its population a modicum of justice. It will replace the code enforced since 1924, which Moscow confesses has done more harm than good.

Andrey Vishinsky, chief prosecutor of the soviet government, and the Sovietskaipa Yustizia [Soviet Justice] announced that the old code has been "extremely harmful and even may be described by the term of 'wrecking'." They also said it has "disfigured enforcement of justice in Russia."

"Our measures of social defense have not been connected with the guilt of individuals or with classes," they declared, "but with the so-called dangerous situation which has threatened the government. This attitude will be completely changed by the new code, completion of which is expected shortly."

See Terror Reign Lessened.

Vishinsky and other officials connected with the judiciary declared the new code, when enforced, will lessen the reign of terror which Dictator Josef Stalin inaugurated at the close of 1934.

The Sovietskaipa Yustizia made a number of revealing admissions regarding the far-reaching reforms in the administration of soviet justice.

Hereafter, the journal warned, defense lawyers who are appointed by the state to represent offenders must really defend their clients instead of admitting the guilt of the prisoner and helping the prosecutor obtain a conviction. Furthermore, the lawyers are cautioned against making stereotyped pleas to judges for milder sentences and attempting to present extenuating circumstances for consideration by the court after an admission of guilt.

"Every licensed defense lawyer must hereafter base his activities on the fact that the soviet is not interested in sentencing a record number of prisoners or having more severe measures for punishment than other countries," the journal said.

Use Word "Punishment."

Another important change is that the word "punishment" again is adopted. It replaces the outworn phrase "measure of social defense." This includes the death sentence, which is called the "highest measure of social defense. The new code will retain the death sentence, which was officially abolished in the former code. However, the journal said, the new code will recommend that the death sentence be reserved for "only more serious state criminals."

Prosecutors are warned that judges will not impose sentence unless evidence of guilt is presented. The paper said the time now is passed when mere suspicion is sufficient for severe sentence for culprits arrested on mere denunciations.

"Soviet criminal practice until now regarded as criminals all suspects and declassed elements of the population such as former bourgeoise intellectuals and the nobility, who are punishable whether or not evidence is submitted proving their guilt," the journal declared.

The paper said this was an attempt to introduce Fascist theories of criminal justice into Russia. Such measures must be combatted, it added.

The new code even contains a bit of sardonic humor in the statement that bolshevism's supreme punishment, which is deprivation of soviet citizenship and exile forever outside the borders of the U. S. S. R., has been annulled since it is without practical value. This unique sentence was imposed only once during bolshevism's twenty-one years of red terror and the victim was Leon Trotzky.

NAZI PLOT TRIAL LINKS 3 TO GHOST RADIO STATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The trial of Ernst Niekisch, former Socialist writer and publisher, and two other defendants began in secret today before the People's court in Berlin on charges of high treason.

It was revealed that Niekisch and his associates will be charged with operating an illegal radio station which two years ago thrilled Germany and the outside world with anti-Nazi broadcasts from within the third reich. The linking of the three with the sensational story of the radio station which rolled through Germany broadcasting from a camouflaged truck clears up a mystery.

Discovery of the truck after weeks of search by the G. S. P. [secret police] led to the uncovering of the plot which may bring death to as many as eighteen defendants. Two other defendants, Dr. Wilhelm Drexler, a student of government, and Karl Troegler, faced the People's court with Niekisch today.

U. S. ENVOY TALKS WITH IL DUCE ON JEWISH PROBLEM

ROME, Jan. 3.—(AP)—United States Ambassador William Phillips and Premier Benito Mussolini talked for nearly an hour today. Reliable informants said their discussion concerned general problems, including new Italian anti-Jewish restrictions.

The envoy had been in the United States, where he and Hugh R. Wilson, ambassador to Germany, conferred with President Roosevelt.

American Jews might be compelled to leave Italy by March 12 under a decree expelling foreign Jews. Other general problems between the United States and Italy include:

The withdrawal of four big motion picture companies from the Italian market because of differences with the Italian film monopoly; the United States' refusal to recognize Italy's Ethiopian empire; suspension of negotiations for a commercial agreement, reputedly because of that nonrecognition; anti-Fascist sentiment in the United States which resulted in a persistent anti-American campaign in the Italian press.

CHILE CANCELS PAWN TICKETS; WIVES SEW AGAIN

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A government order to return pawned sewing machines and other work machines to their owners, free of charge, led to visits to hundreds of pawn shops yesterday. The government appropriated 8,000,000 pesos [$400,000] to redeem the machines. Government owned pawn shops in Santiago released more than 6,000 articles free of charge, the majority of them sewing machines. Nearly as many articles were freed in the province during the first day the government order was in effect.

DON'T GIVE BALDNESS A HEAD START

A YOUNG man with a good head of healthy hair sheds and re-grows an average of 81 hairs each day. Baldness needn't worry him as long as this normal shedding and re-growing process continues unhampered.

Baldness comes when some local infection, such as dandruff, makes it impossible for the scalp to re-grow enough hair to replace that which falls out. When this happens, your scalp logically becomes a problem for a Thomas expert. He solves the problem by (1) determining the exact cause of your hair-loss and then by (2) adapting the reliable Thomas treatment to overcome this cause and to help your scalp structure continue its normal function of growing hair.

Fourteen local scalp conditions, responsible for 90% of all baldness, come within the scope of Thomas treatment. Thomas can end your dandruff, stop abnormal hair-fall, and help you to promote natural hair growth on thin and bald spots. Call today for a free scalp examination and learn more about this sound, proved method of scalp treatment.

BUGS MORAN PUT ON TRIAL FOR BIG FORGERY SCHEME

But He Won't Be Called 'Bugs' in Front of Jury.

The trial of George [Bugs] Moran and two of his pals, accused of a $500,000 forgery plot, opened yesterday before Judge James Fardy in the Criminal court with defense counsel fighting to get a jury favorable to their clients.

Moran, the prohibition era gang chief who narrowly missed death in the St. Valentine's day massacre, is charged specifically with conspiracy to forge $62,000 in American Express checks with which he intended to flood the nation. Accused with him are Frank Parker, one-time airplane bootlegger, and Frank Hicketts, alias Ross.

20 Witnesses Against Them.

Arrayed against them are more than twenty witnesses, some of whom were associated with the three in the forgery scheme which also involved counterfeiting of New York Central railroad bonds. Federal and state authorities still are investigating clews indicating that the ring planned to counterfeit revenue stamps for both liquor and cigarets.

The trial opened on a bizarre note as Moran pleaded with Attorney James M. Burke to have the nickname "Bugs" eliminated from testimony in the hearing. The former gangster, it was recalled, had dismissed with a jest his hairbreadth escape in the Valentine's day massacre of his gang in 1929. Yesterday, however, he insisted plaintively that his old monniker would hurt him.

Attorney Burke, therefore, put it into words as he faced Judge Fardy in chambers.

Unfair, Says Attorney.

"'Bugs' is a slang word which designates a person as being insane," he told the judge. "The inference of the jury would be that that kind of person would commit any crime. It is unfair to the defendant to have that sobriquet attached to his name."

Judge Fardy then ruled that inasmuch as the defendant's name is George and not "Bugs," "Bugs" should not be used during the trial, even though the indictment reads that way. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright agreed not to mention the nickname.

In questioning prospective jurors, Burke and Attorneys Harold Levy, Roland V. Libonati, and George Bieber emphasized that much of the testimony against the three prisoners would come from accomplices; also that the defendants might not take the stand.

No Jurors Accepted.

"An accomplice is a man who admits he is guilty," the veniremen were told. "An accomplice, therefore, is a criminal. You must scrutinize carefully the testimony given by such men and consider it for just what it is worth."

The attorneys also insisted on knowing the occupations of all the veniremen and the occupations of their brothers, uncles, fathers, sons and other relatives. The purpose of this questioning was not immediately apparent. No jurors had been accepted when court was adjourned for the day.

Chief Witnesses Named.

Chief among the witnesses against Moran, Parker, and Hicketts are Pat Roche, who was chief investigator under former State's Attorney John A. Swanson, and Berger Hanson, an expert engraver who has confessed that he made zinc and copper plates used for counterfeiting. The state nol prossed charges against Hanson yesterday.

The state's star witness is Attorney Emil Van Bever, undercover agent for the American Express company. He has been in voluntary custody several months.

Harold McCormick Denies Charge in Widow's Suit

Harold F. McCormick filed an answer yesterday to the $2,000,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Mrs. Olive Colby of Kansas City. The answer, drawn by the law firm of Wilson & McIlvaine, denied that McCormick had proposed marriage. Depositions are to be taken from Mrs. Colby and from McCormick, who is in California with the bride he married last May. McCormick is chairman of the International Harvester company. Mrs. Colby, a widow 51 years old, sued him in Circuit court Dec. 3.

Whitmer Loses Last Plea to Escape Forgery Term

The United States Supreme court refused yesterday to review the conviction for forgery of Arthur L. Whitmer of Chicago, formerly a wealthy insurance company executive. The court held that no federal question was involved. Whitmer was sentenced in the Criminal court to one to fourteen years imprisonment and the verdict was upheld by the Illinois Supreme court. He was alleged to have given the Kasper American State bank a forged note as collateral for a loan.

MRS. JANE STEVENS.

Mrs. June Hoper Stevens filed suit yesterday to end her college days romance with Leonard Stevens. She asked a divorce on the charge that Stevens deserted her June 15, 1937, a little more than a year after they were married.

Mrs. Stevens, who is 22 years old, lives at 3260 Lake Shore drive. Her bill, drawn by Attorney Sol R. Friedman, said the romance began when she was a student at the National Park seminary at Washington, D. C., and Stevens was attending Georgetown university there. Mrs. Stevens is the daughter of Carl H. Hoper, head of an automobile accessories firm. Stevens is now an attorney at Washington.

TWO DENY PLOT TO DEFRAUD IN POLICE SCANDAL

Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th] and Stephen Idzikowski, a precinct captain in his ward, pleaded not guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud when they were arraigned before Judge William J. Lindsay in the Criminal court yesterday. Their trial was set for Jan. 30.

Konkowski, Idzikowski, and five others were accused in connection with the police civil service list scandal which broke when aspirants for police jobs charged they had paid various sums to assure their success in the examinations. The others accused in connection with the scandal are Morey Braun, Harry Mottlowitz, Henry Fick, Emily Reimer, and Joseph Kostner.

Meanwhile, Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and Thomas Bugan continued to question police job seekers at the rate of about thirty a day. Several readily admitted paying bribes, but refused to make written statements, in fear of reprisals, the prosecutors said.

TWO BOYS ADMIT SETTING FIRE TO OAK PARK BARN

Two boys, questioned yesterday by the Oak Park police, admitted that they had set fire to a barn Monday afternoon. They are Donald Mellen, 12 years old, 1121 Lake street, Oak Park, and Edward Jackson, 15, of 335 Gale avenue, River Forest. Both are being held for the state fire marshal.

The barn, which belongs to the Pebbles Decorating company, 1126 Westgate avenue, Oak Park, was only slightly damaged. Young Mellen was seen fleeing from the building. He said the Jackson boy had given him matches and pointed to a heap of straw as a good place for the touch-off. Young Jackson, who was taken out of a classroom of the Oak Park High school, confirmed this. The Mellen boy is a pupil at the Lowell elementary school, Oak Park.

New Grand Jury Is Sworn with Banker as Foreman

CONVICT'S TALK BRINGS ARREST IN FORGERY RING

Suspect Under Indictment in $34,000 Fraud.

At the state prison in Attica, N. Y., a convict seeking parole, talked to the authorities. He named his three associates wanted for a $34,000 check forgery in Buffalo, N. Y., and for a series of similar crimes. As a result one of the men, a key figure in the plot, is under arrest at the detective bureau.

He is Joseph Chevlin, alias Shevlin, 41 years old, who has a prison record here and at Pittsburgh, Pa. Sergt. Jack Morrison seized Chevlin anu three friends on New Year's eve as they sat down to eat in a Chinese restaurant.

Indicted on Dec. 21.

District Attorney Leo J. Haggerty at Buffalo said preparations are under way to extradite Chevlin. He was indicted Dec. 21 on eight counts of forgery and four of grand larceny. Haggerty said the convict who talked claimed that the gang had stolen $5,000,000 in the last decade. Chicago police discounted this figure but said the gang's loot undoubtedly had been many thousands of dollars.

Chevlin was described as a master burglar, able to open any patent lock with a thin sheet of celluloid. Burglary was the crime which sent him to Pontiac reformatory in 1914 and to a Pittsburgh prison five years later. Since then he has avoided imprisonment.

On Oct. 15, 1933, a burglar entered the Cliff Petroleum company in Buffalo and stole several blank checks. At the same time he got copies of the signature of company officials.

$34,400 Taken by Gang.

Chevlin is said to nave been the thief. He turned the checks over to other members of the gang. They wrote $34,400 in checks against the company, cleared them before the company received a statement, and disappeared.

Still sought are the expert pen men who did the actual forgery. The man in prison, Lester Weiss, alias Morris Silverman, is said to be the man who passed the checks. In 1935 he was sentenced to serve five to ten years.

When he leaves prison Weiss will face extradition to Chicago, where he is alleged to have swindled banks of between $45,000 and $75,000 by check forgeries. While awaiting trial in 1934 he forfeited his $15,000 real estate bond and fled. Investigation disclosed the bond, worth only $5,500, had been approved early in the morning by Municipal Judge Leon Edelman at his home.

Two of the men seized with Chevlin were released. The other, Jack London, former gambling house guard, is held for investigation. He was once questioned in the murder of Eli Daiches, advertising executive.

JUDGES ADVISE REFORMS TO AID YOUNG CULPRITS

Direct Their Talents as Good Leaders.

Reform for the Boys' court and the Juvenile court were suggested yesterday by the judges who daily hear the problems of the city's delinquent and dependent youth.

Judge Joseph A. Graber of the Boys court, who counsels boys from 17 to 21 years old, proposed a new method for turning boy culprits into good citizens. Judge Frank H. Bicek, whose jurisdiction extends to boys and girls under 17, made an urgent plea for additional help in his court, to investigate and settle the needs of problem children.

Fewer Cases in Boys' Court.

Annual reports of the courts, issued last week, showed there has been a decrease of 155 defendants in Boys' court compared with 1937. In the Juvenile court, however, 1938 was the busiest year in its history. An average of 130 cases were heard each court Day, totaling more than 31,000.

Under the new leadership plan which will be tried out this year in Boys' court, each young lawbreaker, if he is a first offender, will be given a post of responsibility in his community. Working with his church, or an established juvenile recreation center, Judge Graber believes, would direct a potential young criminal's energies in the right direction. He would become a force of law.

"Boy criminals, most of them, are leaders," Judge Graber said. "They have daring, nerve, a sort of desperate courage. When they come before the court on their first real offense, we have a fine chance to use their ability.

Gives Example of Plan.

"I tried it on one gang with excellent results. Nine boys were brought before me for repeatedly disturbing peace and shooting craps. I learned they were meeting in a miserable shack. It was their clubhouse. I talked to the leader and got him to suggest a football team to his friends and to ask the pastor of a nearby church for a clubhouse meeting place. He did. They organized other teams and now they have a league. It worked. We've had no more trouble with them."

Such boys, Judge Graber says, are natural prey to false doctrins of government. Because of their poverty, it is easy for radicals to foster hostility in their minds. Positions as artistic or athletic leaders would counteract alien "isms" he believes.

Need Immediate Attention.

Judge Bicek's appeal was for juvenile officers to be stationed in each police headquarters to investigate and adjust tangled affairs of children.

"We have so many dependent children—the list seems to be growing each year—that must have immediate attention," Judge Bicek said. "Sometimes it takes two weeks for a child's case to come before the court. That's because we are so short handed."

Each report showed that incorrigibility and malicious mischief were the most prevalent charges. Most offenders, according to the court's records, are children of national groups which were the last to emigrate to this country. The prevalent criminal nationalities change as each generation grows up and assimilates the culture of America.

DEATH SENTENCE FOR KILLING IN 1929 IS UPHELD

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Court of Appeals in Albany unanimously affirmed today the murder conviction and death sentence of Thomas J. Bohan, 37 years old, for the shooting of Louis Mardeshick on Dec. 12, 1929, in a poker game holdup. A notorious lower west side gunman, Bohan had been a fugitive nearly nine years in the fall of 1937, when he was captured in Chile, where he had become prosperous in the operation of several night clubs. He was brought back here, placed on trial on the old murder indictment last summer, and quickly convicted.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Betty McLaren, 36 years old, sobbed in disbelief today when Municipal Judge Kaufman refused to free her on bond and held her on a murder charge for stabbing her husband, William, with a Christmas carving knife after a New Year's party. Mrs. McLaren said she had no idea her husband was seriously wounded when she thrust at him with the knife after he struck her. She went to bed and was awakened by policemen who arrested her after her husband died in a hospital.

FREE PRISONER AFTER 12 YEARS; HE'S NOT GUILTY

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Alexander Ripan, 46 years old, who served twelve years in prison for a murder he didn't commit, was released today from Jackson prison.

Friends from East Chicago, Ind., where he lived and worked for six years after escaping from prison in 1929, were at the gate to meet him. He planned to go to East Chicago tonight, and reopen his shoe shop.

Ripan was convicted in 1920 of the murder of Luca Tripula, a neighbor, on evidence that a bullet found in Tripula's body fitted Ripan's gun. Recently it was proved by ballistics science that the bullet could not have been fired from Ripan's gun.

Fireman Kipp Wins Bet; His Wife Bears Twins

Mrs. Lillian Kipp, wife of Frank Kipp, Oak Park fireman, gave birth to twin baby girls yesterday in the West Suburban hospital. Kipp, however, will pass out no cigars. A fellow fireman, George Holmer, offered several months ago to buy smokes for Kipp and the entire company if Mrs. Kipp bore twins. And Chief Watters said Holmer will buy them.

WATCH FOR MAD FUGITIVE AT HIS OLD IOWA HOME

Four crazed convicts who escaped from a Lima, O., hospital for criminal insane, continued to avoid capture yesterday. Chicago police believed the men may have headed west toward Sioux City, Ia. This is the home of Francis Haines, alleged leader of the gang. Iowa police surrounded the house occupied by Haines' mother and sister.

In Chicago detectives continued to guard the home of Mrs. Margaret Haines, divorced wife of the fugitive. They were informed on Monday that Haines planned to kill his wife and two policemen who in July, 1931, wounded him during a robbery and had him sent to prison. Mrs. Haines is supporting her son, Donald, whose custody she obtained after divorcing her husband in 1937. She had arranged a few days ago to visit Haines in Lima soon.

Cop Confesses Slaying Woman Who Spurned Him

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Patrolman Otto K. Schoenegge, 41 years old, confessed today that he killed Mrs. Joy Le Bow, 39 years old, in a jealous rage and then attempted to take his own life. Mrs. Le Bow, a stenographer, died today of a bullet wound inflicted in her home during a quarrel with Schoenegge. The policeman said he saw red, when Mrs. Le Bow returned home from a visit to Canada wearing an engagement ring. The patrolman's bullet wound is not serious.

TODAY-WEDNESDAY-IS POST DAY

"ADVERTISING MEN MAKE CRAZY HUSBANDS!"

SUPPOSE you're a woman, you love your husband, it's your tenth anniversary, and he's given you a gorgeous bracelet and a gorgeous kiss. And then suddenly you discover he is turning your wedding anniversary party into a business conference. What's the treatment for a $50,000-a-year crazy man who gives you everything but his time?

In this novel Samson Raphaelson, author of such stage and screen successes as Accent on Youth, One Hour With You, Trouble in Paradise, and Angel, punches out a staccato love story with a genuine advertising flavor. Start it on page 5 of the Post.

THE MEDICAL COUNSELOR.

A medical counselor has been engaged by the Dearborn Mutual Benefit association, an organization operated by employés of THE TRIBUNE. Employés will be free to consult the counselor [though, needless to say, there is no obligation to do so] not in his capacity as a physician but as one well qualified to give advice on a special category of medical problems.

The counselor will perform a service for which there appears to be a considerable need. The individual who thinks he requires medical attention for himself or a member of his family is frequently puzzled to know where to go for it and, being puzzled, sometimes goes to the wrong place and often fails to go anywhere. The consequences of these mistakes are often costly in every sense. Department heads report that they have been asked many times for advice regarding physicians, hospitals, probable fees, etc., advice which the department head, in the nature of things, is unqualified to give. It is to help in solving personal problems of this sort that the counselor has been retained. He will not make thorough examinations or diagnoses or offer treatment. He will confine himself to giving advice about where these things can be obtained at a cost within the employé's means. If the employé desires the counselor will assist him also in arranging financial details with hospitals, doctors, and laboratories.

This is but the latest of a considerable number of innovations intended to relieve Tribune employés of avoidable worry and physical discomfort. Almost all of the plans have worked out well and most of them have worked out far better than was expected. For example, when a systematic pension plan was introduced in 1911, some pessimists predicted that the cost would be staggering. In fact there has been no rush to get on the pension list; on the contrary, most of the employés eligible for pensions have preferred to remain at work as long as they were physically able to do so. There is every reason to believe that the knowledge that a pension system exists has relieved a great deal of worry and by doing so has promoted peace of mind and therefore efficiency in the plant.

The guarantee of regular pay during illness has also proved of unexpected value to all concerned. It has encouraged men and women to take proper care of themselves when ill, as was expected, but that, in turn, has had desirable consequences which were not so clearly foreseen. A man who is ill is not as a rule an efficient worker and if he is suffering from an infectious illness those who are working with him are likely to catch it from him. Thanks in considerable measure, we believe, to the sick benefit plan, the efficiency of the working force has been improved, the amount of illness has declined, and the period of illness has been appreciably shortened.

A similar experience followed the introduction of air conditioning in the plant. It was intended originally to make working conditions in summer more comfortable, but valuable as it has been for this purpose, it has produced unexpected by-products in reducing the incidence of air borne diseases among Tribune employés and has greatly reduced the discomfort of those suffering from hay fever.

The experiment may throw light on the question whether adequate medical care can be provided as medical practice is at present organized at a price which the family of moderate income can afford to pay. In this respect the position of Tribune employés is a somewhat exceptional one, not only because the average level of wages and salaries on the newspaper is high and employment is exceptionally steady throughout the year but also because of the sick benefit provisions. It must be noted, also, that a substantial proportion of the employés have enrolled in the Chicago Plan for Hospital Care. With his income assured and in many cases with his ordinary hospital bills provided for, the Tribune employé in time of illness is relieved of two of the principal sources of worry.

The medical counselor has been appointed in the belief that the remaining costs can be met in most if not in all cases without overstraining family resources. The counselor, it is hoped, can save the man who consults him from making costly mistakes, including the mistake of neglecting illnesses which will become far more serious if they are not promptly treated. As a further step toward reducing the costs of illness the counselor will make frequent inspections of the plant with a view to correcting any unhygienic conditions which he may discover.

Though the service is limited to Tribune employés and their families, the plan has been announced publicly in the belief that it may prove of interest to medical men, employers, and employés generally.

Of late years the tendency has been to assume that the government must bear the responsibility and the taxpayers the burden of protecting the individual from all the misfortunes that flesh is heir to. We are satisfied that the extension of this doctrine will be unsatisfactory for all concerned. Costs will be needlessly high and political influence will make for inefficiency and administrative incompetence. The task properly belongs to the business corporation in its capacity as employer. It will pay the bill or most of it in either case, but if it administers the various welfare plans they will be handled more considerately and more efficiently than if the bureaucrats are allowed to run the show and take their percentage.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Roosevelt's appointments to public office are nearly all of one pattern. He has something of Mussolini's instinctive and also calculated avoidance of persons whose attainments and abilities could be regarded as distinguished. The same is true of Hitler and Stalin. These rulers have very good reasons for stopping the development of other careers. They are not only opposed to distributing honors and credit but they are afraid. A one man government cannot permit a challenge to arise. All greatness must be embodied in the one man. The old injunction to the usurper is to cut off all the tallest heads.

Any one would be stumped to name Mr. Hopkins' qualifications for the department of commerce, and the same goes for former Gov. Murphy of Michigan who has been nominated for the department of justice. He probably has an engaging personality, but his public career has given him small chance to equip himself for the post of attorney general, and his recent official acts, as governor, were to prevent the enforcement of court orders for the protection of individual rights under the law.

Those acts were not offensive to the morals and principles of the New Deal, but in a more scrupulous administration it would be thought that a man oddly proved his fitness as a law enforcer by using his authority to obstruct enforcement.

MANIACS AT LARGE.

The escape of four homicidal maniacs from an Ohio hospital for the criminal insane is only the latest reminder of slack administration in our penal institutions. An institution in which are assembled the most dangerous human animals should be so managed that escape is impossible, but so long as politics has anything to do with the selection of employés there will be breaks. The break at Lima may not have involved any extreme incompetence or any corruption, but it cannot be condoned. It should not have been possible at all.

Citizens may well wonder why persons suffering from a form of insanity which is dangerous to life should not be put out of existence rather than supported at public expense, a constant threat to public safety. But if we are not yet ready to establish a procedure which can be safeguarded from abuse to dispose of murderous maniacs finally, we ought at least to insist that they be so securely shut up, under such iron discipline, that escape is impossible. The Lima break calls for strict inquiry and drastic measures to prevent recurrence.

COMMUNISM IN THE SCHOOLS.

The defense of persons who need defense against the Dies committee investigators is the simple one of attributing sensationalism, falsification, and defamation of character to the committee and its backers. The persons who would give a good deal if they could stop the inquiry and smother its reports still hope that there is a prevailing incredulity in the mass of people which can be manipulated by ridicule of the investigation into refusing to take the facts seriously.

The term "Red baiter" has been built up in an attempt to make it stigmatize any effort to interpret some of the very powerful political influences which have undertaken to gain ascendancy by disguising most of the real purposes. The New Deal does not like to have its secret affinities revealed. The active communists prefer that their gains should not be clearly perceived. They have been extraordinarily successful, but it is an uneasy sort of triumph. This is not the time for overt acts.

Conditions are favorable for the spread of communist doctrin, but the tactics require suavity and there is nothing to gain and everything to lose by indiscreet emphasis of program and progress.

Within the last few days there has been a disclosure of the extent to which the ranks of the teachers in New York have been penetrated by Marxians. After it had been revealed that three well known professors had resigned from the American Federation of Teachers because of a communist doctrinal schism, Prof. George S. Counts also threatened to resign from the union if it did not repudiate the Stalinite publication called the Vanguard, which, he said, was printing "malicious reports with no regard for the truth."

Prof. Counts is not objecting to the teaching of Marxian economy and political theory but to the intrigue of communist sectarianism. The New York teaching profession has already been so indoctrinated that dissent and the privilege of minorities are now issues. The Dies committee, if its enemies are not allowed to kill it, may find out what is happening in American education.

Editorial of the Day

HATS OFF, LADIES!
[Illinois State Journal.]

Movie producers who are said to be concerned over declining attendance at the cinema should stop worrying about the quality of their productions and take a good look at the hats women are wearing. The trouble with the movies isn't that people don't like them. It is that people can't see them through the three decker bonnet on the head of the lady in the next row.

The solution may be for the managers of the theaters to promote contests with prizes for the women with the most sensible chapeaux. If that doesn't work, let them furnish trick paper hats to all their patrons. If a man wore an African voodoo doctor's headdress in the theater he might be able to bargain with the woman in the seat in back of him. If she would remove her hat, then he would doff his—and so on. Before long the problem would solve itself.

The producers have brought it on themselves. For several seasons the glamor girls of Hollywood have vied with one another in appearing before the cameras with the most outrageous creations in the way of headgear. If Will Hayes' office can compel the ladies to wear hats with a minimum of spread perhaps their sisters in the audience will take the hint.

But if something isn't done before long we don't want to contemplate what will happen. One night a woman is going to go to the theater wearing one of those high bearskins affected by Britain's Coldstream guards. Next a jealous female, not to be outdone, will fasten to her head the entire tailfeathers, outstretched, of a peacock. We dread the day when the ultimate will appear—will it be a reproduction of the Empire State building, as tall again as the wearer herself, or will it be a huge globe, four feet in diameter, painted to represent the earth?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

TODAY IS DEKAO 16.

Since this is the time of year for hanging up new calendars, how would you like one on which the Fourth of July is marked as Kadro 14? We ask because we have come into possession of a system for dividing up the year which is as ingenious as the methods of the French and Russian revolutionists.

N. J. Werner of St. Louis is the inventor of this calendar. He bases it on a six day week, and states that he got the idea from a German typefounder about thirty years ago, long before the bolshevists put it into practice. So let's see what the year will look like according to the Werner system.

It begins at the spring equinox on March 21. This New Year's day is set apart in the numbering. Then with March 22 it starts counting off six day weeks, omitting Friday "because many people regard it as unlucky." Each month of the twelve has five weeks; every third month has thirty-one days. The thirty-firsts are called "end days," and are holidays.

The names of the months are new. They are based upon the roots of Latin and Greek numerals and sound like Esperanto, thus: Unito, Dueto, Trezo, Kadro, Pento, Sizmo, Hepto, Lokto, Noevo, Dekao, Elevo, and Telfo. These names have the continental Latin pronunciation.

Leap year's day, called Lyday, is an unnumbered insertion, like New Year's day, which is called Nyday. It occurs between Sizmo 31 and Hepto 1.

IN MEMORY OF ZONA GALE.
(Born Aug. 26, 1874; died Dec. 27, 1938.)

Weep, Wisconsin, mourn her passing,
Who with gentle, gifted hand
Immortalized your wayside hamlets
Through the cities of the land.
Kneel, Wisconsin, bowed in sorrow
At the bier where Portage kneels,
Shaken by a poet's passing,
Sharing grief the whole world feels.
But arise again, Wisconsin,
Brush your blinding tears aside,
And keep this thought for comfort—
We may know with loving pride
That wherever words of beauty
Shall stir the hearts of men,
Zona's memory lives forever,
Zona's spirit glows again.

May We Call Him "Seedy"?

Every American who was named after the hero of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and they are fairly numerous in the ages of 48 to 50, will rise in protest against Sir Cedric Hardwicke's idea that his first name should be pronounced Seed-ric. Every reference work in the Linemaster's library, which is strong on such points, shouts down the English actor. There is a choice between Sed-ric and Ked-ric, but Hardwicke's long "e" appears to be out of order—that is, until you remember how the English pronounce Cholmondeley. However, it is a convenient method for permitting his close friends to address him as "Old Seed."

The Unlucky Dickenses.

My uncle, Frank Emmons, who owns a farm about three miles south of Amboy, Ill., told me that a brother of Charles Dickens had what was called a "shooting box" on his farm and that a son and a daughter [nephew and niece of Charles Dickens] died of cholera on the farm and were buried there. My uncle stated that for many years there were wooden markers and a fence around the graves, but these have long since been gone. He has marked a tree near the spot where the two little graves are. Emmons Rees.

PRAIRIE TOASTMASTER.

He squats out on a cactus mound
And talks to all the world around,
This toastman of the darkness dread,
His nose high up, his jaws wide spread.
Ou ou, ki yi, ou yip, oo oo!
Hell seems his speech to trickle through.

The ranch dogs for a mile respond
With answers more confused than fond.
That outcast cry to them returns
Old, hidden instincts, ancient yearns,
As they join in with bow yip oo!
Halt for a gasp and then renew.

So drifts the night, black, starlit, gray,
To meet and greet another day.
And as the shafts of dawn steal over
The coyote seeks his coulee cover,
Pausing, perchance, as down he trots,
To yelp a string of forgetmenots.

Elm Trees Are Getting Bigger.

Entry in the giant elm contest, started by Delta Theta No. 371 on Dec. 13 with the Lombard Elm, spread of 130 feet:

The Logan Elm, near Circleville, O., thirty miles south of Columbus. "Wandering Buckeye" testifies:

"This majestic tree measures more than twenty-two feet around the trunk six feet above the ground, has a spread in excess of 148 feet, and at one time towered to a height of almost 100 feet. Under it the peace treaty was signed between Chief Cornstalk of the Shawnees, Chief Logan of the Mingoes, and Lord Dunsmore, colonial governor of Virginia, in 1773. It is undoubtedly one of the oldest and largest elm trees in the country."

Near the tree is a granite monument to Chief Logan, quoting at length from the speech he delivered at the signing of the treaty—a classic of Indian oratory which begins:

"I appeal to any white man to say if ever he entered Logan's cabin hungry and he gave him not meat; if ever he came cold and naked and he clothed him not."

TOO MUCH TO ASK!

Dear, I know I have been indiscreet,
I'm sorry to have grieved you like that.
But won't you be broadminded, my sweet?
Come now. . . . Love me, love my new hat.

Billie Churchill.

It's easy for a man to get in deep with a shallow woman. Serega.

THE HEADACHE HABIT.

THE frequency of headache is well known to most of us. In this very fact lies some element of danger because "familiarity breeds contempt." We are likely to think of episodes of this nature as of little or no importance and we may befog the whole situation—as far as diagnosis is concerned—by taking a dose of pain killer such as aspirin.

Descriptive comments vary widely. One individual may label the distress as "splitting." Others will say, "I feel as though a bolt had been thrust through my temples." Now and then the suffering is so intense that the victim may exclaim, "My head is ready to explode." Marked tenderness of the scalp may become evident with areas so sensitive to the touch that the patient will cry out should a comb or a brush be applied.

Any one may have an occasional attack lasting from one to several hours. This may not be of sufficient moment to require a careful analysis inasmuch as the body, with its great powers of readjustment, will correct the condition—if we leave it alone. But the one who exhibits the symptom periodically—once every three or four days—may be overlooking a significant organic condition which may influence well being. A chronic inflammatory process within the kidneys, a brain tumor, or bad behavior on the part of the arteries may be the culprit.

It would require about all of the words in the dictionary to set forth the many sources alleged to lie at the bottom of the complaint. Those which are encountered habitually, however, may be enumerated. We can understand readily that any change in the circulation will affect the brain, as well as the balance of the system. Should a marked increase in blood pressure occur we are likely to face a sense of fullness within the skull. Again, if the blood vessels become unduly dilated—typical of congestion—discomfort is almost sure to follow.

The complaint may accompany the onset of any acute infection such as influenza or a cold. While it may be mild, it is sometimes severe. The toxins produced by the invading bacteria are probably to blame, leading to engorgement of the blood channels within the cranium. If the agony continues, vomiting may be added to the picture as a sympathetic response on the part of the digestive tract.

One commonly accepted doctrin is that constipation is always attended with the symptom. The fact of the matter is that the so-called constipation headache more often than not has its beginnings in a quite distant region of the body. While it is true that those with chronic head disturbances may become slaves to a sluggish bowel, I have seen improvement follow the drinking of two or three glasses of hot water. The effect is far more salutary than the relief experienced by the taking of a coal tar drug.

Then the factors of fatigue, nervous exhaustion, insufficient food, and eyestrain will need to be investigated. The starvation form will be experienced with many if a single meal is missed, while others will be bothered with a morning phase whenever sleep is lost. Finally, infection within the sinuses must not be overlooked, although the disorder from this cause is relatively rare. Chronic sinus disease is not the basis, as a rule.

We must not confuse these interval manifestations with migraine or sick headache, which is quite a different malady and for which overwrought nerves or upset metabolism may be responsible. For the patient with the ordinary variety the physician should conduct a sufficiently thorough examination to make certain that no organic difficulty is present. If none is found, 75 per cent of the sporadic examples will disappear with more rest, let-up of nervous tension, and possibly a better balanced dietary.

MAY BE TEETHING.

D. T. writes: What causes my 21 month old daughter to drool constantly?

REPLY.

Excessive secretion of saliva may be the result of teething or inflammation within the mouth or throat. Functional nervous disturbances are responsible occasionally. Sometimes the child will not swallow with sufficient frequency. Inspection of the oral cavity will probably disclose the cause.

NO EVIDENCE OF IT.

C. M. B. writes: Does tularemia [rabbit fever] affect domestic animals as well as wild ones?

REPLY.

The infection has never been reported by rabbit breeders and these animals may be used for food with perfect safety. Nevertheless, thorough cooking of the meat is always in order.

RATES ARE NORMAL

W. S. writes: Does a pulse rate of 60 beats a minute indicate anything wrong in a man of 25? Is a rate of 74 beats in a woman, 24 years old, all right?

REPLY.

In each case the rate is normal.

THEY BOTH GET IT.

P. M. H. writes: When my nose is stopped up, and I breathe through only one nostril, are both lungs supplied with air, or only one?

REPLY.

Each lung receives the same quantity of air.

YES, BUT WHY DO IT?

E. P. writes: Is it safe to eat uncooked prunes and other dried fruit?

REPLY.

Safe but foolish. Cooking renders them more palatable and relieves the digestive organs of a good deal of work.

ABOUT 72 DEGREES FAHRENHEIT.

W. F. E. writes: What is considered the correct room temperature for persons of normal health and average activity?

REPLY.

About 72 degrees Fahrenheit with a relative humidity [moisture] of 30 or higher.

SURGERY ADVISED.

J. D. writes: What is the treatment for polyps of the nose?

REPLY.

Surgical removal, the elimination of all obstructions to free breathing, and providing adequate drainage from the sinuses.

VINEGAR RINSE.

C. R. writes: Is it harmful in any way to use vinegar to rinse the hair after a shampoo?

REPLY.

Not at all.

BETTER LUCK IN '39.

Cicero, Ill., Dec. 29.—I am a young man 23 years old, living alone and supporting myself, as I have for quite a number of years.

What I would like to know is just when all this New Deal prosperity is going to take place. As yet I never have been able to find a steady job.

Either I haven't the experience or I'm not old enough, and by the time I do get the experience I'll probably be too old.

I can't get on WPA, and wouldn't if I could. I don't want any of the New Deal relief and I don't expect to live long enough to collect any social security benefits. I don't want to starve. All I ask for is a steady job with a fair living wage; or will I have to wait until all the Democrats die of old age before I find it? EDWARD WUCKA.

RUNNING THE LIGHTS.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—It was good to see in this morning's TRIBUNE that action is finally being taken to curb the running of red and amber safety lights by irresponsible drivers. This particular bit of law breaking has long been a pet peeve of mine, and many's the time I have silently cursed drivers who could not wait until the light became green.

Unfortunately, THE TRIBUNE'S circulation staf does not always seem to be aware of the contents of the news section of the paper. Tonight, Dec. 26, at 9:25 p. m. a Tribune truck came to a momentary halt at Ohio and Wabash, with the light red against it. Before the light turned amber the truck was once again on its way, eastward on Ohio street, and it was half way across Ohio before the light changed to amber. It continued merrily on its course, finally turning south on Rush.

I must admit that the driver did stop long enough to make sure there was no trafic on Wabash. Nevertheless, he did run the light, and on a night when driving was particularly hazardous because of icy pavements. LAWRENCE GOODNOW.

PROFIT SHARING BY LAW.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 28.—I read with a great deal of interest the editorial in today's edition entitled "Profit Sharing by Law." This subject is deserving of the widest and clearest exposition in order that employés may understand it thoroughly.

Your editorial pointed to a number of considerations which should not be lost sight of in any analysis of broad questions involved. The important thing the employé must decide is whether profit sharing will provide him with greater stability of employment and income than he is receiving. Profit sharing might, without warning, be found to be loss sharing, thereby elevating the peaks and sinking the valleys, which we in industry are most anxious to avoid from the standpoint of employment as well as production.

PAUL G. HOFFMAN,

HITLER'S TECHNIQUE.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Dec. 30.—I think I have discovered the source of Herr Hitler's inspiration. He must have been reading a sketch of Tennyson, in which occurs this passage about the poet's mother:

"Mrs. Tennyson . . . was so kind-hearted that it had passed into a proverb, and the wicked inhabitants of a neighboring village used to bring their dogs to her windows and beat them in order to be bribed to leave off by the gentle lady." CHARLES LEE BRYSON.

THE MORE ABUNDANT LIFE.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—In the spring of 1937 I received from the "Chief of Labor Assignment" of WPA a pink slip known as a 403, which read, "certification canceled; eligible for O. A. A.", which, in plain English, meant that I was forced off WPA and compelled to apply for old age assistance. In other words I was 65 years of age and ready for the discard.

When President Roosevelt learned of this order he rescinded it and stated that any WPA employé who was physically and mentally active and of value to the project must not be discharged on account of age. The sponsor of the project I was on went to bat for me and I was reinstated.

Again I find myself out, and while they do not give O. A. A. as the reason, it is very plain that it is, as every one 65 or over on WPA has received a discharge.

As the old age pensions in Illinois average $17.50 per month, and my wife is not of an age to qualify, and I cannot work to supplement the pension, we are expected to live on this sum, plus a small relief allowance for my wife. I have been credited with being a good financier, but this is too much for me. If WPA or CRA have the answer I will be most grateful to learn how they do it.

With a college education, many years of business and executive experience, with robust health and mentally active, with a strong desire to work for our daily bread, I find myself too old for employment in industry, too old for employment on WPA, too old to be worthy of decent consideration by the country and state of my birth. What a travesty on age, what a dark blot on the fair name of my America.

Had the money appropriated for WPA not been wasted and stolen by unscrupulous men in the higher brackets, many thousands who are now suffering actual privation would be at work, receiving enough for comfort instead of existing in despair. ONE OF THE VICTIMS.

THE CHEVROLET PLANT IN OAKLAND.

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 27.—In your issue of Nov. 27, 1938, pages 1 and 4, there is an article under the title, "C. I. O. Strangles San Francisco; Industries Die."

On page 1 the article is largely devoted to statistics referring to San Francisco. In the latter part of the article, on page 4, you state, "Because of San Francisco labor strife, the Chevrolet automobile assembly plant, employing 3,500 men, was moved to Los Angeles."

In the first place, the Chevrolet automobile assembly plant is not located in San Francisco; it is located in Oakland. In the second place, and most important, it did not move to Los Angeles; it is still here. Furthermore, it has never had to operate under strike conditions.

We think that, in fairness to this community, a retraction is in order.

A. L. KENNEDY,
Manager, Industrial Department, Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

CALL FOR COMPOSERS.

Elmwood Park, Ill., Dec. 28.—If Johann Strauss could do what he did with a gray strip of water in Vienna, and name it the beautiful blue Danube, then surely with all that we have here some wide-awake composer should be able to give us a very beautiful song about the new Chicago. IOWN KINGSON.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Is there any more unfair tax than the personal property tax?

My sister and I [one in the 60s and the other in the 80s] having saved and lived very carefully, now get a tax assessment of $200. Numerous issues pay nothing, but just because we hold them we should pay such a bill! We both filed schedules, but these were disregarded and bills made out as the office men saw fit.

Why not have an income tax, as I understand Wisconsin has? If one sells securities to pay the personal property tax, after awhile there will be additions to the relief rolls. If everybody paid their share nobody would have to pay very much. JANE HARKINS.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

THEFT OF BOND.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I had a bond [debenture bond] stolen from me in August, 1937.

2. I advised the company, also their bank, to stop payment on same, but [3] now I am informed that the bond has been cashed at a bank in Oak Park, Ill.

4. Is it possible for me to take any action against the bank in Oak Park?

5. Can action be taken against the man who presented this bond at the bank?

6. Do you advise me to put this case in the hands of the police? I. P.

1. We assume that the bond was so worded as to be payable to bearer.

2. If the thief sold the bond before maturity to a holder in due course he would have a good legal title and the debtor company would not be in a position to refuse to pay.

3. If what you mean is that the bank has, in substance, purchased the bond, then presumably it is a holder in due course and entitled to collect.

4. Obviously, the mere fact that they have cashed the bond would not give you any right of action against them.

5. His rights and liabilities would depend on whether he is a holder in due course.

6. Yes, if you have any reason for assuming that any of the parties whom you can trace had guilty knowledge of the crime.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My building was foreclosed and taken for mortgage in 1932. I have heard that a [1] judgment note is held against me which I did not sign. I would like to know [2] if it is possible that the note is still in force against me from 1932? 3. Is it possible that they could hold the note against me if they got the building for the mortgage? S. M.

1. It seems probable that what is meant is a deficiency decree. This should not have been entered against you if you did not sign or assume the original mortgage debt. If you question the decree, the first step would be to examine it in the office of the clerk of the court.

2. If your name was signed to the mortgage notes it is probable that a deficiency decree is standing against you.

3. Yes, in the sense above stated.

POLICE CAR WITH NEON SIGNS TO SET SAFETY PACE

See and Take Heed Is Idea of Park Experiment.

New methods in trafic control, reacting to the benefit of motorists, are being inaugurated on the park district's boulevards and drives. James B. Kerr, chief of the park police, said yesterday that tests are being conducted with a squad car carrying the word "police" in neon letters eight inches high on its top.

"The sign is visible for three-quarters of a mile," Kerr said. "When drivers see it, they should use it as a governor on their speed because police cars are directed to travel at the legal speed limit of whatever district they are patroling.

Seek to Avoid Speed Traps.

"We don't want to operate speed traps in the park district. We want people to know a police car when they see one. There won't be any camouflaging. If we find the neon sign can be operated satisfactorily, we will equip several other cars similarly."

Kerr instructed his trafic policemen to give erring motorists more conversation and fewer tickets.

"If a driver has committed a minor offense," Kerr told the police, "don't be too hasty with him. More accidents can be prevented if the driver is approached in a friendly way than if he is browbeaten and handed a ticket."

Kerr said that supervising sergeants who have been accustomed to making their rounds in squad cars hereafter will make their inspections on foot.

Adds Fifteen Cars to Patrol.

"They will see more." Kerr said, "and get closer to their men and the public than they ever could while the major portion of their attention was needed for driving. Besides, walking will be healthier for them."

The "grounding" of the sergeants will make fifteen more squad cars available for regular trafic duty, increasing the total number to fifty-eight cars. A new centralized method of handling accident and trafic violation information also has been established. The method will make it possible to tell the number and probable cause of accidents at any point in the park district.

1,309 MOTORISTS' DRIVING RIGHTS SUSPENDED IN '38

Last year 1,309 reckless motorists were deprived of their driving privileges for varying periods by judges of the Safety court, it was reported yesterday. Jail sentences also were imposed on 348 of the drivers, while 734 were fined and 227 placed on probation. During the year a total of 413 drivers were sent to the County jail, 8 to the Bridewell, and 1,655 were fined.

Two motorists were sentenced to serve five days each in the County jail yesterday by Judge Stephen Adamowski in the Safety court.

John Montgomery Jr., 2251 West 121st street, Blue Island, was convicted of driving while intoxicated. Police testified he tried twice to escape after being seized at 110th street and Western avenue early yesterday.

Ike Walker, colored, of 1927 Maypole avenue, was sentenced for driving recklessly. His automobile struck another car at Ogden avenue and Lake street on Dec. 30.

STATE BUILDING CONTRACTS FOR $852,532 ARE LET

The state architecture and engineering division at Springfield yesterday awarded contracts aggregating $852,532 for construction work at thirteen state institutions. The largest contracts are for a diagnostic building at the Jacksonville state hospital to cost $234,965, and a similar building at the Chicago state hospital at Dunning to cost $233,526.

The Jacksonville job was awarded to James McHugh and the Dunning job to Charles B. Johnson & Son, Inc., both Chicago contracting companies. Other contracts included construction of new dormitories and classrooms at the Illinois School for Deaf at Jacksonville, $207,000, and an isolation building at the Dixon state hospital, $71,755.

The architecture and engineering division also received low bids totaling $772,650 for work at other state institutions.

Uniformed Shriners Hold Annual Parade at Circus

Five hundred uniformed members of the Shrine paraded last night in the International Amphitheater on Shrine night, the occasion of their annual appearance at the winter circus staged by the Shrine for the benefit of the organization's charitable activities. Earl W. Shepherd, illustrious potentate of Medinah temple, led the march of the Shriners, which included two bands and two marching units.

SKIDDING AUTO HITS STREET CAR; BOTH CATCH FIRE

Conductor Burned by Flaming Gasoline.

An automobile and a street car both caught fire last night after a collision at Devon and Ridge avenues. Joseph Collinge, 46 years old, 1910 Cuyler avenue, conductor of the car, was burned on the face and hands. He was taken to a hospital, where it was said his injuries were not serious.

Gordon Nelson, 21, of 1547 Highland avenue, was the driver of the automobile. It skidded into the rear end of the car. His gasoline tank was smashed and the flaming liquid was hurled on the platform, where Collinge stood. Nelson and the car's thirty passengers were unhurt. The blaze was extinguished by firemen.

Auto Kills Pedestrian, 75.

Michael Rouhan, 75, of 2347 Wilson avenue, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile at Wilson and Claremont avenues. Anton Guertz, 4426 Kasson avenue, was the driver.

Chicago Lawn police were searching yesterday for the hit and run driver whose automobile early in the day killed Mrs. Stella Petrauskus, 43 years old, of 3948 56th street. Her body was found at 56th street and Pulaski road.

Lake Bluff yesterday recorded its first automobile fatality in six years with the death of Charles Olds, 24, a telegraph messenger. Olds, who lived in Lake Forest on McKinley road, was injured when the car in which he was riding skidded off Sheridan road near Ravine Forest on Monday.

Dies in Truck-Auto Crash.

John Poore, 32, of 15233 Center avenue, Harvey, a tree surgeon, was fatally injured in a collision at Marshfield avenue and 156th street, Harvey, between a truck and an automobile.

Patrick McLaughlin, 73, of 5631 South Green street, died in the Evangelical hospital of trafic injuries.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 16 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 15 were killed in Chicago, where 141 were injured during the same period.

CITY TO RECEIVE SECOND SUBWAY BIDS TOMORROW

Philip Harrington, city subway commissioner, will receive contractors' bids for the second section of the State street subway at 2 p. m. tomorrow. The bids will be opened and read in room 1940, Civic Opera building. The second subway section is in Clybourn avenue between Goethe street and Concord place. It is about three-fourths of a mile long.

The city council today is expected to approve a change in subway specifications that will save $756,000 in construction costs. The revised plans reduce the overall width of the tunnels by nine inches and the height by four inches. The changes, Harrington said, will be accomplished by reducing the thickness of the subway walls and the clearance inside the tunnels.

India Hands Peasants $70,000,000 Gift of Rent

ALLAHABAD, India, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Indian peasants greeted with rousing cheers today a New Year's gift of nearly $70,000,000 from the United Provinces government. Rafi Ahmad Kidwai, minister of revenue, announced the government had decided to cancel back rent amounting to approximately 200,000,000 rupees [$69,600,000].

4101-9 Kedvale avenue	1,673
1636-44 West Kinzie street	580

The suits ask the court to authorize the sale of the properties to satisfy the tax claims.

CHICAGO LICENSE FEES GAIN A HALF MILLION IN YEAR

Revenue from all city license fees was increased by $538,651 last year, City Collector Louis Rixmann said yesterday. Collections totaled $14,403,758, compared with $13,865,107 for 1937.

This includes tavern licenses, vehicle licenses, and regulatory permits for miscellaneous businesses. Tavern and miscellaneous fees are paid into the corporate fund, while the vehicle tax is a separate fund used for repair and maintenance of streets.

In 1938, tavern licenses yielded $5,670,300 and miscellaneous, $3,633,182, a total of $9,303,482. The increase over 1937 was $525,015. This was used in restoring city employes' pay to the pre-depression level.

Revenue from vehicle licenses amounted to $5,100,276, compared with $5,086,640 in 1937. Chicago's record-breaking street improvement was partly financed with this money.

WILLIAM QUINLAN DIES; STREET CAR UNION PRESIDENT

William Quinlan, veteran Chicago labor leader and president of the street car men's union for thirty-one years, died yesterday in the home of his sister, Mrs. Hattie Mahoney, 1442 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn. He was born seventy-seven years ago near Springfield, Mass.

William Quinlan.

Mr. Quinlan, who had been in ill health for several years, died only a few hours before he was to have been retired as president of division 241 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America. He was one of the organizers of the local union which has represented workers of the Chicago Surface Lines since 1902.

Installation of new officers of the union, already scheduled for last night, was held as a memorial service for Mr. Quinlan. Joseph J. Kehoe, for many years recording secretary of the union, succeeded as president.

Mr. Quinlan came to Chicago in 1893 and went to work for the street car lines as a machinist at the Kedzie avenue barns.

Besides his sister, two brothers, Patrick and Frank, both of Springfield, Mass., survive.

His body will lie in state at union headquarters at 332 South Ashland boulevard for twenty-four hours beginning at 2 p. m. today. It will then be taken to Springfield for burial.

SO PASSES GLORY OF WAUKEGAN AS A GRETNA GREEN

Waukegan's day as a Gretna Green is over. Only 931 marriage licenses were issued there last year. Jay B. Morse, Lake county clerk, reported yesterday. In 1937, there were 2,354, and in the preceding year, 4,083.

Russ Alford almost put the marriage mill out of business when he was county clerk by refusing to keep the license bureau open nights. The new health requirements and three day notice regulations finished the job. Sixty-five per cent of the licenses are now issued to Lake county residents. Romantic young couples from out of the county used to take most of them.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Clara Lauterbach.

Mrs. Clara Lauterbach, 56 years old, died yesterday in her home, 1654 East 86th place, after several months of ill health. Mrs. Lauterbach, the youngest daughter of Peter Schmidt, pioneer meat packer and merchant of Chicago, had been active for several years in the Order of Eastern Star and the White Shrine. Surviving are her husband, Julius G.; a son, Arthur, and three grandchildren. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Midway Masonic temple. Burial will be in Oakwoods cemetery.

Your Chicago and Mine Notes.

There's an 1881 model miniature range in a second-hand shop on North Wells street, perfect and complete even to the copper lined reservoir for hot water. . . . And around the corner on North avenue in a second-hand silver shop there's a china shaving mug encrusted with silver, with the well known name, J. B. Forgan, engraved on it. . . . A violin maker has an establishment on North Wells street, and he has some tiny violins that would fit into the palm of your hand that really play. Fritz Kreisler goes to visit the violin maker when he is in town.

Cuff Notes.

New Year's honors, were they awarded for entertainment in Chicago, should go to Raphael, the man with the baby concertina who plays nightly at the Yar. A few strains from his concertina and the place becomes as hushed as a church. His rendition of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony is something to remember. And he plays blues as well as he does Bach. . . . Don't miss the new Walt Disney at the United Artists, Mother Goose, with caricatures of movie stars as leading characters. You'd swear it was Hepburn herself speaking in the Little Bo Peep number. . . . Add seasonal monikers: There's a lawyer named Winter Snow in Grand Rapids. . . . Also, speaking of names, a Pleiades Murphy lives in Chicago. She wrote that she's adopting the idea of the Pleiades done in gilt stars on Christmas packages, described here.

Author's Orchid.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, brilliant English actor appearing in Shadow and Substance, once played the rôle of the king in George Bernard Shaw's The Applecart. He tells that he received an enthusiastic letter from a woman who had attended the performance. He didn't look like a king, or act like a king, or have the qualities she imagined a king would have, the writer said, but she had thought his repartee admirable. Sir Cedric sent the letter along to Shaw,, saying that it seemed to be for him.

A letter to Santa, printed in the Mundelein college Skyscraper, requested a tall, handsome tackle or football captain as escort to the writer to the Skyscraper ball. One of the prettiest students, Peggy Jordan, came to the ball with Notre Dame's star tackle, Tom Gallagher.

Egg-Timing.

Milton Berle told it between acts at Chez Paree. Two film musicians of his acquaintance in Hollywood, accustomed to recording for sound track, were down on their luck and rooming together. One of them wanted to cook a couple of three minute eggs, but had no clock.

"Play three choruses of 'Dinah'," suggested his roommate.

The musician did this, but when he took the eggs out of the water discovered they weren't cooked enough.

"You probably forgot to finish with the eight bar tag," said his partner.

Brings to mind one tea drinker's method of timing the brewing of the tea. He allowed the hot water to remain upon the tea leaves the length of time it takes to say the Miserere psalm very slowly—the one that begins: Have mercy upon me, O God, after thy great goodness. . . .

City Prepares a Welcome for Many Notables

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOCIAL circles this month will be kept busy entertaining and being entertained by men and women whose names make news, for there will be any number of them here. Foremost among them is Arturo Toscanini, who is coming to conduct a benefit concert for the Passavant hospital on the last night of the month.

It is probable, however, that his activities will be limited to entertaining, for he accepts little in the way of hospitality. Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, the gracious and efficient president of the woman's board of the hospital, will want to entertain for him and Mme. Toscanini, of course, but it is doubtful if anything can be arranged. Although tickets for the concert just have been placed on sale, already numbers of them are gone. Perhaps Chicago will equal Boston's record when the seats for a benefit concert he will conduct there on Jan. 10 were all sold in four days. At $10 per seat, too, which is only $1 less than is being asked for main floor seats in the Auditorium by the Passavant women. Boxes are $200 each; balcony seats from $5 to $2, and gallery ones are $1 and $2.

Earlier in the month, around the 24th, another well known musician, Mlle. Nadia Boulanger of Paris, is arriving for a visit. The John Alden Carpenters will be among her hosts. Mlle. Boulanger, who is a music teacher, organist, and orchestra conductor—she conducted the Boston Symphony for Koussevitsky last February—is to lecture at the Arts club, the University of Chicago, and at the Dushkin school. Mlle. Boulanger was the guest of the Murry Nelsons some years ago. She now is teaching at Wellesley college and the Longy school of music in Cambridge.

Agent of Franco to Be Guest in City.

This week the Carpenters will have as their guest a former Spanish ambassador to Washington and Paris, Juan F. de Cardenas. Signor Cardenas is "the agent of Generalissimo Franco and his authorities in the United States." He is to talk on Friday at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and that afternoon Mrs. Carpenter is giving a reception at her home for him. The council meeting will be at 12:30 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

Today's lion, only this time it is a lioness, is Miss Lucile Swan of Peiping, who has brought her sculpture and drawings from China to show them to Chicagoans. The Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Decorators is giving a tea for her today from 4 until 6 o'clock in their headquarters at 620 North Michigan avenue.

Woman's A. C. to Hear Hunter.

The Woman's Athletic club is to have another evening affair to which husbands and beaux have been invited. The men are certain to enjoy it, too, for it is to be an illustrated lecture by Sasha A. Siemel, hunter of South American jaguars. There will be cocktails and dinner preceding the lecture, which is to be given at 8:30 o'clock Friday evening.

The Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art Institute announces a lecture on Turkish and Italian textiles in paintings by Alan J. B. Wace on the morning of Jan. 11 at 11 o'clock. The lecture, to be given in Fullerton hall of the institute, has been arranged especially for the guild. It will help to identify pictures, as to

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler Jr., who were present at a tea given yesterday at the Arts club to open three exhibitions, two of which contained works from Mr. Chrysler's collection.

Young Palmer's Father Another Guest at Show

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler Jr. of New York were not the only ones who came from a distance to be at the Arts club, for Honore Palmer came north from his home in Sarasota, Fla., to see the paintings of his son, the late Honore Palmer Jr., hanging in the round gallery of the club. It was an unusually interesting party, not only because of the exhibitions but because of the large number of attractive guests who were there.

Young Mrs. Chrysler, who was Miss Peggy Sykes of New York until last April, was simply but charmingly gowned in lipstick red crêpe with a black hat and black gloves. The hat was trimmed with a white bird and a filmy black veil. Mrs. Charles P. Goodspeed, who was kept busy introducing the Chryslers, was chic in a black gown with a white bodice and a black and white hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Chrysler are returning to New York this afternoon following a luncheon Mrs. Goodspeed is giving for Charles Sterling. Mr. Sterling, a French art critic in spite of his name, is to talk at 11:30 o'clock at the Arts club on the development of portrait painting from Fouquet to Cezanne.

Some of the many who wandered through the galleries looking at the Palmers, the Picassos and the paintings of Juan Gris were Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer and their daughter, Miss Pauline Palmer; Mrs. Clifford Rodman and Mrs. Russell Kelley, cousins of the late Honore Palmer Jr.; the Chauncey McCormicks, Mrs. John W. Gray, Mrs. George A. Poole, and Mrs. Poole Jr., Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. E. Harris Brewer, Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mrs. Graham Aldis, and Samuel L. M. Barlow of New York.

Critic Enjoys Three Exhibits at Arts Club

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club opened yesterday three interesting exhibitions to continue to Jan. 27. Never has so complete a showing of the modern painting of Juan Gris been gathered together; and rarely has so delightful a group of Picasso's work been shown.

These two exhibitions occupy the first and second galleries at the club. In the little room is a memorial exhibit of painting by Honoré Palmer Jr., whose early death deprived Chicago of one of her most promising young artists.

The Picasso paintings are loaned by Walter P. Chrysler Jr., who has also contributed from his collection of modern pictures to the Juan Gris show. Picasso is not a new name. At his door have been laid during the last two decades most of the ills to which contemporary art has been heir.

Some in the vast audience which has watched his work would object to the word "ills"; those who enjoy modern painting regard Picasso as a bearer of good gifts. Whichever side of the fence you are on, this present exhibition will intrigue you.

There is a fascinating study of a woman in a room filled with blue shadow, lit only by the yellow flame of a candle, the flicker of a tiny fire in an old stove, and a spark from the iron with which the worker is smoothing a white garment on the wooden board. "La Repasseuse" is beautiful in color and feeling. Beside it hangs a romantic conception of Pan staring over the open sea, "Secret de la Mer." Near it hangs a fine line drawing, "Acrobats." Across from these are the puzzling cubistic designs that signify Picasso to most of us. Among them is an exquisite valentine like gouache, "Compotier et Guitare," a "Guitar on Table" [exquisite in color], "Two Nudes" in a technique that resembles studded jewels and a large painting of two young women "Deux Soeurs," that sweeps you from the abstract to the classical and yet leaves you hanging on the abyss of doubt by the wit of the artist in inflicting dummy hands on the Renoirlike figures.

The modern paintings by Juan Gris carry their own solution with them. Undoubtedly they will mean something different to each person who regards them. Design and color seem to be the two points upon which all may agree, but as to whether he meant to suggest old age or youth, a table or flowers, an interior or a seascape, you may say "yes," I "no," and both be right.

The memorial exhibition of the work of Honoré Palmer shows us a young man [he died at 29] who worked with simplicity and understanding. His portraits are direct. One feels his strength and his youth. In the still lifes he was still resolving problems.

The painting is rich and sure. It is quite possible that his kind of art is the next that will sweep the studios, wiping out the imagination of such men as Picasso and Gris by a magnificent realism that has no sympathy for vapors.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 3.—Within the last three months three pictures made in England have excited bravos while indicating that Britain is knocking on the Hollywood door. Pascal's "Pygmalion" is just about the most interesting film west coast reviewers have seen, and Wendy Hiller's performance one of the finest of the year.

"Beachcomber," another English film, while not so good as "Pygmalion," definitly was an attention holder. . . . "The Citadel," made in England by an American director, was fine film fare. . . . Two of these pictures were made possible by United States taxes. . . . Taxes drove Charles Laughton and Leslie Howard out of this town, and the quota law forced M-G-M to make "The Citadel" abroad. . . . The results are healthy in the extreme.

With London turning out bang-up films, the Hollywood colony which has been resting on its laurels will be prodded to a new burst of inventiveness. . . . At the moment the only Hollywood resident who refuses to rest on his honors is Walt Disney. . . . His "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was the only sparkling creative effort of the last twelve months in this town. . . . The rest were run-of-the-mill. . . . England may be the whip to stir this town to renewed life.

At the time that the movies launched the $250,000 greater movie parade, I believe that this department was the only one who scoffed at it out loud. . . . My irreverence stirred the trade papers to a literal frenzy.

Red Kann, editor of Box Office, in an editorial, screamed for the heavens to discharge bolts of lightning on my head, his wrath being fueled by the naïve assumption that inasmuch as Hollywood was giving me a living I should not bite the hand that was feeding me. . . . I've never heard such a novel defense of subsidy.

Well, the greater movie contest has ended, and the trade papers now admit that the costly foolishness has been an outright flop. . . . This space's original suggestion to the master minds of the contest to appropriate an extra $50,000 to buy an eight ball, behind which they could hide, now has been demonstrated as very wise, if unwelcome, advice.

At the moment the movie makers seem to be at their wits' end. . . . One moment they are blaming bad grosses on lack of new stars. . . . The next moment they are saying that radio has ruined the box office draw of movie stars. . . . Perhaps, and you might ponder on this thought, the movies have reached their peak. . . . They started as silent pictures. . . . Then sound came and color was grafted on them. . . . What new pulmotor is at hand?

Fourth dimensional images are the only new thing that can enlarge the scope of the screen. . . . At all times the movies are restricted by a censorship so rigid that things new and startling are taboo. . . . The legitimate stage can kid President Roosevelt in such a play as "I'd Rather Be Right"—the movies can't. . . . The legitimate stage can express itself for or against Hitler, for or against Mussolini, for or against communism—the movies in these times are impotent, subject to all the taboos that a witch doctor might invoke. . . . Being international as a medium, the movies must play ball with the nations which are their trading counters.

Far from being in their infancy, the movies have reached a ripe old age and you wonder where do they go from here. . . . The movie pundits are wondering about that, too, expressing that fearful wonder by demoting those who ruled this golden land and replacing them with practical theater men.

Universal, RKO, and Paramount now are piloted by theater men, rather than by movie magnates. . . . Adding alarm to the movie pundits is the acknowledged fact that vaudeville is being restored to more and more theaters, as fans ask for something plus pictures.

Once upon a time pictures completely satisfied theatergoers, but that was once upon a time. . . . Now they want something besides pictures and something in addition to pictures, and vaudeville seems to be the answer. . . . The straws in the wind indicate that the movies are doing a full time job. . . . Have the movies reached their peak and slipped over it? Frankly, I don't know, but I'm asking you. . . . Send me in your letters. What do you think, you movie fans?

Colorful Silks Add Cheer to Winter Styles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Prints are the first sign of spring. The first of the gay silks, splashed with flamboyant blooms never found in any garden, do more to cheer up shoppers than any other fashion. These new arrivals are unpacked just in time to be used as a time tried seasonal pickup.

Snow, wind, and weather seem milder if you wear a giddily colored silk dress beneath your fur coat or fur trimmed winter coat. Most of the vivid affairs feature more bright yellows and greens than in former seasons. Designs are small without losing any effectiveness.

Shirring flatters the lines of most models. Sleeves are a new length, or to be more accurate, come in a new shape. They can be worn above or below the elbow, with the intricate shirring effective in either position.

Necklines are smartly high and the bodices are made to cling to the figure. Waistlines are defined in a somewhat higher line, with crossover tie sashes and swathed belts usually of the same sort of material, but sometimes emphasize the colors in the printed design with a combination of two or more shades. Soft suede in brilliant contrast is another belt idea. The new picot edged ribbon wind-around sashes are another fashion suggestion; these come in unusual color combines.

If all print dresses seem a bit too much, either for your particular streamline or too frenzied for your eye, try the clever combines of print and plain heavy silks. These are brilliant examples of inspired creators. The print material is used in long slenderizing panels, and the dark contrast goes where the figure will achieve a definite slimness. Shirred panels that start from the shoulderlines and are gathered flatly under a medium wide belt and then left to flutter free to the hemline are ideal finds for any one's money.

The bolero jacket effect is another and the fake redingotes are extremely good when using this combination trick. Bands, bows, and insets of print dramatize other less flashy prints. All these new ideas in colorful prints are ready for the inbetween season clothes collectors.

The Housewife

It's the time of year when growing things are dearly appreciated. A bowl of flowering paper white narcissi on a sober gray day can bring sweetness to the most gloomy room. If you've never tried growing the bulbs in stones, pebbles, and water in a shallow dish you have a great deal of pleasure in store.

You can also get bowls already filled with narcissus bulbs—ones which have begun to sprout. And you can get most artistic pottery jars with openings along the sides from which the first tender green shoots of lilies of the valley are springing. Their roots are bedded in wet peat moss. If you want something spectacular you can try an amaryllis bulb in a bowl of its own. The flower bursts forth in flame color in almost unbelievable beauty.

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

(Copyright, 1938, By Elizabeth York Miller.)

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from India from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken, Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob. Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob hoping he'll call off the wedding, but Bob goes through with it. Their wedding night Bob tells Nora he married her for convenience, too. They agree their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Cissy Longton tells Nora that Mrs. Almy, who used to work in their office, is suspected of giving away the firm's secrets to a rival. Bob is in danger of being arrested for double crossing his country. A government man, Capt. Grew, arrives at Fairways and Bob invites him to stay for an informal party. Mrs. Almy is plotting with Jim to steal plans that night from the Fairways Tower room safe. Pearl faints to distract attention while Jim robs the safe. Bob thinks Nora gave Jim a duplicate key to the Tower room, but she convinces him otherwise. Frightened, Pearl and Jim make a hasty getaway. Capt. Grew places Bob under arrest in his home, but allows him a day to produce the plans.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

THE DAWNING OF LOVE.

Downstairs Bob took Nora by the arm and drew her into the parlor which was dark and icy cold.

"I haven't had a chance to speak to you all day, and I may not get another. This fellow has a dash of bloodhound in him and has decided to keep me up a tree until the rest of the pack arrives. Did you send that telegram?"

"Yes," Nora replied, "I sent it."

"Well, if there's no answer it may mean one of two things. Possibly they weren't on that boat."

"They?"

"Pearl and your old flame. They went off together this morning very much as I calculated they would."

It was eerie talking in the dark. She wished she could see his face.

"Bob, did Capt. Grew tell you he found me and Jim talking in the Old Mill house this morning?"

She had surprised him, of course.

"No," Bob said, "He's apt to keep things to himself. Quick, tell me—if there's anything you've got to tell. Don't waste precious time."

Only a few yards away Capt. Grew coughed expressively, conveying something in the nature of a hint.

He was making love to her, right under the nose of his keeper.

"He was there waiting for me. He'd seen me come in here and guessed I would take the tow-path if I went to church. Bob, he asked me if I would come to him if you were sent to prison. He said there wasn't a chance of escape for you."

"Yes? And what did you say to that?"

"I told him I would."

"The devil you did! Why wait until I'm locked up? Didn't I make it quite clear to you last night that I wouldn't interfere—that I'd do my best to make everything easy for you if you still cared for that rat? All I asked was that you play fair with me. Surely—"

"Bob, you don't understand!"

"I'm blessed if I do."

"It was as though he threw a challenge at me. I couldn't help it—the words just came out. I said it was a promise."

Bob laughed harshly.

"You made a bet with him?"

"I don't know—I can't explain it. I think I must be going crazy."

Grew was at the door, now, rattling the knob. In another second or two he would be inside.

"Bob, I——"

"Hush, there isn't any more time."

"I think I've caught a chill," complained the thoroughly exasperated captain when they joined him. "I got overheated and standing about out here was about the worst thing I could have done."

"We'll fix you up with a hot drink when we get home," Bob said.

Grew's bag had been sent up from The Hand and Flower and Bob solicitously advised a change of footgear as well as the hot drink. He even graciously went upstairs with his unwelcome guest and showed him where he was to sleep.

And in between time he managed to slip a question to Beals. Had any telephone message been received during their absence?

No, there hadn't been anything.

They had a light meal early that evening and Cissy did not put in an appearance. David ate little and excused himself before the others had finished. He wanted to get back to Cissy.

"What time would it suit you to start in the morning?" Bob asked, in the deferential way that was so irritating to Capt. Grew.

"The earlier the better, as far as I am concerned."

"Let me think, now. I don't really need to get to the office before 10. Shall we leave here at nine?"

The captain nodded glumly. No doubt about it he had a cold coming on, in witness of which he sneezed with terrific violence.

Beals was bringing coffee and Bob told him to order the big car for 9 sharp in the morning. David, of course, would be going up also.

"Then if it suits you, Captain, I propose we turn in early tonight. I could go to bed right now, myself, and never feel it."

Nora got up and Bob went quickly to open the door for her.

"Don't lose any sleep. I'm not going to," he said, in an undertone. "It will all be over tomorrow, this time—and in a hundred years from now we'll never know it happened."

She smiled at him, straight into his eyes, and there was something in that smile which told Bob more about the girl he had married than he had ever known before.

"Bob, you were right," she said. "I guess it was a bet, and I couldn't resist it."

"Then I must try not to let you down," he told her.

Capt. Grew was staring at them, listening for all he was worth, but not making head or tail of it.

Bob took her hand, bent over and raised it to his lips, holding her eyes with his own at the same time.

He was making love to her, right under the nose of his keeper.

Nora's cheeks were aflame and her eyes shone like stars as she ran up the stairs.

Something had happened, something of such tremendous importance that nothing else in the wide world mattered.

. . . . . .

While Bob was bending over Nora's hand saying goodnight, three people at Calais in the little Café des Touristes had also finished their evening meal.

"Well—we go, now?" Mr. Klosters asked.

Pearl nodded and brought Jim out of his world of dreams with a sharp nudge.

The agent had reserved a private room for their important conference, an apartment styled the Salon Bleu, probably on account of its remarkable wallpaper, a design of dark blue roses the size of cabbages on a background of Wedgwood. An airtight stove had been lighted and heated the place a little too well.

Mr. Klosters had his dispatch case and Pearl had the one with the blueprints. They gathered around a table covered with gorgeously patterned chenille cloth, and the landlord thoughtfully brought what was left of the whisky and set it down convenient to the young man who had shown such a liking for it. Then he bowed himself out and closed the door on them.

Mr. Klosters got up and turned the key in the lock. Not that they were likely to be interrupted, but you never can tell.

Then he opened his dispatch case and took out two separate packets of Bank of England notes. Moistening a thumb and forefinger he counted them over very carefully and with obvious relish for the benefit of his clients.

Jim Murdock came very much to life and goggled greedily. He had never before seen so much money at one time, and half of it was his. Even Bonzo was affected by the undercurrent of excitement and got up, stretched himself, and wagged his tail expectantly.

Pearl Almy had the wooden expression of a harpy at the gaming tables.

Pearl fetched a light sigh and handed over the metal case of blueprints at the same time taking the official receipt the agent was pushing toward her.

Her fountain pen was in her bag and she had a little hunt to find it. When she finally got it out Mr. Klosters was frowning at her.

He tapped the case with his forefinger, making an irritable, clicking sound.

Standards of Beauty Change with the Years

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright, 1939, By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Is there a new turn in the cycle of feminine fascination? Have the current best box office girls changed much in manner and appearance from those of a decade or more ago?

We seem to hear much private discussion along this line lately, usually prefaced by remarks of what a gorgeous bevy of young ones appear at festive evening affairs, or even in their daytime garb. Our own observation leads us to believe that the young women who have grown up in the last ten years, the young women, say, who were 10 a decade ago, have just about reached the acme of physical perfection, with a flair for dress that is uncannily right.

At a dance in one of the smart hotels the other night, we looked on breathlessly at the parade of beauty, as girls of this age appeared one after another. But there is this about the years: Each decade stamps itself with its own beauty.

It does seem that within the last ten, fifteen years, standards have changed frequently. The uncertainty of the reign of an outstanding charmer of any era is seen in a quick review of cinema stars of yesteryear. We are told that while movie audiences are made up more largely of women than of men, that it is man's tastes and prejudices that make or break a star's reign.

Two decades ago, or thereabouts, Theda Bara and Pola Negri were making hearts twitter and eyes glow. Later there was Clara Bow, with her flaming hair and hoydenish capering. Then fancy turned from flaming hair to the platinum blondeness of Jean Harlow.

They tell us now that the pendulum of masculine preference is for the sultry, smouldering type, such as Dorothy Lamour, Hedy Lamarr, Sigrid Gurie, Danielle Darrieux. But our guess would be, with Loretta Young going stronger than ever, Nancy Kelly rising quickly on the horizon, and dozens of others occupying top places, that there is room for every type, every coloring, every shape [but lean for the movies] if there is more than looks to bring to the auction block.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Every woman who wants a lipstick of beautiful shade and a creamy texture that absolutely makes a monkey out of any old cold wave should rally round. We've found it.

This is a fat stick and not an inexpensive one, but for our money it could cost twice as much and still be a bargain. It's undoubtedly the texture every dry skinned woman has been looking for. You can tell when you look at it in the stick that it has the oiliness that makes all the difference between a good lipstick and a bad one. Rather, it has the right degree of oiliness that makes all the difference. Too oily a lipstick is almost as bad as one so dry it makes the lips sore. The creaminess of this is a miracle of blending.

It doesn't go all runny on you. It gives the lips a creamy, completely smooth coat that never gets fuzzy at the edges and never, never changes in texture or color after half an hour's wear. But it does give the lips a lovely sheen and we know, from using it, that it doesn't give chapping a fighting chance.

There are several shades in this stick. The two most recent ones are of the purple school. We adore them. There is one, for day, that is a rich red with just a suggestion of purple undertone. The other, for evening, is frankly purple, although under night light it doesn't look so. It just looks mysteriously lovely. But it's this evening shade that we like best, both for day and for evening. It's a shade that is exquisite with the costume colors of the magenta family and utterly perfect as a contrast with gray or black. It gets our vote as the smartest, loveliest version of purple lipstick tone to date.

And the texture, as we've said, could be stamped "perfect," too.

Miss Joan Ford Will Become Bride Feb. 4.

The date for the marriage of Miss Joan Ford to Harger Rollo has been set for Saturday, Feb. 4. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church, the Rev. Dudley S. Stark officiating. A reception will follow at the home of Miss Ford's father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Ford, at 1260 Astor street.

Miss Eleonore Thompson will be Miss Ford's only attendant. Gregg Cummings will be Mr. Rollo's best man. After a wedding trip to New York Mr. Rollo and his bride will make their home for the next year in Grand Rapids, Mich., where he is engaged in business. Mr. Rollo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke Dean.

Cushman-Sauer Nuptials Next Month.

Another wedding of interest that will take place on Feb. 4 is that of Miss Rosemary Sauer, daughter of Mrs. William A. Sauer, and Trevor A. Cushman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Trevor A. Cushman of Melrose, Mass.

Since Mr. Cushman has just left for the east after a visit to his fiancée in Evanston, he will not have more than a few days' vacation at the time of his wedding so the ceremony will be performed at the Berkshire hotel in New York. He and his bride will spend about a week in New York and then go to Binghamton N. Y., where Mr. Cushman is engaged in business. They hope to be able to take a wedding trip in the early summer and go to the ranch in Arizona where they met three years ago.

Winter Sports Lovers Return from Wisconsin.

Every train from the north yesterday morning and the night before brought home tired but happy New Year week-enders who had spent the holidays skiing and skating in northern Wisconsin. One of the largest groups was composed of guests of the family of former Gov. Walter J. Kohler. In the group were the John Derns, the William Popes, the Scott Dows, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Sims, the Sidney Gorhams and her sister, Mrs. McVoy Fellowes; Miss Emily Goehst, the Horton Conrads, the Roger Whites and her brother, Walter Everett; the William F. Deknatels, Miss Carol Montgomery, the Charles Cutters, and several others.

Some were visiting the senior Kohlers in their beautiful house, Riverbend; others were with the junior Kohlers in their new, extremely modern house, which overlooks the Kohler Country club grounds. Mr. Deknatel designed the house, which is one of the show places of that part of the country. Another new Kohler home, traditionally beautiful, for it is a Williamsburg house, is that of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert V. Kohler. It is in the village of Kohler and is a perfect example of the type of colonial architecture and decorating of Williamsburg.

The Robert N. Goldings and the George Browns were among those who went to the Eagle river and Land o' Lakes territory for New Year skiing and skating.

Good Morning!

Poky at times, unexpectedly and delightfully humorous in spots is "Paris Honeymoon."

The story is a fantastic one about a millionaire cowboy who, about to marry an American heiress in Paris, is directed by fate to a mythical European country where he becomes the husband of a peasant girl who has been chosen queen of the roses at a fiesta which is a yearly event in those parts.

Most of the action occurs in aforementioned country, and the scenes which, to use an old vaudeville expression "bring down the house," are those in which a strange liquor is used. This drink causes its imbibers to assume the most peculiar poses and go into the most ridiculous contortions.

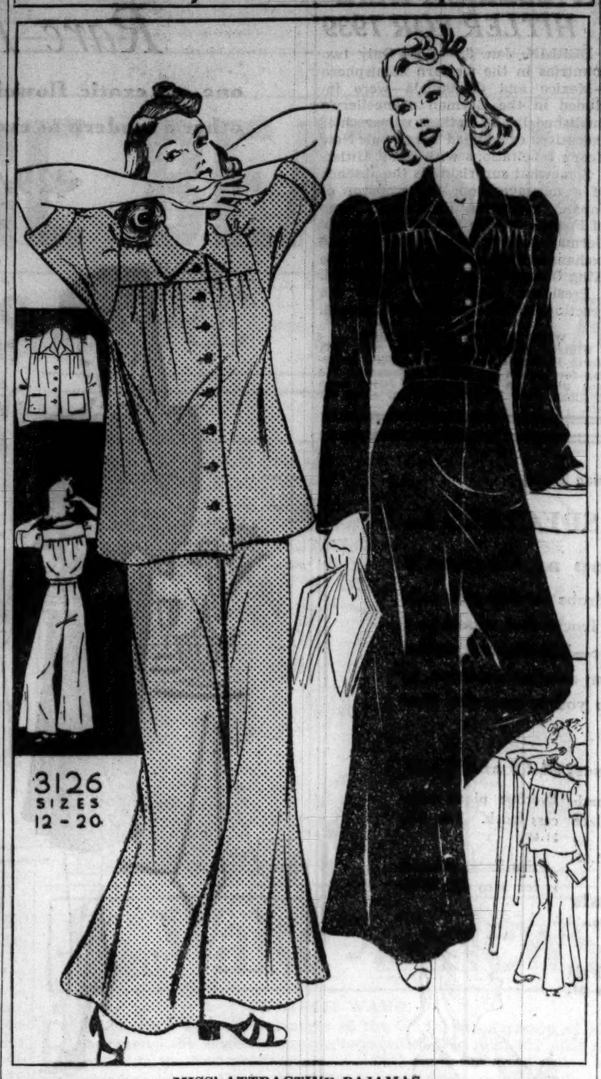
During the strange events which lead Mr. Crosby from high falutin' to lowly altar, his voice is raised now and again in song. The only piece I care about in the least was "You're a Little Headache"—and I didn't think that was much.

The star is, however, easy and pleasing as is his wont. Franciska Gaal is deft as the unbelievable peasant girl. Akim Tamiroff gets off some good comedy and Shirley Ross, as the heiress, is delightful. Other players are what the rôles demanded, and the director did all he could, too, I guess.

For some reason or other, though, "Paris Honeymoon" failed to click with this interested party. Perhaps you may see the piece through more rose colored glasses.

See you tomorrow,

Smartly Tailored Pajamas



MISS' ATTRACTIVE PAJAMAS.

Both loungers and heavy sleepers will enjoy wearing these pajamas with the butcher boy jacket. The topper has a shirtwaist collar, short puffed sleeves, and plenty of shirring under the shoulder yoke to lend ample fullness to the blouse, which buttons down the front. The trousers are cut on generous and graceful lines.

As the sketch illustrates, the blouse may be worn tucked into the trousers, if you wish. And the collarline may be opened up, rever fashion.

Silk, cottons, and linen make up well. Dark and light shades, and prints, too, are effective. For college girls this sleeping costume can't be beat for chic. It's comfortable and it's girlish. It's as comfortable for lounging and study hours as it is for the eight straight you spend getting beauty sleep.

Style No. 3126 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the version with short sleeves.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

The Second Annual Self-Rating Examination revealed many interesting facts. It was apparent that the rank and file of bridge players had improved enormously during the last year [since the first examination] on certain types of questions, but had failed to absorb other broad principles of bidding and play. By and large, readers did very well with question 28, which was:

Neither side vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Double
Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ K 4 ♥ Q 9 7 6 5 2 ♦ Q J 9 8 ♣ 5

What call do you make?

The official answer was that South should bid three hearts, a jump response to the take-out double. I feared that thousands of Souths would fall by the wayside through allowing the two diamond double to stand, that is, that they would think very well of their hand along defensive lines and would, therefore, abandon hope of game in favor of lambasting the opponents. Actually, my fear was unfounded. Less than 8 per cent of the answers that reached me had to be given the 15 point demerit for passing. I am glad to report that 72 per cent came through with flying colors on the correct three heart bid. Eighteen per cent proved themselves sissies by bidding only two hearts, and the remaining 2 per cent bid four hearts, two no trump, and a variety of other responses that are hardly worth mentioning. These figures proved that most players have learned a lot about responding to a take-out double, which certainly is one of the most important departments in bidding.

TODAY'S HAND.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Herewith is one of 'those hands.' Honest Injun, we didn't stack 'em. North-South had been taking a trimming until this hand popped up. As you can see, seven no trump was a laydown, but how should it have been reached?

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

"The actual bidding was:

South	West	North	East
2 clubs	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
7 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

"How should seven no trump have been reached? I suppose that with North bidding hearts a couple of times after her negative two no trump, South should have gone 'whole hog or none' and simply bid it. What is your opinion?—R. A. B.—New York."

Considering that the seven heart contract was equally cold as the cards lay, I am surprised that any question was raised about the bidding, particularly in rubber bridge, where the difference of 10 points in total score is hardly appreciable. It is a fact, however, that on hands of this description, seven no trump often is a safer contract than any suit. From South's point of view, North's bidding might well be based on a hand such as:

♠ Q x x ♥ J 10 x x x x ♦ J 10 ♣ J x

With this hand, at a contract of seven hearts, the partnership, of course, would rise or fall on North's ability to drop or finesse against the heart queen. Seven no trump, however, is the next thing to a laydown. If the heart queen drops, well and good; if not, South's hand still should produce five club tricks, three diamonds, two hearts, and two spades, and North's spade queen, reached by means of the club jack, will be the fulfilling trick. It is difficult to devise a North hand that is certain to produce thirteen tricks with hearts as trump that is not equally safe for the same number at no trump. Incidentally, there was no point in South's jumping to four clubs over two no trump. Three clubs would have saved a round of bidding that might have been put to better use.

Valentine Stamps of Heart Association Are Placed on Sale

The familiar Valentine stamps of the Chicago Heart association went on sale yesterday as the eighteenth annual campaign of the association opened. Sale of the stamps provides the chief support of the association's work.

"Cardiac ailments kill more people each year than tuberculosis, cancer, and nephritis combined," said Mrs. Ruth Pearce McEldowney, executive director. "Mortality from heart disease has increased steadily until it is now responsible for almost one-third of all the deaths in Chicago. Many of these deaths are preventable or could be deferred for years."

The Heart association, organized in 1922, now is the coördinating agency for hospitals, clinics, and other social and welfare agencies which coöperated in its first educational campaign. Stamps sell in books of 100 for $1 and may be purchased from the Heart association, 203 North Wabash avenue. The sale continues until Valentine's day.

Ever hear of baked bean pie? Not the kind with a biscuit crust, but a pie with a regular pastry shell? It's served as a main dish, not dessert, but it's a pie all the same.

Canned baked beans or leftover home baked beans may be used. The rest of today's short cut dinner menu is even easier than the individual baked bean pies seasoned with chili sauce.

SHORT CUT DINNER

Individual Baked Bean Pies
Carrot, Pineapple, and Raisin Salad
Buttered Canned Artichoke Hearts
Poppyseed Rolls [Bakery]
Sliced Apples Brie Cheese
Pretzel Wafers or Cheese Crackers
Coffee

BAKED BEAN PIES

Add a fourth cup of chili sauce to the contents of a large can of baked beans. Line tart pans or large muffin pans with pie pastry and fill with bean mixture. Cover each with a round of pastry which has been slashed to allow for the escape of steam, and press the edges together. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes, and serve hot. Pastry for a double crust pie will make four good sized individual bean pies.

Pastry

2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup lard or vegetable shortening
Water to moisten

Sift flour and salt together and cut in solid shortening with pastry blender or fingers. Dribble in cold water until the mixture will hold together when pressed with the hands. Press into a ball and divide in two portions, one a little larger than the other. The largest part is for the shells. Divide it in fourths and pat each fourth into a round with the hands on a lightly floured board. Roll out to fit the tart or muffin pan. Repeat the process to make the pie tops, using the smaller portion of dough.

CARROT, PINEAPPLE, AND RAISIN SALAD

For four salads mix one cup each of drained crushed pineapple and ground carrots and add about a third cup raisins. Mix with mayonnaise or cooked dressing and serve on lettuce.

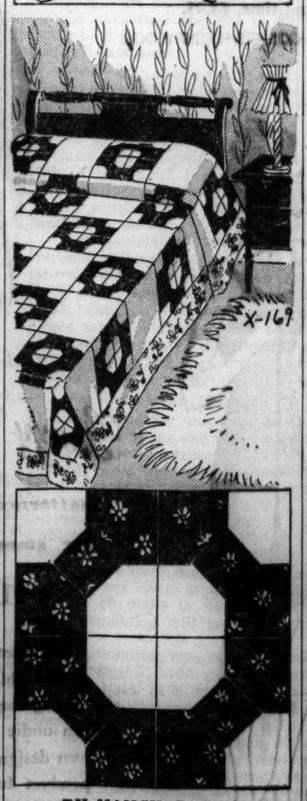
Peace Efforts Futile; Paris Movies Start Strike on Tax Today

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Efforts to settle the dispute over the city taxes on motion picture shows failed today, and theater managers announced the closing of all of Paris' cinemas tomorrow. All branches of the moving picture industry have joined the protest, but the city council declined to withdraw the tax.

It is estimated 100,000 employés will be thrown out of work.

TODAY'S QUILT



BY NANCY CABOT.

Old, but surprisingly modern in appearance, is the quaintly named "Magical Circle" quilt design. It is a variation of the old and well known "Necktie" pattern, with the blocks placed to form a circle. It is equally attractive in either printed or plain material. Try it for a baby's crib quilt with dainty pink printed material combined with white. It is an outstanding success.

For the quilt pattern, "Magical Circle," No. X-169, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Causes Back of Teasing Are Many, Devious

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate.]

"I dread," said the little boy's nurse, "to see Timmy appear at the door. I almost told him he couldn't come in today," said the children's nurse.

"O, you can't do that, Maria," said their mother. "After all, Timmy is their cousin."

"Yes, I know, but he teases so that Don is practically in tears every time he comes here."

Teasing is a difficult thing to cope with and it can come about among a child's friends, relatives, and actually within his close family.

I happened to know what partly gave rise to it in the case of Timmy who was 10, and Donald, who was 5. Timmy had parents who were critical and antagonistic to Donald's parents. Donald was handsome and intelligent; they were a little jealous, and they talked about all this before Timmy.

Timmy loved his little cousin, but he heard too much. In addition, Tim was getting big and feeling his oats and so became temporarily a little bit of a bully. He eventually outgrew the teasing, but before he did his small cousin suffered torments!

Sometimes a child will tease another for the sense of power it gives him, denied in other ways.

Sometimes a really bullying instinct expresses itself in teasing.

Jealousy or hurt may show itself in this way.

Last, teasing often ties up with this inbetween age; it's just one more phase of a phase which passes.

The solution? Part of it consists in looking for the cause. Consider those I've listed, and others those may suggest. Then, remove or modify them.

We shall be glad to hear from mothers who have coped successfully with teasing, and shall use the most helpful letters in this column.

Ballet Troupe to Return for 3 Days in March

BY CECIL SMITH.

Today's and tomorrow's performances by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will not be the season's last, after all. On March 3, 4, and 5 the company will return to the Auditorium theater for three evening programs and two matinées. The management wishes to present the particular ballets the public likes best. Patrons are invited to send their requests to the theater office.

The one and only representation of "Carnaval" was given last night. Of late years this ballet has been seen here only rarely. In the days of the memorable Diaghileff ballet Fokine's nation of bringing to life the characters suggested by Schumann's imaginative piano pieces probably was very attractive. Last night's performance had too little distinction of style to make much impression and seemed to have been too little rehersed. There were good moments, but no sparks flew.

"Bogatyri," with its stupendously brilliant Russian settings and costumes, fared better. Alexandra Danilova danced the princess exquisitely.

The omnipresent "Gaité Parisienne" concluded the evening. The National Council of Jewish Women sponsored the program. A capacity audience attended.

The Piano Talks When Young Ida Krehm Appears

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The fourth recital in the Adult Education council's Musical Arts piano series brought Ida Krehm to Orchestra hall last night. She is the young Toronto born pianist who studied in Chicago for years and who has since won more honors and awards than can conceivably be pinned upon the average chest.

This tall, serious, black clad young woman applied herself competently last evening to a program which began with Bach and Scarlatti, bowed handsomely to Schumann and Chopin, and included a generous sized modern group.

Miss Krehm's talents were displayed to their best advantage in the Schumann Fantasy. Here her remarkable command of tone and her feeling for flexible, meaningful phrasing resulted in some beautiful piano playing. Often she phrases a succession of tones as easily and naturally as you would phrase a sentence in conversation. And her tone colorings help carry the music's meaning just as the differing voice qualities which one would naturally use in saying "Unhand her, villain! or "I love you, Phyllis!" help to convey the differing meanings of the two phrases.

This sort of thing helped in the Chopin E major Nocturne also, but got quite out of hand in the same composer's F major ballade. Here the trouble was due to the young artist's conception of the music—a mistaken conception, I think. The slow music which precedes and keeps interrupting the fireworks is of a childlike simplicity which demands the most childlike and candid delivery. A great deal of rubato and much preoccupation with color effects obscure the real meaning of the music rather than help to convey it. To continue the analogy used above, it is as if a person said "Pass the butter." with a heavy accent on the "pass" and a long dramatic pause before "butter."

As far as mechanical dexterity goes, Miss Krehm is magnificent. The Liapounow "Lesghinka" was tossed off as easily as you could toss off "Chop Sticks"—and with much more style, incidentally. In the Bach English suite in A minor, this dexterity quite ran away from its owner and resulted in some overly speedy and imperfectly articulated playing.

One more sour note. Miss Krehm uses entirely too much showmanship.

Does American Wife Wish Too MuchRomance?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Is the American woman asking too much when she asks for more romance in men?

The charge, appearing in the survey made by one of the leading journals, is that the American man fails his woman in this respect of romance.

A question arises as to whether American wives would exchange these same unromantic-but-bacon-providing mates for the so-called chivalrous gentlemen whose romanticism leads them into ways in marriage that certain American women married to them have found bitter to accept.

Too, there is the question of whether the American mate does not interpret as his romantic gesture his application to work in order to provide better and better for his loved one.

Probably no men in the world work so hard, so continuously, so ambitiously for their women's good as do American men. There is little of that needed leisure time left them to cultivate the art of really gracious living. Masculine or feminine, one requires some ease and relaxation to lapse into the mood of romance.

Reading the reported survey, we arrive at the conclusion that it is appreciation that is craved by women. It is man's "take-for-granted" attitude that wears women down. A "thank you" here, a "you're a grand pal" there would suffice to keep women happy.

Men know this, but, for some reason known only to them, they remain tonguetied.

NAZI INSISTENCE ON CASH DELAYS RELEASE OF JEWS

Bank of England's Chief to Discuss Deal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today received Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, and discussed with him the possibilities of obtaining foreign financial help for the wholesale emigration of Jews from Germany, in view of the visit to Berlin on Thursday of Montagu Norman, president of the Bank of England.

The prospects of improving Anglo-German trade relations also were believed to have entered the discussion which was held in Hitler's mountain retreat near Berchtesgaden.

Officially the president of the Bank of England is coming to Berlin to act as godfather to Schacht's grandchild, who, it is rumored, will be christened "Hjalmar Norman." But no one doubts that the two financial wizards will seize the opportunity to continue the discussions started by Dr. Schacht during his recent visit to England.

Nazis Insist on Cash.

Negotiations between German and foreign financiers concerning Jewish emigration reached a deadlock when the Germans insisted that at least half of the moneys advanced by foreign bank groups for this purpose be transferred to Germany in foreign currency. A group of British, Dutch and Belgian banks is said to be willing to advance $800,000,000, but they refused to deposit any appreciable share of this sum in Germany.

As none of the countries involved are believed to be inclined to increase their purchases in Germany to any large extent, Schacht and Norman face a difficult problem.

George Rublee, American executive director of the international refugee office, also was expected in Berlin soon to investigate the prospects of Jewish emigration. That office was created as a result of the refugee conference last July in Evian-les-Bains, France.

Poles Seek Agreement.

A Polish delegation will arrive in Berlin tomorrow to resume negotiations with the German authorities regarding the expulsion of thousands of Polish Jews from Germany. Most of these Jews still are held in camps on the Polish side of the Polish-German frontier.

The German press today printed reports of a mass emigration of Jews from Czecho-Slovakia, which now is completely under German influence. In November there was a daily average of 600 Jewish emigrants, but this figure increased to 700 in December, the press said.

A TOMBSTONE FOR ALIMONY IS TURNED DOWN

Tombstones aren't legal tender to Mrs. Ella Mae Troost. She declined yesterday when Judge Rudolph Desort suggested that she accept one in payment of the $450 separate maintenance that she said is owed her by Edward H. Troost of 4451 North Damen avenue, a monument man. Troost said he has many monuments, but little money.

Mrs. Troost, who lives at 5324 Winthrop avenue, told the judge she already has a monument, bought and paid for. She added that a milk bill for a woman living at Troost's address had been brought to her by mistake, and that she suspected the woman might be the reason Troost couldn't pay. Judge Desort ordered Troost to pay $100 on account at once—in cash.

$2,000,000 SOUGHT IN CHICAGO FOR REFUGEE JEWS

Chicagoans will be asked to contribute 2 million dollars to meet the emergency created by a plight of refugees from Germany. A campaign to raise this sum will open tomorrow night in the Standard club. James G. McDonald, former high commissioner for refugees for the league of nations, will speak. Max Epstein of Chicago heads a special committee under auspices of the Jewish Welfare fund, which will direct the campaign. Other members include Max Adler, Rabbi Solomon Goldman, Judge Hugo M. Friend, Albert D. Lasker, Alfred Smart, Maurice L. Rothschild, Irving S. Florsheim, and Louis Florsheim.

Rumania Revokes Permits of Jewish Liquor Dealers

BUCHAREST, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Rumanian government today revoked the permits of 280 Jewish liquor retailers in Bucharest. Some of the capital's largest cafés and hotels quit serving alcoholic beverages under the order.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN.

Dixon, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Rosabelle Ferguson, 88 years old, who died Sunday from injuries received in a fall last Oct. 14. She had lived here for many years.

Marriage Fails

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. ETHEL COWAN.

Marriage in their 19th year wasn't very successful for Ethel and Arthur Cowan, she told Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday. Her husband slapped her many times during the three months they lived together last fall, she testified. Judge Sabath granted her a divorce.

Mrs. Cowan lives at 3421 West 13th place. Cowan lives at 1516 South Ridgeway avenue. Her attorney was Irving J. Eisenman.

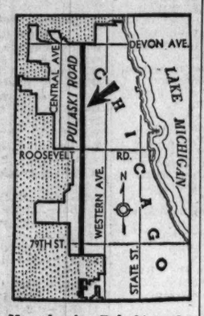
German Couple Beheaded for 2 Murders 7 Years Ago

COLOGNE, Germany, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Otto Schoenewald, 31 years old, and his wife, Gerda, 28 years old, were beheaded today for two murders committed at Cologne in 1932. Schoenewald was convicted of killing a postman and stealing his money pouch a few minutes after he had killed his landlady. Schoenewald's wife was accused of helping him plan both killings.

COMPLETE STUDY OF CRAWFORD AV. CLAIMS APRIL 1

City Map Department Has Huge Task.

Review of the rival claims to the street name of Crawford avenue will be completed before April 1, city officials said yesterday. Approximately 1,600 petitions ask that the name be restored to what is now Pulaski road. Opposed to these are sixty petitions seeking the same name for Haussen court, a block long street.



Map showing Pulaski road.

Both sets of petitions were introduced in the city council several months ago and referred to the committee of streets. Then the map department got the task of comparing the signatures with county property records.

Taxpayers Must Sign.

To be valid, each set must have the names of owners of at least 60 per cent of frontage property along the respective thoroughfares. Illinois law requires that the city council change the name if requested by this many taxpaying property owners. Any shortage in the number of genuine signatures would outlaw the petition.

Illinois law prevents more than one street from bearing the same name. If both sets of Crawford avenue petitions are valid it probably will be up to the council to decide between them. Later the courts may be drawn into the dispute.

Pulaski road got its present name by council action in 1933. The change from the old name of Crawford, in honor of Peter Crawford, pioneer Chicagoan, was fought by business associations and citizen groups. Members of the Crawford avenue association have spent more than $23,000 in a campaign to get back the old name.

Opposed by Polish Groups.

The association has been opposed by Polish national groups. Ald. Walter Orlikoski [35th] introduced the petition to have the name of Crawford avenue given to Haussen court. If this move is successful, it will end forever the hope of changing Pulaski road to Crawford avenue.

Observers said the dispute will be an issue in the aldermanic election in February and April. Aldermen representing wards in which residents are of Polish descent, it is said, probably will promise to block an attempt to change the name of Pulaski road. Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th], who led the fight in behalf of the Crawford avenue association, may find himself the target of reprisals.

Howard Brodman, superintendent of the department of maps, said the review of the Pulaski road petition is now progressing at an average of ¼ of a mile per day. The thoroughfare is 18 miles long, making a total of 36 miles of frontage property on both sides of the street that must be examined. It is the biggest job the department has ever had and, judging by the number of inquiries by citizens, has aroused wide interest. Current jobs which must be done to keep the work from piling up are the chief reason for the delay, he said.

ONLY 2 NATIONS IN AMERICA 'HEIL' HITLER FOR 1939

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Only two countries in the western hemisphere—Mexico and Guatamala—were included in the German chancellery's published list of nations whose chief executives exchanged telegraphic New Year's felicitations with Adolf Hitler.

Somewhat surprising is the absence of a message from the emperor of Japan. Moreover, President Lebrun of France, despite the recent French-German accord, appears not to have exchanged messages with Hitler, while King George VI. of Great Britain did.

President Emil Hacha sent the greetings of the Czecho-Slovak people.

HAWKS FIRE STEWART; THOMPSON TAKES CHARGE

RECALL VOSS FROM BUFFALO AS ASSISTANT

Shakeup Comes on Eve of Bruin Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bill Stewart, the National league baseball umpire who last April managed the Chicago Blackhawks to the world hocky championship, yesterday heard dismal words he often has shouted as an umpire. Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Hawks, hollered, "You're out," thus firing Stewart after 21 of the 48 games scheduled in the National Hocky league season. No successor was named, but it was announced that Player-Coach Paul Thompson and Carl Voss, member of last year's Stanley cup victors, would serve as co-coaches in charge of the team during the remainder of the current campaign.

Bill Stewart.

Stewart is not unique in his rôle as an ex-Blackhawk manager. There have been ten Hawk managers since Pete Muldoon managed the first Hawk team in the 1926-'27 season. He is not even unique in the matter of being released before completing a season in defense of a Hawk world championship. Tommy Gorman managed the Hawks to the title in 1933-'34, but wasn't back the next season to direct defense of the cup. Gorman, however, was not bounced outright.

Same Old Pattern.

The firing of Stewart follows a familiar sports pattern. The Hawks have won three games in their last 17, after heating up the fans by winning their first four clashes in spectacular performances. Player shifts kept record and hopeful crowds trooping to home games in the Stadium. But player shifts didn't bring an adequate number of victories. Tomorrow night the biggest Chicago drawing card in hocky, the Boston Bruins, will be in the Stadium. Something had to be done. Stewart was the goat.

Up till the time of the firing of Stewart, there had been no reports of the fans upsetting any box offices in their zeal to see the Hawks play Goalie Frank Brimsek, Eddie Shore, et al. There were reports that the fans were pretty sour about the last game they saw, Sunday night, in which the Hawks led, 1 to 0, 2 to 1, 3 to 2, yet came out the little end of the horn, 4 to 3 in overtime, to take their first licking of the year at the hands of the tailend Montreal Canadiens.

Rumors Began Early.

This spectacle, incidentally, freshened memories of the last previous home appearance, on Dec. 22. On that date the Hawks had the Red Wings whipped, 3 to 0, in the second period, but finished with a 3 to 3 tie.

Stewart probably would have received what inelegantly is known as the bum's rush after the regular season last year if his team hadn't performed so marvelously in the Stanley cup playoffs. The Hawks won only fourteen of their forty-eight games last season. They have won eight and lost ten this season. They have played three tie games.

During fall training this season in Champaign the squad was under the direction of Thompson while Stewart remained in the east to recuperate from an appendicitis operation performed late in last baseball season. The players were all hopped up under Thompson's guidance and there were rumors that Stewart might remain home to continue his convalescence. Thompson, however, expressed a desire to continue exclusively as a player and eventually started the season as player-coach.

Some Hawks Please Stewart.

In an interview last night Stewart said he doubted that an anti-Stewart clique has been operating on the Hawks. He added he had been especially gratified by the attitude of Thompson, Art Wiebe, Johnny Gottselig, Mike Karakas, Mush March, Cully Dahlstrom, Bill Thoms, Joffre Desilets, Bill Mackenzie and Paul Besler.

Stewart said he had agreed wholeheartedly with some of Owner McLaughlin's and President Tobin's criticisms, but that some of the "second guessing" of these two gentlemen had found him in moods more argumentative than those displayed by his predecessor, Clem Loughlin. "I might have lasted longer if I hadn't talked back," remarked ex-Skipper Bill.

Stewart said that during the afternoon he had several long distance offers, acceptance of which would keep him in hocky but that he would not accept any until his paid up contract with the Hawks expires. He

BONE REMOVED FROM PITCHING ARM OF ALLEN

Cleveland, O., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Surgeons parted the muscles in Johnny Allen's arm today and removed a chipped bone at the elbow which had prevented the Cleveland Indian pitching star from reaching maximum effectiveness last year.

Allen will remain in a Cleveland clinic for several days, then go to his home in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he can begin to exercise the arm in six weeks. Surgeons said no cutting had been done on the arm. They merely separated the muscles and lifted out the loose bone.

Allen, who will receive $20,000 on the second year of his two year contract next season, refused to undergo the operation until assured by the Indians that he would be paid the full amount of his salary, whether the operation was successful or not.

CHANGE 2 PASS RULES AND ORDER SAFER EQUIPMENT

Lessen Penalty for Catch by Ineligible Man.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Only two changes in intercollegiate football rules, both concerning ineligible pass receivers, were adopted by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association today.

The committee, in one of its most uneventful and shortest sessions in years, also ordered improvements and changes in football equipment to reduce injuries.

The changes, announced by Chairman Walter T. Okeson of Lehigh university, are;

1. The penalty for a forward pass striking an ineligible player shall be the loss of a down and 15 yards from the point of the previous down, instead of loss of the ball. The committee said the old penalty seemed too severe.

2. All ineligible players—usually the center, guards and tackles—must remain on the line of scrimmage until after a pass is thrown. The penalty for violating this will be 15 yards and the play also will count as a down.

Predict More Short Passes.

Both of these revisions were recommended by the American Football Coaches association in Chicago last week. Other changes recommended by the coaches, Okeson said, were referred to the standing committee on changes for study.

Okeson said the committee, as well as football coaches present at the meetings here, believed the new rules would encourage the use of shovel passes—short passes behind or to the line of scrimmage.

"However, they may lead to longer runbacks by the opponents on intercepted passes," Okeson said, "because fewer players will now be allowed to go down under a pass."

Okeson's statement said the committee recognized the country wide demand for improvements in equipment, especially with regard to cleats and thigh guards.

"The protective padding on the outside of the thigh guards has been increased from ⅜ of an inch to ½ inch in thickness and, more important, officials will be instructed to enforce this regulation strictly because the survey indicated that this protective covering had been omitted altogether in many cases."

Must Wear Helmets.

Cleats hereafter must be ½ inch in diameter at the end and "must be in the shape of a truncated cone," to remedy what the committee called a very serious situation. The committee recommended that "cleats be made of soft rubber carrying a post which screws into the sole of the shoe. Unless some change occurs in the present cleat construction which will prevent cleats from chipping or coming off while in use, the above recommendation will be made mandatory."

The committee also voted to make the wearing of head guards as well as soft knee pads mandatory, and ordered the thickness of knee pads increased to a half inch.

The rules changes, which affect thousands of football players on every college field in the country, were adopted after sessions which opened Sunday night. The committee finished its deliberations a day ahead of schedule.

Murray Operated On, Lost to Americans for Season

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Al Murray, defense man on the New York Americans' hocky team, underwent an operation for a torn shoulder ligament today. The injury was incurred in a game with the Boston Bruins in Madison Square Garden last Thursday. Doctors predicted that Murray will be out of the lineup for the rest of the season. Roger Jenkins is slated to replace him.

Illinois Rally Beats Cornell Quintet, 35-34

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Illinois' second half comeback defeated Cornell university, 35 to 34, in the last 75 seconds of their basketball game here tonight. Until they tied the Reds at 34 all, the Illini had trailed throughout the entire game. They were behind, 23 to 13, at the half.

Illinois opened a drive in the second half which brought it within three points at 24 to 21. From this point the play see-sawed until Pick Dehner tied the score at 34 all with a basket. Bill Hapac's free throw with but a minute and 15 seconds to play, on Liebman's personal, then gave the Illini their 35 to 34 victory.

James Bennett, Cornell forward, carried the battle to Illinois almost single handedly. He accounted for 18 Big Red points. Dehner topped the Illini scorers with 15 points.

PURDUE, 52; MACOMB, 30

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Purdue wound up its pre-conference basketball campaign here tonight with a 52 to 30 victory over the Macomb Teachers. It gave the Boilermakers, who will open their Big Ten title defense here Saturday night against Northwestern, a record of six victories in seven non-conference starts.

Purdue, playing without Capt. Gene Anderson for the third successive game, used the contest largely to test out reserves. The Boilermakers held a 28 to 12 margin at half time.

WHITE OFF FOR OXFORD; NO MORE PRO FOOTBALL

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Byron [Whizzer] White, the most renowned Rhodes scholar of his time, sailed aboard the Europa tonight for England and his scholarship at Oxford.

A small party of friends saw White off and heard him deny rumors he would return to the United States next fall to play another season in the National Professional Football league, in which he starred during the past season.

"Football and I have parted," White said. "I've heard a lot of rumors about my coming back next year to play again for Pittsburgh or for the New York Giants. They're all news to me. I've got to get to work on this scholarship."

DODGERS EXPECT TROUBLE; SLASH MUNGO TO $5,000

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Larry MacPhail, business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has the 1939 contracts prepared for mailing. It is believed all of the athletes in Manager Leo Durocher's employ except Van Lingle Mungo received salary increases. A blast may be expected out of Pageland, S. C., when Van gets the news.

Mungo will be asked to accept $5,000. He received $15,000 for what he did last season and was the highest salaried Dodger. If Mungo agrees to take the $10,000 cut without complaint, MacPhail and all other Dodger officials will get their first surprise of the new year.

Hubbell Signs '39 Contract; No Wage Cut

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The signed contract of Carl Hubbell, left hand pitching mainstay of the New York Giants for the last eleven years and chief question mark for 1939, was received by the club today.

Though Hubbell will have to prove this spring in training camp that he has recovered from an operation for the removal of a bone chip from his elbow, Manager Bill Terry has announced there would be no salary reductions this season. Hubbell's salary last season was estimated at $22,500.

There was widespread fear that Hubbell's sore arm would end one of the greatest of modern pitching careers. Last Aug. 18, almost two months after he had won the 200th victory of his career, he complained of a sore arm after being beaten by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Carl Is Pessimistic.

A short time later he was operated on and returned to his home in Meeker, Okla., to rest. Lately he has been pessimistic over the success of the operation.

Hubbell came to the Giants in 1928 from Beaumont in the Texas league. Noted for a fairly good fast ball and a deceptive curve, he soon developed his screwball, a pitch which helped him win eighteen games for John McGraw in 1929. In time the delivery became as famous as Christy Mathewson's fadeaway but it and the years took a terrific toll of Hubbell's arm.

Wins Two Series Games.

In 1933, after pitching the Giants to twenty-three victories in the regular season and leading the league with an earned run average of 1.66, Hubbell was voted the most valuable player in the National league. That year he pitched the Giants to two triumphs over the Washington Senators in the world series.

He won twenty-one or more games for the next four years, leading the league with twenty-six in 1936—his high water mark—and setting the pace in won and lost percentage, earned runs, and strikeouts on numerous occasions.

16,725 WATCH TROUPE START ON LONG TOUR

Ex-Amateur King Wins, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Here Saturday

DON BUDGE and Ellsworth Vines will make Chicago the fourth stop on their tour, playing in the Stadium Saturday night. Junior Davis cup and junior Wightman cup players will see the match as guests of the Stadium.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—J. Donald Budge made his professional tennis debut tonight by handing Ellsworth Vines one of the most severe beatings the world's professional champion ever has received. The erstwhile king of the amateurs, only player to score a grand slam by winning every major amateur title in one year, hammered out a merciless 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 victory.

A near capacity crowd of 16,725 in Madison Square Garden watched most of the third set in stunned silence. There was little doubt of the outcome in the minds of a vast majority of the crowd after the convincing manner in which Budge wrapped up the first set. That punishing backhand of the California red head was the beginning of Vines' downfall, but his own repeated nets were the deciding factor.

Budge Takes Charge.

The first set was a fairly even affair until near the end. Then Budge took charge. The only bid Vines was able to make after that was a short spurt midway in the second set. Budge had things almost entirely his way in the final set. Vines looked tired and dejected.

Vines perked up visibly, however, when Alice Marble, beauteous American women's champion, bestowed a kiss on him as well as the victorious lanky redhead after the match was over.

This was the first performance on a cross-country tour. Receipts grossed $47,120.35. Ticket prices ranged from $1.10 to $7.70.

The crowd, definitly sympathetic to Budge, whom a majority thought would wind up on the short end, groaned when Budge started off with a double fault and an out. The red head dispelled any fears he had stagefright in his first big indoor match by punching a clean ace past Vines on the next point and continuing to take his service with a blistering backhand cross court smash.

Breaks Vines' Service.

Vines took the next two games, but Budge broke through Vines' punishing service to even matters at 2-all. Budge took the lead for the first time on an ace and two near aces plus Vines' missing an easy backhand, but Vines held his own service with loss of a single point, winding up with an ace.

Budge appeared unnerved, but only for a moment, when he missed the ball completely on a would-be overhead smash and then proceeded to net with his usually unfailing backhand. Vines then made four straight errors.

Leading 4-3 and sensing the kill, Budge hammered on relentlessly and Vines cracked under the pressure. Either he was passed or forced into errors as Budge ran out the set, 6-3.

Vines Launches Attack.

Vines carried the first game of the second set to deuce on a third and successful kill from the net after Budge had shoved back two smashes, but could not hold his service. Budge made it 2-0 on three nets by Vines and a beautiful backhand passing shot. Vines held his second service, but Budge made it 3-1 on a great running forehand cross-court shot, two passing shots, and Vines' errors. Here Vines pulled himself together with three burning services and a cross-court return which Budge could not touch.

Vines continued by hammering through Budge's backhand corner and had the amateur king running his legs off. Three successive errors by Budge allowed Vines to take a 4-3 lead. This was his last threat. Budge drew even on his own service and took the next two games and the set.

Budge Turns on Power.

Vines opened the final set by taking his serve with loss of only one point, but lost his advantage by punching three straight hot Budge serves outside. Vines made one last effort to pull through with a killing service that was too much for the redhead.

From this point on, however, it was all Budge. He raced away with five traight games for his professional debut victory. He took to the net with abandon, crowding Vines into submission.

Vines teamed with Bruce Barnes of Dallas to win a doubles exhibition from Budge and Dick Skeen of Los Angeles. The score was 6-1, 6-4. In a curtain raiser, Skeen whipped Barnes, 6-2, 6-4.

Leone Efrati, former Italian Golden Gloves featherweight candidate, remains one of the most popular fighters in Chicago despite his recent setback at the hands of Leo Rodak.

At the moment White City and Park Casino promoters are fighting for his services. Promoter Sam Abruscato is bidding for his appearance in a rematch with Frankie [Kid] Covelli in White City Jan. 13 and Izzy Kline, Casino representative, is trying to match Leone with Pete Lello for the west side arena Jan. 11.

Drop Overlin-Blair Plans.

At the same time it was learned that Abruscato has dropped negotiations for a headliner involving Ken Overlin and Frankie Blair for Jan. 13.

The White City promoter also said plans have failed for a ten rounder between Tom Kennedy, recent conqueror of Tony Musto, and Alex Kettles, South Bend heavyweight, for presentation Jan. 20.

As a result Promoter Abruscato has decided to spend his time stimulating interest in his next show, which will be held Friday topped by a ten round return bout between Willie Joyce, Gary junior lightweight leader, and Bobby McIntyre of Detroit.

Draw in First Bout.

McIntyre, who achieved one of the greatest feats of his career when he upset Billy Marquart Dec. 14, was held to a draw by Joyce in their first meeting Dec. 21.

Jimmy McNeill, 150 pound battler from Dallas, Tex., is paired with Alex Pug in a four round supporting match. Jenkins, lightweight stablemate of McNeill, is paired with Joe Law in a six rounder. Jenkins has won three of his last four contests, his victims being Lew Feldman, whom he defeated April 8; Sammy Musco, Dec. 2, and Ted Tellos, Dec. 29.

A five rounder involves Charley Jerome, Milwaukee middleweight, and George Mitchell of Detroit.

Jim McMillen and Fritz Von Schacht meet in a wrestling bout tonight in Rainbo auditorium, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. In other engagements Ken Fenlon faces Jack Hagen, Rudy Kay opposes Bull Curley, Babe Kasaboski encounters Roy Rickenbacher, and Rocky Dempsey meets Pierre La Belle. . . . Four amateur boxers from Lafayette, Ind., will clash with Chicago representatives in a series of matches in Madison Athletic club Friday. . . . Stanley Pinta and Pat Murphy are matched in the main event of the mat card in Cicero stadium Monday. F. M.

SMILIN' JACK—SELLING THE BOOK

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—ICE AS THIN AS SMOKE

Pit Terrier Is First at Start, Also at Finish

Miami, Fla., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Showing great improvement over his first Florida start, Pit Terrier, a 3 year old son of Bull Dog owned by Stroube & Collins, scored an easy victory over seven others of his age in the Pahokee purse at Tropical Park today. Breaking fast, Pit Terrier showed the way past every post and finished the six furlongs in 1:12 3-5. He finished three lengths ahead of C. W. F. Scott's Col. Scott, a rank outsider which beat Mrs. J. N. Kelly's Repeller by two lengths for the place. The winner returned $6.60 on a $2 straight ticket, while Col. Scott paid $20.40 to place.

Rosen Does His Part.

Pit Terrier received nice handling from Joe Rosen, who completed a double in the feature race and widened his margin over Col. Scott in the last quarter.

J. W. Parrish's Stockboard, which ran fourth in the Kentucky Jocky club stakes last November, was made favorite in his first race today, but he dropped out of contention after being bumped hard just after the half mile post.

A dead heat between Manly and Onrush in the last race helped keep things interesting for the fans. Manly paid $10.10 for $2 and Onrush $6.60.

JOANNY WINS EASILY.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 3. — (AP) — Joanny, J. Shouse's 4 year old filly, got the benefit of a light impost and a good ride to take the feature six furlong claiming event at the Fair Grounds today. Carrying only 98 pounds, Joanny caught the leaders in the stretch and won easily from J. J. Miller's Tunbridge. The favorite, Grey Streak, owned by Mrs. A. M. Creech, was third. A good ride by Jocky Dupuy helped Joanny overcome a slow start. She raced the six furlongs in the fast time of 1:12 1-5, and paid $10.40 for $2.

RYE BEACH ROMPS IN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Millsdale stable's Rye Beach, The Favorite, with Charley Stevenson up, romped to victory by a length and a quarter today in the feature $1,500 seven furlong race at Santa Anita. His time was 1:23. A. A. Baroni's No Dice and Louis B. Mayer's Routine finished second and third respectively. Dah He, Swahili, Valiant Fox, Falerno, and Allanwood trailed.

The day's biggest payoff went to backers of Nevernever, owned by W. E. Boeing, which won the mile and one-half marathon by three lengths from Zor, with Rodnes Pan third. Nevernever paid $58.60. Distribute, the favorite, was out of the money.

THREE SKATING STARS TO MISS WEEK'S EVENTS

Injuries Hit Northwest and C. Y. O. Team Chances.

With ice skating meets scheduled this afternoon, Friday night and Sunday afternoon, the C. Y. O. and Northwest Skating clubs are faced with the problem of winning points in the class A senior men's division, minus the services of several of their best skaters. The skaters of the city also are looking forward to THE TRIBUNE'S annual Silver Skates Derbies, which will be held in Garfield park, Jan. 14 and 15. Entries for the derbies close at midnight Saturday.

Spills in the Catholic Order of Foresters' meet, last Saturday, and in the state speed skating event in Aurora, Monday, disabled an unprecedented number of stars in the senior men's ranks. Leo Freisinger, Bernie Cannata, and Armin Massin, C. Y. O. skaters, and Bob Heckenbach and Bob Sherman, Northwest Skating club, all are injured.

They'll Miss These Boys.

Freisinger, Heckenbach, and Cannata are most seriously injured. The senior men's class A two mile state championship race in Aurora disabled Freisinger and Heckenbach, two outstanding candidates for the 1940 Olympic team. Freisinger suffered a cut of the Achilles tendon of his right ankle and Heckenbach a three inch gash of his right leg above the ankle.

An ankle cut also forced Cannata out of the state meet Monday. Massin and Sherman suffered cuts early in the meet, but both skated the remainder of the day.

Fortunately, Freisinger, Cannata, Sherman, and Heckenbach will not have to skate in the Illinois sectional Olympic trials in Humboldt park today. These were named last week, with four other Chicagoans, to go to the national Olympic trials in Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 18 to 26, on past performance in major competition.

Massin Shows Promise.

Massin was expected to place among the first six in today's trials. Fourteen, including the eight named, and the six others to be selected today, will represent the Illinois Skating association in the Olympic trials.

Freisinger, Cannata, and Heckenbach may be able to compete Friday night at the Chicago park district ice carnival and Mardi Gras in Garfield park.

BRUINS CHECK AMERICANS IN 2 TO 1 BATTLE

N.Y. Sextet Stopped After Winning Four in Row.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins snapped the longest string of consecutive victories the New York Americans have enjoyed during their fourteen years in the National Hocky league when they edged Red Dutton's crippled force, 2 to 1, tonight before 10,000 at the Boston Garden.

It was the Americans' first setback in five games and the second one that the third place club has suffered, also at the hands of the Bruins, in its last nine games.

The action, due to the Bruins' recent heavy schedule demands, and the Americans' short handedness, frequently was ragged and sometimes slow. Four of Dutton's players are sidelined.

Bruins Open Scoring.

The home forces opened the scoring in the first period while Wilf Field was serving a penalty by putting on a power attack that ended with Eddie Shore setting up a goal for Bobby Bauer with a passout from the left corner.

Nels Stewart bounced a thirty foot tallying shot through Frankie Brimsek during the second period while the Boston goalie was watching the fast charging Tommy Anderson. The Boston clincher was provided by Roy Conacher eight minutes before the final bell when he blasted home Jack Crawford's accurate assist from fifteen feet outside.

CANADIENS GET TIE

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The cellar dwelling Montreal Canadiens snapped their three game losing streak tonight as they struggled to a 2 to 2 tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The draw cost Toronto a chance to tie the idle Chicago Blackhawks for fourth place in the standing while Montreal was left two points behind the Detroit Red Wings.

The game was featured by the spunky playing of Syl Apps, star Toronto center, who left a sickbed to bolster the sagging Maple Leafs. He earned an assist on Gordie Drillon's third period goal that gave the Leafs their ultimate tie.

The prettiest score of the night, however, was made by Doc Romnes. The former Chicago center took Harvey Jackson's pass, faked a shot and blasted the puck high into the net for his first goal of the year.

BLACKHAWKS FIRE STEWART AS MANAGER

plans to leave for his home in Boston tomorrow and later go to Florida to rest until the opening of the baseball training season.

While he was complimentary in discussing several players individually, Bill interrupted himself with the comment that "three or four of the Hawks have a certain amount of mechanical ability, but only God could help them think by sending each a new set of brains."

Voss Will Be Bench Boss.

Though the Thompson-Voss "co-coach" scheme was announced, it is believed that Thompson will be manager in fact. Owner McLaughlin is said to feel that games should be directed from the bench and since Thompson still is one of the best players in the hocky business, he will be able to spend no more than a few minutes at a time on the bench. The bench duties, therefore, will be performed by Voss, probably subject to Thompson's O. K.

It is said that Thompson was offered the full managership after the Hawks had absorbed a 2 to 0 whipping in Boston, Dec. 6, for their third setback in a row. Thompson, a Stewart loyalist, didn't like the set-up at the time, according to reports.

Confidants of the dismissed manager said last night that he did not suspect the bounce was imminent. Knowing the reputation of Maj. McLaughlin as a whimsical hocky nabob, he insisted upon a two year contract before resigning his position as referee in chief of the National Hocky league to accept the Hawk portfolio. He had supposed he would at least serve out this contract, which does not expire until the close of this season, next April.

Defense Irks Stewart.

That Stewart might not have suspected he was being blamed for the deficiencies of his playing cast perhaps was reflected in his attitude after last Sunday night's collapse. In the dressing room after the foldup Stewart berated his inert defense, concentrating especially on Earl Seibert. It has been a matter of common comment that "any chorus girl in Sonja Henie's troupe could skate around the Hawk defense." Several weeks ago Defenseman Alex Levinsky was set down several days for indifferent play. The suspension was made by President Bill Tobin of the Hawks.

The Hawks' offense, whether because of the management of Stewart or the coaching of Thompson, or for some other reason, has been greatly improved. The defense has been putting on tableaux of handsome manhood in a relaxed mood. Many have considered these supposed barrier lads much too immobily statuesque for hocky purposes, however. Both of the co-coaches now in charge of the team are forwards. Whether they have been empowered to buy several agile and wide-awake defense players remains to be seen.

Thompson, who is 29 years old, in addition to being a fine hocky player, is a personable gentleman, who will have the support of his players for as long a span as any athlete can retain the support of fellow players. The mine run of hocky players is not different from any other group of professional athletes. Most of the lads everywhere are hearty subscribers to the practice of letting the manager take the blame.

Voss a Scout.

Thompson broke into pro hocky with the New York Rangers in 1925. In 1931 the Hawks got him in exchange for Art Somers and Vic Desjardin. He led the American division in scoring last season with 44 points. He has been slow to get going this year, but recently has been in his customary form.

Voss was picked up as a free agent last year after being released by the now extinct Montreal Maroons. He has been with the Buffalo team, the property of the Hawks, assigned to scouting duties.

Cavaliers and Parks Meet Again Tonight

The La Salle Hotel Cavaliers and the Parks Clothiers from Oklahoma City, Okla., members of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. Basketball league, will meet for the third time tonight in the first game of a double-header in the Coliseum. In the second game the leaders of the New Century league, the Tumavicks, will play the leaders of the Mid-City league, the Dr. E. F. Bennett Shamrocks.

In their last game with Oklahoma City the Cavaliers were beaten by one point, 41 to 40, in the final thirty seconds of play.

The Oklahomans are looking to Dick Smith, formerly of Northwestern State Teachers' college, who was chosen for the All-American team last year at the National A. A. U. tournament and was leading league scorer, averaging thirteen points per game, to reveal more of his tip-in ability.

Ray Meyer, who captained the Notre Dame squad for two years, is one of the La Salle mainstays. Others are Irwin Witty, forward, from New York university; Paul Amundsen, from the University of Chicago; Cy Singer, from Indiana; Jerry Gracin, from Southern California; Harold Dembo, from Illinois Wesleyan, and Larry Kruse of Duquesne.

The Oklahomans boast three giants, Tower Johnson, 7 feet 1 inch tall; Goalis Wellhausen, 6 feet 10, and Grady Lewis, 6 feet 7.

MEET TWO PENN TEAMS

Two Pennsylvania teams will come to Chicago next Monday night to play De Paul and Loyola on the double-header program in the Madison street armory. De Paul will open the card with Duquesne and Loyola will meet Villanova.

Duquesne, known in the east as the "team with the winning complex," is coached by Charles R. [Chick] Davies, one time eastern professional star, who has directed the Dukes since 1923. During that time his teams have won 208 games while losing only 71, giving them a percentage over the fifteen year span of .745.

REPORT T. C. U. SEEKS TITLE GAME WITH TENNESSEE

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Commercial Appeal said it had learned tonight Texas Christian university's football team had challenged the University of Tennessee to a postseason game to settle "the national championship." The story said the entire Tennessee team, which yesterday defeated Oklahoma in Miami's Orange bowl, "stood ready to go through with the contest."

At Miami, Fla., John Barnhill, assistant Tennessee football coach, said a New York promoter had broached the idea of a "national championship" game with Texas Christian, but the Volunteers had received no challenge. Barnhill said Coach Robert Neyland received a telegram from the promoter, whose name Barnhill did not remember, before leaving on a fishing trip.

At Fort Worth President E. M. Waits of Texas Christian said he knew nothing of the purported challenge and expressed doubt it had been made.

Kelvyn Park Victor, 53-36, Over Foreman

Kelvyn Park defeated Foreman, 53 to 36, in a West section game as the Chicago Public High School Basketball league's junior division opened its championship race in two sections yesterday. Five games were played, four in the Central section.

Weeg, a forward, scored 27 points for Kelvyn Park, including 11 by free throws. He was the day's high scorer.

In the Central section, Harrison whipped Kelly, 40 to 27; Manley defeated Du Sable, 33 to 18; Lindblom beat Phillips, 24 to 20, after gaining a 10 to 3 lead in the first quarter, and Tilden, after trailing, 22 to 15, at the third quarter, rallied to beat Farragut, 30 to 29.

Kaplan, Mosely, and Shain were Harrison's stars in the victory over Kelly, scoring 35 of the 40 points. Freidin stood out for Manley in the DuSable battle, scoring five field goals and six free throws. Lineups:

Petrones Defeat Collegians, 29-25, in WindyCityLeague

The Petrones defeated the Collegians, 29 to 25, in the Windy City Basketball league last night in the Park Casino. The conquest gave the Petrones a berth in the first round playoffs. It was their fifth victory in six starts. The Miller Nationals beat the Kokots, 44 to 26. In the girls' contest the Queen Annes of Hammond whipped the Taylor Trunks, 29 to 28, in the last few seconds.

Wildcats Open Big Ten Race with Purdue

Northwestern's rebuilt basketball team, victorious in only two games of a seven game practice schedule, will open the Big Ten season against Purdue at Lafayette Saturday with hopes none too bright for a successful getaway.

Coach Dutch Lonborg, with but one regular back from last year's third place quintet, has spent the pre-conference season experimenting with new players in the forward and center positions. Not until the Notre Dame game last Saturday did the Wildcats come up with a front line which worked effectively, and even this combination failed to click against Southern California Monday night.

Shepard Helps Offense.

Bob Shepard, a sophomore who started the season at guard, was moved to a forward position where his ball handling and marksmanship apparently has earned him a regular assignment.

Although Koble and Harman are the team's leading scorers, with 46 and 37 points, respectively, they have not contributed much in the last two games and may be hard pressed to retain their starting positions in the face of competition from Don McCarnes, sophomore center, and Al Butherus, sophomore forward.

Maroons Meet Gophers.

In addition to the Northwestern and Purdue game, the other conference teams also will swing into action Saturday night. Minnesota, victorious in seven straight practice games, will entertain Chicago's improved five at Minneapolis. Illinois, also undefeated in its warmup games, will be host to Michigan, which won six straight games before losing to Toledo Monday night. The remainder of the week-end card finds Indiana at Ohio State and Iowa at Wisconsin.

GIANTS TO PLAY 21 EXHIBITIONS, OPEN WITH A'S

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The New York Giants today announced a twenty-one game spring exhibition series, opening against the Philadelphia Athletics March 11 in Lake Charles, La. They will play four games with the A's, eleven with the Cleveland Indians, and one each with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago White Sox.

The others will be scheduled with minor league teams—two against the Jersey City Giants and two against Memphis. The Giants will travel north with the Indians, finishing their schedule in the Polo Grounds April 15 and 16.

The schedule:

March 11-12, Athletics at Lake Charles, La.; 13-19, Jersey City at Baton Rouge, La.; 22-23, Athletics at Baton Rouge; 25-26, Cleveland at Baton Rouge; April 1-2, Cleveland at New Orleans; 8, Pittsburgh at Baton Rouge and Memphis at Memphis; 9, Chicago White Sox at Baton Rouge and Memphis at Memphis; 10, Cleveland at Monroe, La.; 11, Cleveland at Fort Smith, Ark.; 12, Cleveland at Greenville, Miss.; 13, Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn.; 14, Cleveland at Richmond, Va.; 15-16, Cleveland at New York.

INDIANS BOOK SPRING GAMES.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 3. — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians announced today a twenty-four game schedule for the spring training season, including seventeen games with major league opponents. Eleven games are scheduled with the New York Giants, four with the Philadelphia Athletics, and one each with the Chicago White Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Bennett Five Whips Rands; Goldens Beat Swifts, 39-34

Dr. E. F. Bennett's Shamrocks widened their Mid-City Basketball league lead by beating the Bill Rands, 38 to 33, in St. Rita gymnasium last night. The Golden Clothes, only quintet to defeat the Shamrocks, assured themselves a spot in next week's playoffs by whipping Swift & Co., 39 to 34.

2 Cotton Bowl Games Loom as Director Quits

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A split between the Cotton Bowl association and J. Curtis Sanford, who holds the organization's charter, a copyright on the name and a lease on the Cotton Bowl stadium, may lead to two rival post season football games in Texas next year. The break became known yesterday immediately after the Cotton Bowl game which drew 40,000 spectators. Both factions announced today that they plan to continue the series.

Dan D. Rogers, president of the Cotton Bowl association, said that Sanford had withdrawn as director general of the organization ten days ago after he had split with the other members on matters of policy.

"The association's board, appointed by representatives of the Southwest Conference schools, will work toward holding a post season game in Texas next year," Rogers said. "Mr. Sanford has a lease on the Cotton Bowl stadium that has two more years to run, but there are other stadiums."

Rogers also verified the fact that Sanford holds the charter on the Cotton Bowl association and has copyrighted the name.

Sanford issued the statement: "I will definitly hold another Cotton Bowl game next year—and for years to come."

Sanford put on the 1937 and 1938 games as an individual promoter. When the Cotton Bowl association was formed he was retained as director-general at a salary reported to be $10,000 a year. Then days ago, it was reported, he informed the board that he wished to revert to the former basis, drawing a percentage of the receipts.

Duke Starts That Long Ride Back to Hills

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A dejected band of Duke university football players today entrained for home, while their conquerors in yesterday's Rose Bowl football game, Southern California's Trojans, celebrated a 7 to 3 victory.

Quietest and saddest of the losers was Wallace Wade, whose nearly perfect Rose Bowl record was marred by the defeat. That defeat was the first handed to Duke following a regulation schedule in which they had triumphed over Pittsburgh, Colgate and seven other teams. It also marked the first time any one had crossed the Carolinians' goal this season.

Wade Is Noncommittal.

Wade refused to make any comment on the outcome of the game, in which the Trojans' fourth team, led by Half Back Doyle Nave and End Al Krueger, scored the touchdown which cinched the game. Nave, who threw the scoring pass to Krueger, had been a bench warmer for two years, and it appeared that he would not be rewarded with a letter, but today he was assured of one.

Coach Howard Jones and the Trojan players had nothing but praise for the Dukes, whom they called the hardest hitting team they faced this year. They complimented the work of Eric [The Red] Tipton, Bolo Perdue, Dan Hill, Tom Maloney, and Fred Yorke.

Gate May Set Record.

No official gate figures were available today, but the 91,000 who saw the game were estimated to have paid $325,000, breaking the record of $306,421 taken in at the Southern California-Pittsburgh game of 1930.

New System Arranged for Midget Auto Races

The Gilmore style of racing, a system which handicaps the faster cars in qualifying races, will be used during the midget racing season in the 124th Field Artillery armory, Len Bernard, president of the Western Speedway, Inc., said yesterday. Starting next Sunday night, when the winter championship season gets under way, the drivers will be lined up in qualifying races inversely to the speed of their time trials.

GOLDBERG WANTS TO COACH, BUT HE MAY JOIN CARDS

Only Few All-Stars Hanker for Pro Jobs.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—College football stars who participated in the annual East-West charity game here plan varied careers but only a few of the forty-four have expressed any interest in the professional game.

The jingle of money may influence decisions between now and the next season, but a survey today disclosed only four of the eastern players and five on the western were prepared to talk terms with professional teams.

Goldberg Wants to Coach.

Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh half back, wants to become a coach. Associates on the East squad believe he will change his mind and play professionally if the offer is large enough. He was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals.

Members of the eastern squad willing to consider pro ball include Wilbur Moore, Minnesota half back; Ralph Heikkinen, Michigan guard; Louis Daddio, Pittsburgh end, and Joe Mihal, Purdue tackle.

Manders Is Receptive.

Professional football sounds good to Sam Boyd, Baylor end; Dick Farman, Washington State tackle; Clarence Manders, Drake back; Tony Calvelli, Stanford center, and Jimmy Johnston, Washington back, all western players.

Other eastern luminaries look forward to vocations as follows:

COACHING—Joseph Delaney, Holy Cross tackle; Don Wemple, Colgate end; George Faust, Minnesota back; Frank Petrick, Indiana end.

BUSINESS—Francis Twedell, Minnesota guard; Robert McLeod, Dartmouth back; Clif Wilson, Harvard back [business school course]; Dick Wehler, Temple center [accounting]; John Wysocki, Villanova end; Howard Weiss, Wisconsin full back; Harold Stebbins, Pittsburgh back; John Pingel, Michigan State back [law school]; Sidney Roth, Cornell guard; Jim McDonald, Illinois center [labor relations work]; Don Siegel, Michigan tackle [Naval reserve, wants commission as regular]; Walter Shinn, Pennsylvania tackle; Bill Osmanski, Holy Cross back [dentist].

Western ambitions:

COACHING—Ed Bock, Iowa State guard; Jack Rhodes, Texas guard; Walt Neilsen, Arizona back; Dick Trzuskowski, Idaho tackle; Charles Brock, Nebraska center; Vic Bottari, California back.

Others: Al Braga, San Francisco back [insurance]; Billy Patterson, Baylor back [law school]; Blas Mistovich, San Francisco tackle [teaching]; Al Wolff, Santa Clara tackle, and Art Means, Washington guard [mechanical engineers]; Joe Kendlick, Oregon State end, and Presscott Hutchins, Oregon State guard [Oregon state police]; James Coughlan, Santa Clara end [business]; Dave Anderson, California back [forestry]; Bill Paulman, Stanford back [petroleum engineer]; Charles Hellman, Iowa State end [factory management].

U. S. HOCKY TEAM PICKED; SAILS TODAY

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Nine players were selected by the Amateur Athletic union tonight for the hocky squad which will represent the United States in the world's amateur championship tournament in Switzerland next month.

The players, selected after a series of tryouts and announced by Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., are:

Jack Hutchinson of Boston will be manager and coach.

The team will sail at noon tomorrow on the S. S. Manhattan. Plans have been made for five games in Belgium and Holland and four more in Switzerland before the championship starts on Feb. 2. The championship games will be played at Basel and Zurich, Switzerland, and will continue through Feb. 12.

Loyola Plays Santa Clara Quintet at Home Tonight

Santa Clara's basketball team will play Loyola in the Loyola gymnasium tonight. The game will begin at 7:45 o'clock, a half hour earlier than Loyola home contests, to permit Santa Clara to catch a train for the Pacific coast.

BANKS' HOLDINGS OF DIRECT U. S. OBLIGATIONS DIP

But Total of Guaranteed Issues Rises in Week.

Member banks of the federal reserve system reduced their holdings of direct obligations of the federal government by sixty-seven million dollars in the week ended Dec. 28. This was disclosed yesterday by the federal reserve board in its weekly report on member bank conditions in 101 leading cities. The banks increased by fourteen billions their holdings of obligations fully guaranteed by the government.

The banks' holdings of direct federal obligations totaled eight billion 266 million on Dec. 28, an increase of 248 millions over the total held on the corresponding 1937 date. Holdings of fully guaranteed obligations totaled one billion 732 millions, an increase of 616 millions over the 1937 date.

Lend Less to Commerce.

Loans made by the member banks to commerce, industry and agriculture declined fourteen millions in the week ended Dec. 28 to a total of three billions 843 millions. The total outstanding was 758 millions less than the amount a year ago.

Loans made by the banks to commerce, industry and agriculture are watched as a barometer of business conditions. Generally as business expands loans increase and as business declines the loans dwindle.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Cattle Live in Luxury.

January 3, 1939.

STEERS live in luxury under the modern cattle feeder's methods. At the Tribune farms they are fed balanced rations and bedded on straw indoors. They walk on concrete floors in the feed yards, where they are exercised in favorable weather, and drink water kept at the proper temperature.

Slow fires warm the water tanks night and day. When the thermometers neared zero recently a heater was installed in a tank in the cattle feeding yard at the Du Page county farm. The heater, resembling a colossal sheep herder's pipe, was stuck down in the tank with only the smoke stack and fire door projecting above the surface of the water. With a small amount of corn cobs and sticks smoke was kept curling constantly from the stack.

45 Degrees Is Best.

Enough coals were in the heater to prevent the water from freezing. An effort is made to hold the water at a temperature in the neighborhood of 45 degrees. Good cattle feeders have found that it is best not to give steers ice water. They also have learned that the water should not be warm.

By keeping the water from freezing, the cattle drink more in winter. The caretakers see that the steers are provided with all the fresh water they can drink, at least five gallons a day for each animal.

If the western steers now on feed at the farms have a memory, they undoubtedly are surprised to find iceless water waiting for them in the tanks when they are turned out of their warm barns on mornings when the temperature is down near zero. At home on the range last winter they drank from holes chopped in the ice by cowboys, or perhaps they were compelled to lick snow at times to quench their thirst.

Insulation Helps.

Experienced cattle feeders at the farms say that where heaters are not available farmers are fairly successful in preventing water from freezing to the bottom of the tanks by insulating them with sawdust, straw, or litter from horse stables. Covering the tanks, leaving only room enough for one or two steers to drink at a time, is another trick used in winter by cattle men where they are feeding twenty or thirty steers.

Whether the water is heated or kept from freezing by insulation, the tank or trough should be protected from cold blasts of wind. Many feeders prefer to have the tanks outdoors behind a windbreak so steers can take a sip of water on their way from the outside feed bunks to the barn or shed.

Cold Stirs Appetites.

Appetites of the forty-two Hereford steers on feed at the Du Page county farm have been stimulated by the recent cold wave. It has been necessary to increase the amount of grain in their fattening ration.

This week the steers' daily ration has been increased to the point where they are getting 600 pounds of grain mixture [two-thirds corn and one-third oats], 800 pounds of corn silage, 42 pounds of cottonseed meal, 42 pounds of soy bean meal, and all the hay they care to eat. Home grown soy beans are made into meal on the farm by running them through a feed grinder equipped with one-fourth inch mesh screens. Some of the beans are from the 1937 crop, but still are in good condition.

BRITISH POUND LOSES 1½ CENTS IN NEW PLUNGE

Begin London Rush to Convert Funds.

The value of the British pound slumped to the lowest level in several months in international exchange transactions yesterday.

Exchange dealers said a first of the year rush to convert balances in London into other currencies contributed to the fall of the pound.

At one time sterling was off 2 cents from Saturday's quotation. The final price of $4.62½ represented a net loss of 1½ cents.

With the fall in the pound the quotation on gold in the London market rose to new all time peak in terms of British currency. The metal was quoted at 150 shillings ½ penny an ounce. This was equivalent in terms of American currency to $34.78 an ounce, slightly above the figure at which it is considered profitable to ship gold to the United States.

Withdrawals Exceed Normal.

There is normally an increase in international capital movements at the beginning of the year. Dealers expressed the opinion, however, that the withdrawals of capital from London this year are apparently greater than usual.

Two other factors were cited to account for the pound's weakness. Great Britain is shipping gold to this country to settle payments growing out of trade between the two countries. The balance is heavily in favor of this country. Furthermore, dealers said, there has been a loss of confidence in the British government's policy of appeasing the demands of the dictator countries.

Some other European currencies did not share in the pound's weakness. Moderate gains against the dollar were made by Belgian and Swiss currencies, which were strong also in relation to the pound. French francs were off moderately in terms of the dollar, closing 0.005 cent lower at 2.62 cents.

Cut French Discount Rate.

The Bank of France announced that directors have approved a reduction in the bank's rediscount rate from 2½ to 2 per cent. The step was said to be an indication of a strengthening in the external position of the franc. The new rate is the lowest in effect in two years. The rate was raised several times last year in an effort to check the outflow of French capital.

Bar silver advanced 1½ pence an ounce [about 3 cents] in the London market. This followed announcement Saturday by the United States treasury that it would maintain its old price for domestic silver. The advance in London raised the price to 21⅛ pence [about 44.05 cents], compared with the New York price for foreign silver of 42.75 cents. At the end of 1937 the treasury cut its price on domestic silver from 77.5 cents an ounce to the present 64.64 cents.

BUYERS ARRIVE AS TRADE SHOW PERIOD OPENS

An influx of merchants and buyers into Chicago began yesterday as the first of a series of trade shows opened. In the next forty days, 58,000 persons are expected to attend thirty-five merchandise exhibits, the Chicago Association of Commerce said.

Yesterday was the first day of the National Shoe Fair, at which attendance is expected to exceed 10,000. Other lines which will follow quickly with meetings are furniture and home furnishings, tobacco and wares handled by retail tobacco stores, men's wear, food, sporting goods and general merchandise.

Spring and early summer merchandise will be stressed at the exhibits, in which 3,000 local and 1,100 out-of-town manufacturers and wholesale distributors are participating.

Monopoly Probe Hearings Will Be Resumed Jan. 16

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The federal monopoly investigating committee has decided tentatively to resume hearings Jan. 16. Justice department officials will testify regarding possible changes in the anti-trust laws.

Inland Steel Co. Fires Big New Blast Furnace

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A big new blast furnace was lighted yesterday at the Indiana Harbor work of the Inland Steel company. Two years were required to build the furnace, which has a daily capacity of 1,000 tons of pig iron. If all goes well in the steel industry the fire lighted yesterday may be expected to burn four or five years.

Mrs. Madeline Block Straus.

The lighting of a blast furnace means jobs for workers in the industry. It's a tradition in the iron and steel industry that when a blast furnace is lighted there should be a celebration. As several hundred steel workers looked on, Mrs. Madeline Block straus, daughter of P. D. Block, president of Inland, pressed a button that started the fire. Whistles blew and the workers cheered.

Furnace 185 Feet High.

The fire will burn for about 34 hours before it will be ready to produce iron. It will operate at full efficiency in four or five days.

Madeline No. 5, as the new furnace is named, is about 185 feet high, with the effective furnace height about 100 feet. It cost several million dollars.

When working at capacity the furnace will consume daily about 950 tons of coke produced largely from east Kentucky coal, 2,000 tons of ore brought to Indiana Harbor from the Lake Superior iron country, and 500 tons of limestone from Manistique, Mich. About 4,000 tons of hot air, heated in four "stoves" to about 1,400 degrees Fahrenheit, are forced daily under great pressure into the furnace.

Cuts Coke Requirement.

The hot air is used to reduce the amount of coke required in maintaining the 3,500 degrees inside the blast furnace. The coke, iron ore, and limestone are poured into the furnace at the top. The gas created in the process of converting the ore into pig iron is drawn off at the top of the furnace and used, among other things, for heating the air that is blown into the bottom of the furnace. The interior of the furnace is lined with fire brick that must be replaced after four or five years of operation.

Inland's new furnace raises the total of blast furnaces in the Chicago area to thirty-seven, of which eighteen are in operation.

Steel Output Up to 50%.

Steel mills started the first week of the new year with operations at 50.7 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This was an increase of 11.9 points over the indicated output of 38.8 per cent a week ago. The recovery from the holiday slump had been predicted.

Indications of revival in steel buying were disclosed in orders for rail and structural steel. The Northern Pacific railway ordered 30,000 tons of steel rail for track replacements this year. The American Bridge company reported that it had booked about 12,500 tons of structural steel in the last week.

The Bethlehem Steel corporation received an order for dam work at Hawthorne, Ia., requiring 1,900 tons of structural work and two bridges in Texas taking about 1,400 tons of shapes.

BOARD OF TRADE POLITICS WARMS AS VOTING NEARS

Board of Trade politics warmed up yesterday. A petition nominating John G. McCarthy for president of the exchange was filed. Barnett Faroll also is a nominee. The annual election will be held Jan. 9.

R. I. Mansfield, previously nominated for second vice president, withdrew as a candidate, although he had no opposition. Kenneth S. Templeton, now president of the exchange, was immediately nominated for second vice president. Orrin S. Dowse is without opposition for first vice president.

There are twelve candidates for directors of the exchange for three year terms, of which five are to be elected. There are two contestants for a short term directorship. A committee of arbitration and a committee of appeals also will be chosen at the election.

REFORM IN PORT FEES URGED TO REDUCE BURDEN

Sacrifices Shown as Rails Lose Suit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—There is a growing demand for closer control over port charges, which, along with federal government impositions, are placing a heavy burden on shippers.

The piling up of sundry charges has in many instances caused railroads to make sacrifices in their own rates, at or from docks which they operate, to obtain business.

An example of this was shown today when the United States Supreme court ordered seven railroads operating in the port of New York district to cease providing storage and warehouse services to shippers at less than cost.

Illegal Concessions Claimed.

The carriers had appealed from a ruling of a special three judge federal district court ruling in New York which upheld an interstate commerce commission order demanding the increase in rates. The I. C. C. claimed that the rates charged by the carriers for warehousing and storage services were so low as to constitute illegal concessions to shippers.

The railroads involved were the Baltimore and Ohio, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Erie, the Lehigh Valley, the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. There have been other cases in which the railroads have been ordered to cease sacrificial rates, established to offset the increasing toll of other port charges.

Numerous Fees Cited.

For instance, the port of New York, under discussion in the case before the Supreme court today, has twenty-one different charges in connection with the docking of a vessel and the handling of its cargo. In addition, the treasury department of the federal government imposes fees for quarantine services on vessels from foreign ports. There are separate fees for inspection, detention, and fumigation.

The customs service alone has ten various types of fees for entry or clearance of a vessel. One of these places a charge of $10 to $100 on the changing of a vessel's name. There is a tonnage tax of 2 cents per net ton imposed on vessels from far flung ports of the world.

The twenty-one individual port charges mentioned include pilotage, dockage, towage, stevedore costs, handling, surveying, wharfage, storage, switching, weighing, and the fees of ship brokers, custom house brokers, and freight brokers.

Facilities Sometimes Leased.

American port terminal facilities, such as wharves, docks, and warehouses, are sometimes owned or leased by water carriers themselves, but often are owned by the railroads or by states, municipalities, or private corporations. A large portion of the 2,000 terminals in New York port are municipally owned and under the supervision of the New York port authority.

The demands for closer regulation of charges are falling upon the I. C. C. and the United States maritime commission, which share supervision as far as the federal government is concerned.

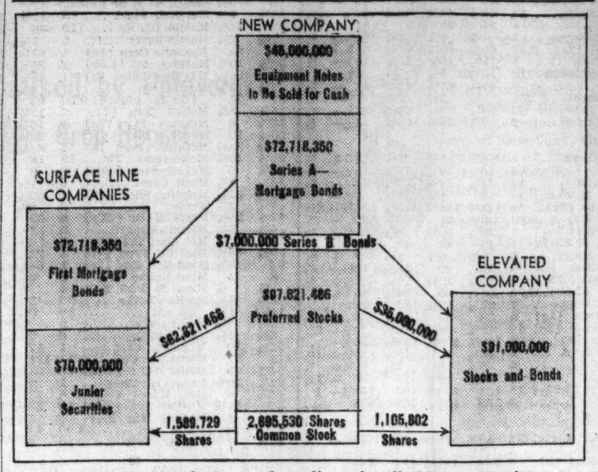
How Jurisdiction Is Split.

If the port charges are in connection with interstate commerce by railroad or motor truck, they are under the jurisdiction of the I. C. C. Charges that involve water transportation are supervised by the maritime commission.

Officials of both commissions admit there has been no special effort made to cut or eliminate the pyramided charges. The war department makes an annual survey of port and terminal charges, but without recommendations. The maritime commission also is making a similar study now.

Joseph B. Eastman, member of the I. C. C. has been a constant proponent of even higher charges for port facilities.

TRACTION MERGER PLAN



All except one of the surface lines bondholders committees are in agreement with elevated railways committees on a plan for merging the two systems. The merger plan contemplates the formation of a new company that would acquire the present systems through an exchange of securities. Modernizing of the consolidated system would be financed with available cash and the proceeds of the sale of 45 million dollars worth of equipment certificates. The elevated company groups have not yet determined how their share of the new bond and stock issues would be distributed to present securities holders. This chart shows the proposed financial setup.

Walgreen Co., Edison Order Dividends Paid

The Commonwealth Edison company, the Walgreen company, and the Katz Drug company were among the corporations that announced dividends yesterday.

Directors of Commonwealth Edison voted the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the capital stock, payable Feb. 1 to stockholders of record Jan. 14.

The Walgreen company declared the usual quarterly dividends of 25 cents on the common stock, payable Feb. 1 on shares of record Jan. 13, and $1.12½ a share on the 4½ per cent preferred, payable March 15 to stockholders of record Feb. 24. The company operates a chain of drug stores.

Katz to Pay 12½ Cents.

The first dividend on the common stock of the Katz Drug company since June 15, 1937, was voted by the directors. The payment will be 12½ cents March 15 to stockholders of record Feb. 28. The board also authorized the regular quarterly dividend of $1.12½ on the 4½ per cent preferred to be paid April 1 on shares of record March 15.

The Northwest Engineering company will pay 25 cents on the common stock Feb. 1. The company last distributed $1 a share Dec. 20.

After postponing the usual January dividend, which is declared in December, the Holland Furnace company directors authorized a dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, payable Feb. 11 to stockholders of record Feb. 1. The directors announced in November that the payment would be postponed until after the corporation had been reorganized under a Delaware charter.

CHICAGO HOME BUILDING GAINS IN LAST YEAR

Permits Total 1,426 During Period.

BY AL CHASE.

Home building was the most active branch of the construction industry in Chicago during 1938. According to figures made public yesterday by Building Commissioner Richard Schmidt, permits for 1,426 single family dwellings were issued last year. This was an increase of 391 over 1937.

1938 Volume Below 1937.

Despite optimistic predictions early in 1938 the year's total for all types of buildings failed to exceed that of 1937 in value, although more permits were issued. Last year there were 1,930 permits for buildings valued at $21,258,299. In 1937 the total was 1,844 permits for construction valued at $28,806,443.

Home construction also was outstanding in December. Permits were issued for 107 homes, compared with only 31 in the same month of 1937. A total of 202 permits for single family dwellings was issued during November.

More Permits in December.

Permits for buildings of all types during December showed nearly a 300 per cent gain over the same month of 1937. The number was 136 for buildings valued at $2,408,725. In December, 1937, fifty-eight permits for structures valued at $886,175 were issued.

Last month's permits exceeded November's in value, but were smaller in number. The November permits totaled 262, for buildings valued at $2,308,950.

BUS, STREET CAR AND 'L' TRAFIC IS BELOW YEAR AGO

December trafic of the Chicago Motor Coach company was 0.37 per cent less than in the corresponding month of 1937, the company reported yesterday. This was the smallest monthly decline shown by any of the public carriers in the city. Total 1938 trafic of the coach company was 0.91 per cent less than the 1937 volume.

The Chicago Surface lines reported December trafic declined 36.1 per cent from a year ago.

December trafic of the Chicago Rapid Transit [elevated] lines decreased 6.37 per cent from trafic in December, 1937. Cumulative 1938 trafic figures were not available for the surface and elevated lines.

CITY'S TRACTION PROBLEM SEEN NEAR SOLUTION

Plan 110 Million in Improvements.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Final settlement of Chicago's traction unification and modernization problem appears to be in prospect for 1939.

The principle of unification of the local transportation lines—a requirement of the city for franchise settlement—has been adopted by all the parties. There has not been a final agreement on the terms of a merger of the traction lines, but minor concessions by some of the parties will clear this hurdle.

Philip Harrington thinks subway start will speed unification.

The two major systems—the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] are close to accord on a merger deal. Representatives of both systems are scheduled to appear before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on Jan. 10 to report if they have been able to settle their remaining differences.

Plan One System.

Since the street car lines went into receivership twelve years ago because of bond defaults, most reorganization efforts have been coupled with plans to merge the system with the elevated. The latest series of merger negotiations have produced a plan to form a new company which would combine the car lines and the elevated with provisions for absorbing the Chicago Motor Coach company.

The plan has been agreed to by the committees representing holders of elevated securities and all except one of the car lines groups. If this last group finally withdraws its objections to the rating of a 7 million dollar bond issue allotted to the elevated, the companies can then approach the city to deal for a franchise for a unified system.

The city's policy is fixed. It is that a complete unification must be effected as the price of a new ordinance. And all the operating companies need franchises.

Old Franchises Ended.

The old 1907 car lines franchises expired in 1927, but were kept alive until last summer by successive short-term extensions granted by the city council. In an effort to force the unification matter the council allowed the old ordinances to die last July.

The franchises of the elevated railways for the Lake street and south side lines have expired and the coach company never had a city franchise.

If the companies iron out their merger differences the next step—negotiating a franchise—can be taken after the submission of the merger deal to securities holders for their approval. The details of obtaining bondholders' consents probably would require two or three months.

Issues to Be Settled.

Much of the franchise work has been done in negotiations between city and company representatives during the last year. The major controversial issues, including valuations and compensation to the city, are

NLRB Wins Court Fight in Ford Case

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The national labor relations board today won a procedural victory in its case against the Ford Motor company. The Supreme court, in an opinion delivered by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, upheld a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals permitting the labor board to withdraw its case against the Ford company for the purpose of correcting its record and thus escaping judicial review of its conduct.

Following the Supreme court's decision in the Kansas City stockyards case on May 2, 1938, condemning the arbitrary star chamber conduct of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, the labor board ran for cover because its own procedure had been identical with Wallace's.

Can Start New Proceedings.

It obtained permission from various circuit courts to withdraw cases in which it was charged that a fair and open hearing had been denied. The Ford company sought to force the board to defend a bad record, but the board now will be able to institute new proceedings and follow the procedure prescribed by the Supreme court. Its original order directed the Ford company to cease and desist from certain alleged unfair labor practices and to reinstate with back pay certain discharged employés.

In an opinion delivered by Justice Harlan F. Stone, from which only Justice Hugo L. Black, President Roosevelt's first appointee, dissented, the court held unconstitutional Washington state's "business activities" tax as applied to interstate commerce. The act levied a tax of ½ per cent on the gross income of all persons, including corporations, engaging within the state in any business activity.

Declared Burden on Commerce.

Gwin, White & Prince, Inc., a Washington corporation which acts as a marketing agency for fruit growers and coöperative organizations in Washington and Oregon, contended that the tax as applied to its business was an unconstitutional burden upon interstate commerce. Reversing the Washington Supreme court decision, Justice Stone's opinion read:

"For more than a century . . . it has been recognized that under the commerce clause, congress not acting, some protection is afforded to interstate commerce against state taxation of the privilege of engaging in it."

In his lone dissent, Justice Black disputed Justice Stone's assertion that the principle applied today had been recognized for more than a century.

Black's Taxation Theory.

The 11 page dissent expressed his radical theory of taxation as follows:

"A business engaging in activities in two or more states should bear its part of the tax burdens of each. If valid, nondiscriminatory taxes imposed in these states create 'multiple' burdens, such 'burdens' result from the political subdivisions created by our form of government. They are the price paid for governmental protection and maintenance in all states where the taxpayer does business. A state's taxes are not discriminatory if the state treats those engaged in interstate and intrastate business with equality and justice. If the combined valid and nondiscriminatory taxes of many states raise a problem only congress has power to consider that problem and to regulate with respect to it."

All of Drexel State Bank Directors Are Re-Elected

All directors of the Drexel State bank of Chicago were reëlected at a meeting of the stockholders yesterday. William J. Katzberg and Herbert A. Bruckner were elected to the board of the Cicero State bank. They will fill two vacancies.

Aviation List Drags Others Down.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3. — [Special.] — Weakness in aviation shares today grounded the stock market on the first trading day of the new year. Selling in this group—in which losses were around three points—was associated with the possibility that the proposed government spending on aircraft would be curtailed.

Losses in other pivotal stocks ranged to around two points. Of 834 issues traded 407 declined, 257 gained, and 170 were unchanged. Volume was 1,152,880 shares.

At the outset a smattering of demand gave the list a steady appearance, but offering of aircrafts toward the end of the first hour communicated an easier tone to the rest of the list. Prices fluctuated narrowly throughout the rest of the session.

Sperry Among Losers.

United Aircraft, Douglas, Glenn Martin, and Wright Aero were hard hit, each losing more than two points. Sperry, Bendix, Boeing, and North American Aviation also declined. Curtiss-Wright dipped a fraction in the most active trading of the day.

Steel shares declined, despite the forecast of a sharp rebound in steel operations this week. United States Steel and Bethlehem each lost more than 1 point.

In the motors, Chrysler dropped 1½ points. General Motors dipped a fraction. Yellow Truck was active and higher. Continental Motors and Greyhound eased.

Leading copper, oil, and rubber stocks lost fractions to more than 1 point. Carrier shares were active, with the price trend obscure. Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, and Illinois Central eased.

Power Shares Change Little.

Narrow movements prevailed in the power and light shares. Detroit Edison was an exception, with a jump of 4⅝ points on a few sales. Chemicals lost up to 2 points in Allied. Paramount Pictures added a fraction on good buying. Montgomery Ward, off 1⅝, was conspicuous in the mail order section.

Heavy machinery shares were mostly lower, paced by Electric Boat. Several specialties were active and higher. Among them were Commercial Solvents, Radio corporation, E. G. Budd Manufacturing, and Certain-teed.

OUR BEST YEAR

In '38 the First Federal loaned over $2,300,000.00, financing mainly the buying or building of homes in our community.

In '38 the savings and investment facilities of the First Federal brought safety and a good return to almost twice as many investors as before.

The First Federal is a civic institution to safeguard the savings of thrifty citizens and to encourage debt-free home ownership through special financing service.

Cold figures do not measure the First Federal's community service in creating jobs and in building character and citizenship through fostering self-reliant thrift and home ownership.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Bonds moved unevenly today. Rails felt the force of selling, although there were some points of resistance. Top rated loans edged up to a new high average level under institutional buying.

Ahead fractions to more than 2 points at the close were Columbia Gas and Electric [April] 5s at 94, Baltimore and Ohio first 5s of '48 at 56, Central New England 4s of '61 at 36, New Haven collateral 6s of '40 at 26¾, Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s at 105½, Nickel Plate 5½s at 61½. Bonds losing fractions to around a point included New York Central 5s, American and Foreign Power 5s, Delaware and Hudson refunding 4s, New Haven convertibles 6s of 48, and Southern Railway 4s.

United States government loans were quiet, ending 5-32ds higher to 5-32ds lower. Foreign issues were depressed by fresh weakness in the Italian group. A few South Americans improved a little.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were irregular yesterday in the first trading session of 1939. Shares sold totaled $35,000. THE TRIBUNE average of twenty stocks finished at 11.69, up 0.08 from Saturday.

Volume leaders followed mixed trends. Zenith Radio advanced 1½ points to 21½, and Armour closed ⅛ higher at 5⅞. Central and Southwest Utilities was ⅛ higher at 1¾. Lincoln Printing closed at 4⅞, up ⅛.

Bendix Aviation dropped 1½ to 28½, Illinois Brick was off ½ to 6 and General Motors slipped ⅜ to 49¾. Commonwealth Edison lost ⅛, closing at 27¼. Marshall Field was off an equal fraction at 12¼.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks closed mostly lower yesterday in a fairly large turnover, dealers reported. Losses of $2 each were shown by shares of the Chicago Title and Trust company, City National bank, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and First National bank. Stock of the Harris Trust and Savings bank advanced $3.

DECKER & COHN, CLOTHING MAKER, HAS LOSS IN YEAR

MiramWalker-Gooderham Profit Declines.

Operations of Alfred Decker & Cohn, Inc., and subsidiaries in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 resulted in a net loss of $242,051, Alfred Decker, president, reported yesterday. The loss compared with a net profit of $76,576 in the preceding fiscal year.

Alfred Decker.

The corporation makes and distributes men's clothing. Its manufacturing plants are in Chicago.

"In common with the entire clothing industry, our company felt the full impact of the latest national depression," Decker said in his annual letter to stockholders. "Our three year period of sales progress and profit was interrupted by a sharp decline in sales which resulted in a loss of $242,051.

Much of Loss in First Half.

"This experience was in keeping with the condition which prevailed generally in the industry. A large part of the loss for the year was incurred in the first six months."

Decker said orders for next spring are about 20 per cent ahead of a year ago. The corporation now is in good position to get the benefit of any improvement in business, he said.

Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts, Ltd., distillers, reported consolidated net profit of $1,795,921, or $2.32 a common share, for the quarter ended Nov. 30. This compared with $2,250,996, or $2.95 a share in the corresponding 1937 quarter.

Collins & Aikman Net Falls.

Net income of the Collins & Aikman corporation and subsidiaries in the nine months ended Nov. 26 was $369,651 after deduction of $200,000 for hurricane and flood losses. This was equal to 34 cents a share on common stock, and compared with $2,884,263, or $4.81 a share, in the corresponding 1937 period.

CITY'S TRACTION PROBLEM SEEN NEAR SOLUTION

Plan to Spend 110 Millions on Improvements.

still to be settled. However, the franchise terms could be worked out in short order if unification is agreed to.

To the securities holders, a settlement will mean getting the traction companies out of the courts with the prospect of intensive development of the properties. To the public it will bring modern transportation.

The merger dealings have used the so-called Shaw plan as a basis for combining the elevated and street car systems. This plan was prepared by Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to Judge Wilkerson. Shaw is now acting as a special examiner for the court with broad authority to force the unification issue.

Experiments with New Equipment.

The big contribution to the combined system will be made by the surface lines. This system carries more than three-quarters of all transit riders in the city. It is prepared to go ahead with modernization. It has experimented with new equipment and is in a position to place orders for new cars and buses immediately after a franchise settlement is made.

Most important, it has the cash to start a modernization program. Under the terms of the old 1907 ordinances, the car lines were required to set aside part of their income for renewal of equipment. There is now on hand approximately 19 million dollars in this renewal fund. And there is another 12 millions in general treasury cash, much of which has been accumulated during the receivership years.

City and company officials are in substantial agreement on a physical plan for modernizing the transit lines. The plan contemplates the expenditure over an eight year period of 110 million dollars in modernizing and extending the lines.

Plan New Cars.

About 70 million dollars would be spent rehabilitating the surface system and 40 millions on the elevated. The plan envisions the purchase of 1,000 lightweight rapid transit cars and the replacement of 3,100 old street cars with modern cars and buses.

Supplementing the company improvements will be a subway construction program at an estimated cost of 62 million dollars. The initial stage of subway building got under way two weeks ago with the start of the State street subway. This tube and a northwest subway in Dearborn and Lake streets and Milwaukee avenue, are to be completed in 1940 at a cost of 40 million dollars.

Another 22 million dollars, under the city plan, would be spent for completing the west side subway to form a loop for additional west side trains and building two tunnels to take east-west street car lines underground through the central business district.

Hopes for Solution.

Philip Harrington, city subway commissioner, hopes that the traction settlement will be completed in the first half of 1939.

"Chicago's transportation problem," said Harrington, "apparently is on the way to being solved. In the last three years the loose ends have been gathered.

"The beginning of the subways without waiting for traction settlement will, in my opinion, play an important part in bringing that settlement about. This is the first time that a city administration has had the courage to go ahead with subways without tying up the project with a traction ordinance. The administration will build the tunnels and see that they are used when completed."

Tennessee Group Gets Insurance Firm Control

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Cecil Woods and Robert Evans of Nashville and six Chattanoogans today purchased controling interest in the Volunteer State Life Insurance company here. It has assets listed at $24,000,000 and active life insurance of more than $100,000,000. Woods, who will replace Col. Richard Kimball as president, has been manager of the real estate and mortgage loan department of the National Life and Accident Insurance company in Nashville.

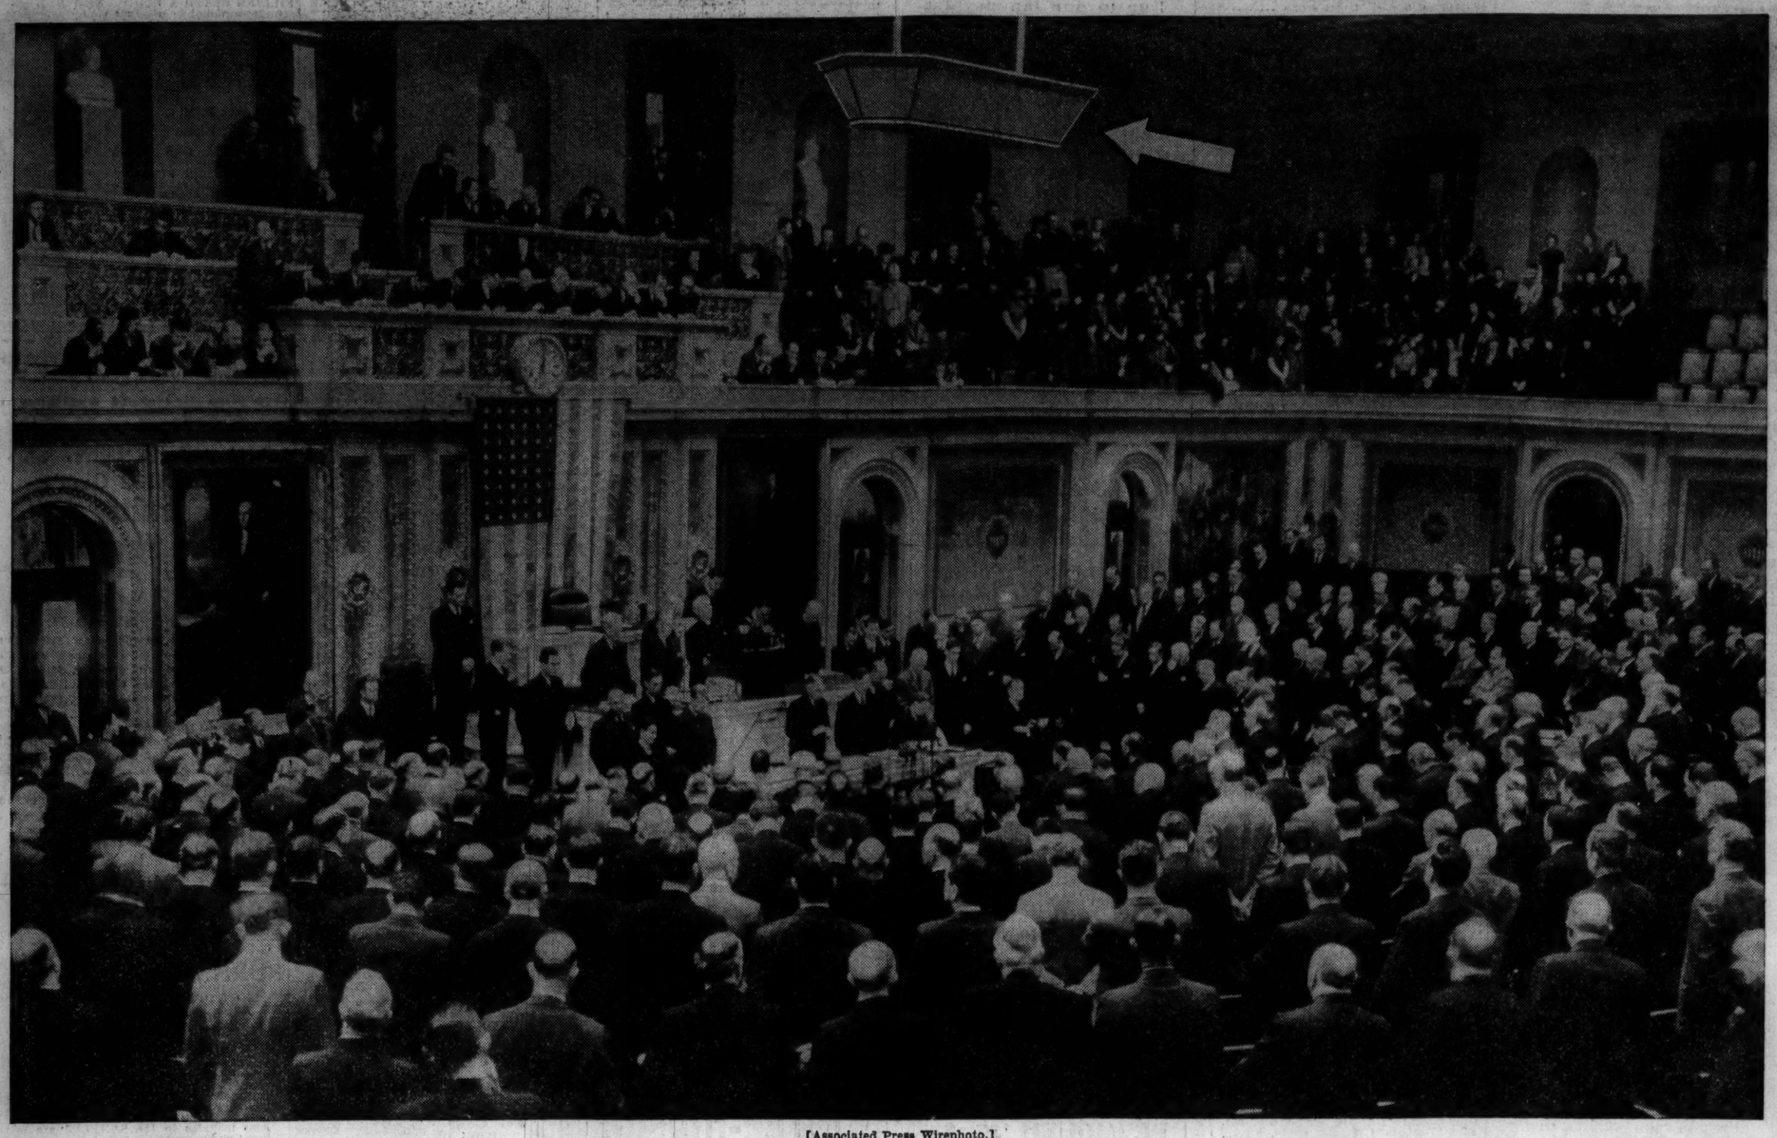
Congress Ready to Hear President Roosevelt's Message Today—Jackie Coogan and Betty Grable Live Apart



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Beneath an amplifying device (arrow), called the "flying coffin" by congressmen, the Rev. James Sheba Montgomery delivers the invocation in the house at opening of 76th congress.

The "flying coffin," new at this session, is designed to make even the faintest voiced law maker audible in the chamber. (Story on page 3.)
